Listen To Customer, Farm Market Panelists Say

ANDY ANDREWS

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — A sellout crowd jammed the Hershey Convention Center Trinidad Room on Tuesday to hear how retail marketers succeeded in the vegetable and fruit farm market industry.

More than 400 people attended the afternoon session, "Making Big Bucks — Successes and Failures in Retail Markets" at this year's Pennsylvania Vegetable Conference and Trade Show.

Farm market representatives from Pennsylvania and other states listened to the panel describe certain "secrets of the trade" in running a successful direct marketing business.

What the panelists agreed on was simple — you have to have quality merchandise and the right atmosphere that keeps customers coming back.

Quality to start

"It's easier to sell in the market when you have quality to start with," said Bob Trax, Trax Farms, Finleyville. Trax Farms operates a vegetable and fruit production operation on 375 acres and leases another 250 acres. Trax said that the store regularly stocks corn, tomatoes, and peaches all through the season, because people come in "day after day" for those items. He said it is important not only to pick quality produce, but to choose quality employees.

Several marketing ideas tried by Trax Farms includes an 8-ounce bottle of cider made into a six-pack version. During the apple season, about 200 bags of seven to eight

Agent To Bring 4-H To Poland

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Until recently, for the children of Poland, it was all work and no play, which made for some painfully dull days.

But thanks to the efforts of leading agriculture experts who recently toured the large eastern European country, some rays of hope for the children and for the countrywide ag industry are shining in.

Several Pennsylvania representatives will soon make a journey to the country to further the efforts of youth in agriculture. One of those to introduce the 4-H way of life to Polish children will be Zoann Parker, Lancaster County 4-H agent.

The children of Poland "work, they go to school, they sleep," said Parker. "Again, they work, they go to school, they sleep. They need a social outlet. And so 4-H can offer that to them."

Mission to Poland

On February 14, a one-month mission to Poland begins for a team of U.S. extension professionals, including Dr. Donald Evans, Penn State University, chair of the team; Dr. Daniel Pfannstiel, Texas A & M Univeristy; and Parker.

The team will arrive in Warsaw, Poland, where they will meet and discuss current high school ag curriculums with the Polish minister of agriculture and food economy. Then, for nearly a month, the team will visit sites in south, west, and east Poland — working with the schools, local extension offices, and school administrations, said Parker.

"I'm going to be out in the schools and the community, and we are going to start a couple of very basic local 4-H clubs, teach them some of the games that we play that teach leadership skills, how to run a 4-H project, and do some hands-on programming," she said.

Parker, working with an interpreter, will be bringing in 4-H project books, such as gardening, rab-

Oakenbound Farms No. 8 In Nation For Bulls Tested

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

RICHLAND (Berks Co.) — More than 20 bulls from the Oakenbound herd are in USDA animal model summaries, making the Berks County dairy farm eighth in the United States for the most number of bulls being tested.

According to the data, the Oakenbound farm has 27 proven bulls averaging a +124 pound for protein, +1,025 pounds milk and predicted transmitting abilities (PTAs) of +29 protein and +34 fat.

Impressive, by any standards.

And it is not lost on the Troutman brothers, Nelson and Richard Jr., who said they are pleased with the results of their breeding program.

But selling breeding stock is a side business. The main business at Oakenbound Farm is running a profitable dairy operation that can pay its bills and maintain two households.

They do that by milking an average 90 registered and grade Holsteins.

"When Butch (Richard Jr.) and I took over, we made some major changes in management to go along with changes in the industry.

"My goal is to really be profitable and take care of our cattle so we have longevity," Nelson said.

The family operation is basically comprised of a 127-freestall building and a 63-stanchion milking barn. There are also calf, heifer and bull facilities, a TMR setup (They have been using TMR for at list 15 years and are on their third mixer.), and bunk feeding.

The farm sits in a tiny, smooth-edged valley north of Rt. 422, near the Lebanon County border. It's not very visible from the road except for the roofs of the buildings and the silos jutting high. The soil is deep and good for production of the corn, alfalfa and soybeans they raise on the farm's acreage and the additional rental property.

The brothers are in their third year of jointly purchasing the farm from their father Richard Sr., who lives in a house at the mouth of the farm lane where a hand-painted Holstein sign proclaims the entrance to Oakenbound Farm.

There's also a shed and a sign at the lane entrance which advertises the Troutmans' willingness to take neighbors' newspapers to use as bedding.

Richard Sr. contributes to the operation, doing jobs such as watering and feeding silage to

Lancaster County Farmers' Association Elects First Woman President

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County Farmers' Association chose its first woman president recently.

"I didn't want the job. I don't have time. And I said 'no' two times," Jane Balmer said.

But in typical Balmer style, Jane said, "Somebody's got to do it. I didn't want to lose the Association so I took the job."

Jane is familiar with doing jobs that need to be done. In 1978, her 39-year-old husband died of a heart attack. "I had two loves: my husband and the farm. I lost my husband, but I wasn't about to lose the farm," she said.

Through hard work and determination, Jane has been able to maintain two farms with a total of 188 acres. She eventually sold out the dairy cows and concentrates on raising 100,000 chickens, 80 hogs, and about 55 steers.

Her two children were teen agers at the time, but now her daughter, Belle, is married and has a daughter, and her 24-year-old son, Bryan, works full time on the farm.

Balmer also has a full-time and several part-time employees, but it's she who does "everything but the mechanical work" to keep the Elizabethtown farm profitable.

Her husband had been a member of the Lancaster County Farmers' Association. When he died, Balmer saw the benefits of remaining part of the Association, which has Lancaster County Farmers' Association president Jane Balmer believes in doing what needs to be done even if it isn't easy. Widowed in 1978, Balmer has been determined to continue farming. It has not been easy, and Balmer does not foresee easy changes in the farm economy either, but she is convinced that the Pennsylvania Farmer's Association is the best organization to legislate changes.

New York & Philadelphia Frozen Eggs

Tuesday, January 28, 1992

Prices trending higher as a reflection of rising costs. Traders were cautious and sales were difficult to make as asking prices continued an upward climb. Raw materials were usually adequate to fully adequate for current schedules. Floor stocks were fully sufficient to cover current trade needs.

Trucklot buying interest was light and unaggressive. Offerings of boneless skinless breasts were light to moderate and in fairly good balance; extra supplies were generally limited to less than trucklot volumes. Whole breasts were adequate to occasionally fully adequate with yellow supplies in the closer balance. Leg items were adequate to fully adequate with several dealers noting increased availability of leg quarters this morning, and a generally heavy supply of white. Wings continued ample and slow to clear.

National Egg Market

Wednesday, January 29, 1992

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices were unchanged. The market tone was steady to firm in the South, and steady elsewhere. Retail specials continued to provide the best demand, and overall movement ranged light to fairly good, mostly moderate. Supplies were short to adequate in the South, and adequate in all other regions. Southern breakers continued to seek breaking stock with a willingness to pay premium prices, while the rest of the breakers usually met needs with regularly committed shell eggs. Live hen demand continued to improve in the South and East as offerings decreased, and the Midwest undertone was steady.

You'll Get Consistent, Risk-Free Performance From New Funk's G® Brand Hybrids

4393 105 Days | 4472 110 Days | 4530 113 Days | 4624 118 Days

New Funk's G brand hybrids deliver consistent performance even under the stress of heat, drought, marginal soils or disease pressures. So you'll get virtually risk-free performance in good years — and in bad years.

Backed by CIBA-GEIGY research

You see, these hybrids are backed by nine years of CIBA-GEIGY Seed Division research. With local testing in growing conditions just like yours. That kind of research produces hybrids capable of standing up to anything mother nature has to offer. Hybrids that maximize your profit potential, while minimizing your risks.

Get complete performance

Plus, you get performance across the board. With big yields. But with 95% or better standability... 25% or less moisture... and intactness ratings under four. And you get all that in the maturity groups you need to spread your risks even more.

Limit your risks

Get risk-free performance on your farm today by calling Hoffman Seeds, Inc. You'll enjoy the peace of mind that comes from planting these new Funk's G brand hybrids.

717-687-0990
We Are Dedicated To The Farm Community!
OUR BIGGEST CONCERN IS YOUR TOBACCO MARKET!

ATTENTION DAIRY FARMERS!

Milk prices are dropping again. Farmers can put upward pressure on milk prices by working together.

When all farmers speak as one, their voice is loud.

Come to the N.F.O. dairy information meeting,
February 6, 9 a.m.

Bart Twp. Fire Hall, Georgetown, PA
To make reservations and arrange transportation, call by February 3.
Lunch is free. Let's learn some ways we can put upward pressure on milk prices.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

FEB. 3-9, 1992

Chinese New Year, Feb. 4.

Feb 3, 1894, Norman Rockwell is born . Feb 4, 1941, the United Service Organizations (USO) is founded to serve the social, religious, and educational needs of people in the U S armed forces . Feb. 6, 1788, Massachusetts ratifies the Constitution, thus becoming the sixth state of the Union . . Feb. 8, 1693, the second oldest college in the country, the College of William and Mary, is chartered . Feb. 9, 1819, Lydia Estes Pinkham is born . . It is the mark of a good action that it appears inevitable in retrospect — Robert Louis Stevenson

Ask the Old Farmer: My husband's family used to operate a grist mill where the fine flour was said to be "bolted " What is this process? L.J., Kan

"Bolting" as applied to flour or meal simply means sifting to remove the coarser particles

Home Hints: Remove crayon marks from floors with toothpaste

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Clear and mild to start the week, then turning colder with heavy snow by midweek The weekend brings sunshine followed by more snow.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Sunny skies and mild temperatures start the week. Becoming cloudy and cold by midweek, intermittent snow through the weekend.

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Clear, warm weather starts the week, followed by a mid-week cold snap and snowstorm Then clear and seasonable, but clouds end the week.

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Cold temperatures and a snowstorm with rain in the east through midweek Sunny and seasonable weather, followed by showers

OPINION

Safety With Animals

Farm animals require proper care and management. Accidents associated with caring for and handling farm animals can hurt both people and animals, and cut into profits. Protect yourself by thinking safety each time you enter places where animals are kept.

- Wear protective clothing, footwear, gloves and headgear as the job demands.
- Provide good footing for handling operations. Keep floors and ramps clean and clutterfree.
- Train all workers in safe livestock handling.
- Have adequate restraining and handling facilities and equipment.
- Leave yourself an "out".
- Be careful with animals that are frightened, hurt, sick or have young. Be cautious around strange animals. Handle males, especially bulls, with respect.
- When treating or caring for sick or birthing animals, wear rubber gloves and other needed protective garb. Don't smoke or eat until you've washed and changed contaminated clothing. Practice good sanitation. Protect yourself and others from animal-borne diseases (zoonoses) such as undulant fever, tetanus, salmonella, rabies and leptospirosis. Inoculate pets.
- Use the appropriate respirator when working in confined housing to protect against organic dusts and other air pollutants, and when performing maintenance or cleaning jobs which cause dust. Use a self-contained breathing device when entering confined spaces where toxic gases may be present. Ventilate such spaces as much as possible before entering.
- Protect children by keeping them out of animal facilities, bins, silos and other hazardous areas. Be safety-conscious when working with animals.

NOW IS THE TIME

By John Schwartz
Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Protect Electronic Equipment

The past several years has seen a big increase in the use of electronic equipment on the farm.

Many farmers are using computers and do not even know it. Computers are monitoring the environment in poultry and swine houses by controlling the fans, heaters, and even the curtains.

Feeders are being controlled by computers. With this increase use of electronic components, farmers need to be concerned about protecting this equipment from power surges, spikes, and noise.

The equipment to protect your electronic components is relatively inexpensive compared to the cost of replacing damaged computers and other electronic devices. You should be looking for surge protection that will handle at least 210 joules (amount of energy device will handle before it fails), response time of less than or equal to 1 nanosecond, EMI/RFI filtering, multistage layer of defense (at least 3), and maximum clamping rating of 330 volts (maximum voltage allowed to get through the device).

By providing adequate surge and noise protection now, you will be helping to prevent a major repair bill in the future.

To Follow Withdrawal Times

Drug residues continue to be a major consumer food safety issue.

To maintain consumer confidence in our food products, we must make sure all antibiotics are used correctly.

Today's testing procedures are able to detect smaller and smaller traces of drug residues. If you must use an antibiotic, make sure you read the label and follow all directions.

The keys are: make sure the drug is licensed for the animal vou are treating, the proper dosage is used, and withdrawal time is followed. Keep a written record of the animal treated, lot number and name of drug used, dosage given, and dates and times the drug was administrated.

By using antibiotics only when needed, in the proper dosage, and following withdrawal times, we are helping to protect our markets. All it takes is one misuse of drugs or chemicals to cause people to stop buying your product and create large economic loses.

To Be The Best

Difficult economic times, like we are now experiencing, force the best to become better and the good to go out of business. This is especially true in our highly competitive agricultural industry.

Whether you are a grain, dairy, pork, or poultry farmer — independent or contract producer — you must be looking for ways to become better.

This means spending more time with your animals and crops. Making sure the little things are getting done on time and correctly will improve performance and income.

Such items as having cows bred on time, poultry house warmed up before chicks or poults are placed, frequent gathering of eggs, ventilation system properly adjusted, and the equipment and buildings cleaned and properly maintained all help in staying competitive.

Look for and demand better ways to do things. Set higher standards for yourself and work to achieve them. By following the 4-H motto of "To make the best better," you will be insuring your place in farming.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "Take time to be friendly — it is the road to happiness."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

THE LIMITS OF LOVE

Background Scripture: Luke 10:25-37.

Devotional Reading: Matthew 22:34-46.

Have you ever noticed that the parables that Jesus tells seem to have nothing to do with what people believe? The parables always teach us how to live our daily lives. Yet, very often these very practical teachings on how to live have a great deal to do with what we believe.

This is what we see in the Parable of the Good Samaritan. It begins with a question about belief from a lawyer or scribe -- one learned in the religious law: "Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?" Luke tells us that he did this "to put him to the test." He hoped that Jesus would give an unorthodox answer that would spark a doctrinal argument. But Jesus refused to be trapped and turned the question back on the scribe: "What is written in the law? How do you read?" Anxious to show his expertise, the scribe replied with a quotation taken from Deuteronomy 6:4 and Leviticus 19:18: "You shall love the Lord your God... and your neighbor as yourself." In response, Jesus says: "You have answered right; do this, and you will live."

KNOWING & DOING

But the scribe once more seeks to embroil Jesus in a theological controversy: "And who is my neighbor?" Jesus could very well have answered him with a one-liner: your neighbor is anyone needing your help whom you can help. Instead, however, he tells a parable that says that and more. Remember, the scribes prided themselves on knowing the law. But in the parable the "hero" is a Samaritan. As a lay person he would "know" far less than a scribe, and as a Samaritan even what little he "knew" would be wrong!

By the careful way in which Jesus crafted his story, he discreetly showed that it is more a matter of doing than knowing. The priest who "passed by on the other side" certainly knew what to do, but didn't. The Levite also knew the right answers, but he too refrained from doing what he could. All Jews knew that Samaritans were all wrong in their religious views. For one thing, they believed the right place to worship God was on Mt. Gerizim, not Mt. Zion in Jerusalem. Yet, although the Samaritan was guilty of "wrong beliefs," he did exactly the right thing: he helped the robbery victim, despite the fact that the victim was a Jew, a sworn enemy of any Samaritan.

LET'S BE REASONABLE

In a sense, the scribe had asked, Jesus to say something about the limits of loving one's neighbor. We can understand that because we too often wonder if love doesn't have some reasonable limits. Obviously, we must help someone in our own family who is in need. We all "know" that, although we may not all act upon it. The same is true of our friends. But what about the family next door whom we hardly know and actually don't much like -- they, with their loud stereos and dog who seems to like our yard a lot more than theirs?

And what about the people on the south end of town who live in perpetual squalor and unemployment? What about those Hare Krishnas who always accost us when we go to the airport? And even if all the others are my "neighbors," surely that doesn't include Saddam Hussein!

The answer is no less hard for us than it was for the scribe: in Christ there are no limits to love.

Farm Credit Bankers Have Long Been Recognized For Achievements In The Field.

Farm Credit bankers possess their share of prestigious achievement awards. But more often than not, the awards they're most proud of are the ones they've earned in, say, conservation, dairy, or veterinary science.

Not many bankers can say that.

That's because most Farm Credit loan officers were born and raised on farms. They grew up active in 4-H and FFA. Many even got their college degrees from ag schools.

What's more, every one of our loan officers goes through the toughest ag lending training program in America.

And because our loan officers understand farming as well as financing, they're not only smarter. They're faster. In fact, they have the power of loan approval equal to most bank presidents.

So stop by soon and talk with your nearby Farm Credit loan officer. Because whenever you need some extra help in your field, you'll want to work with the banker most accomplished in his.

FARM CREDIT®
Nobody knows the field better.

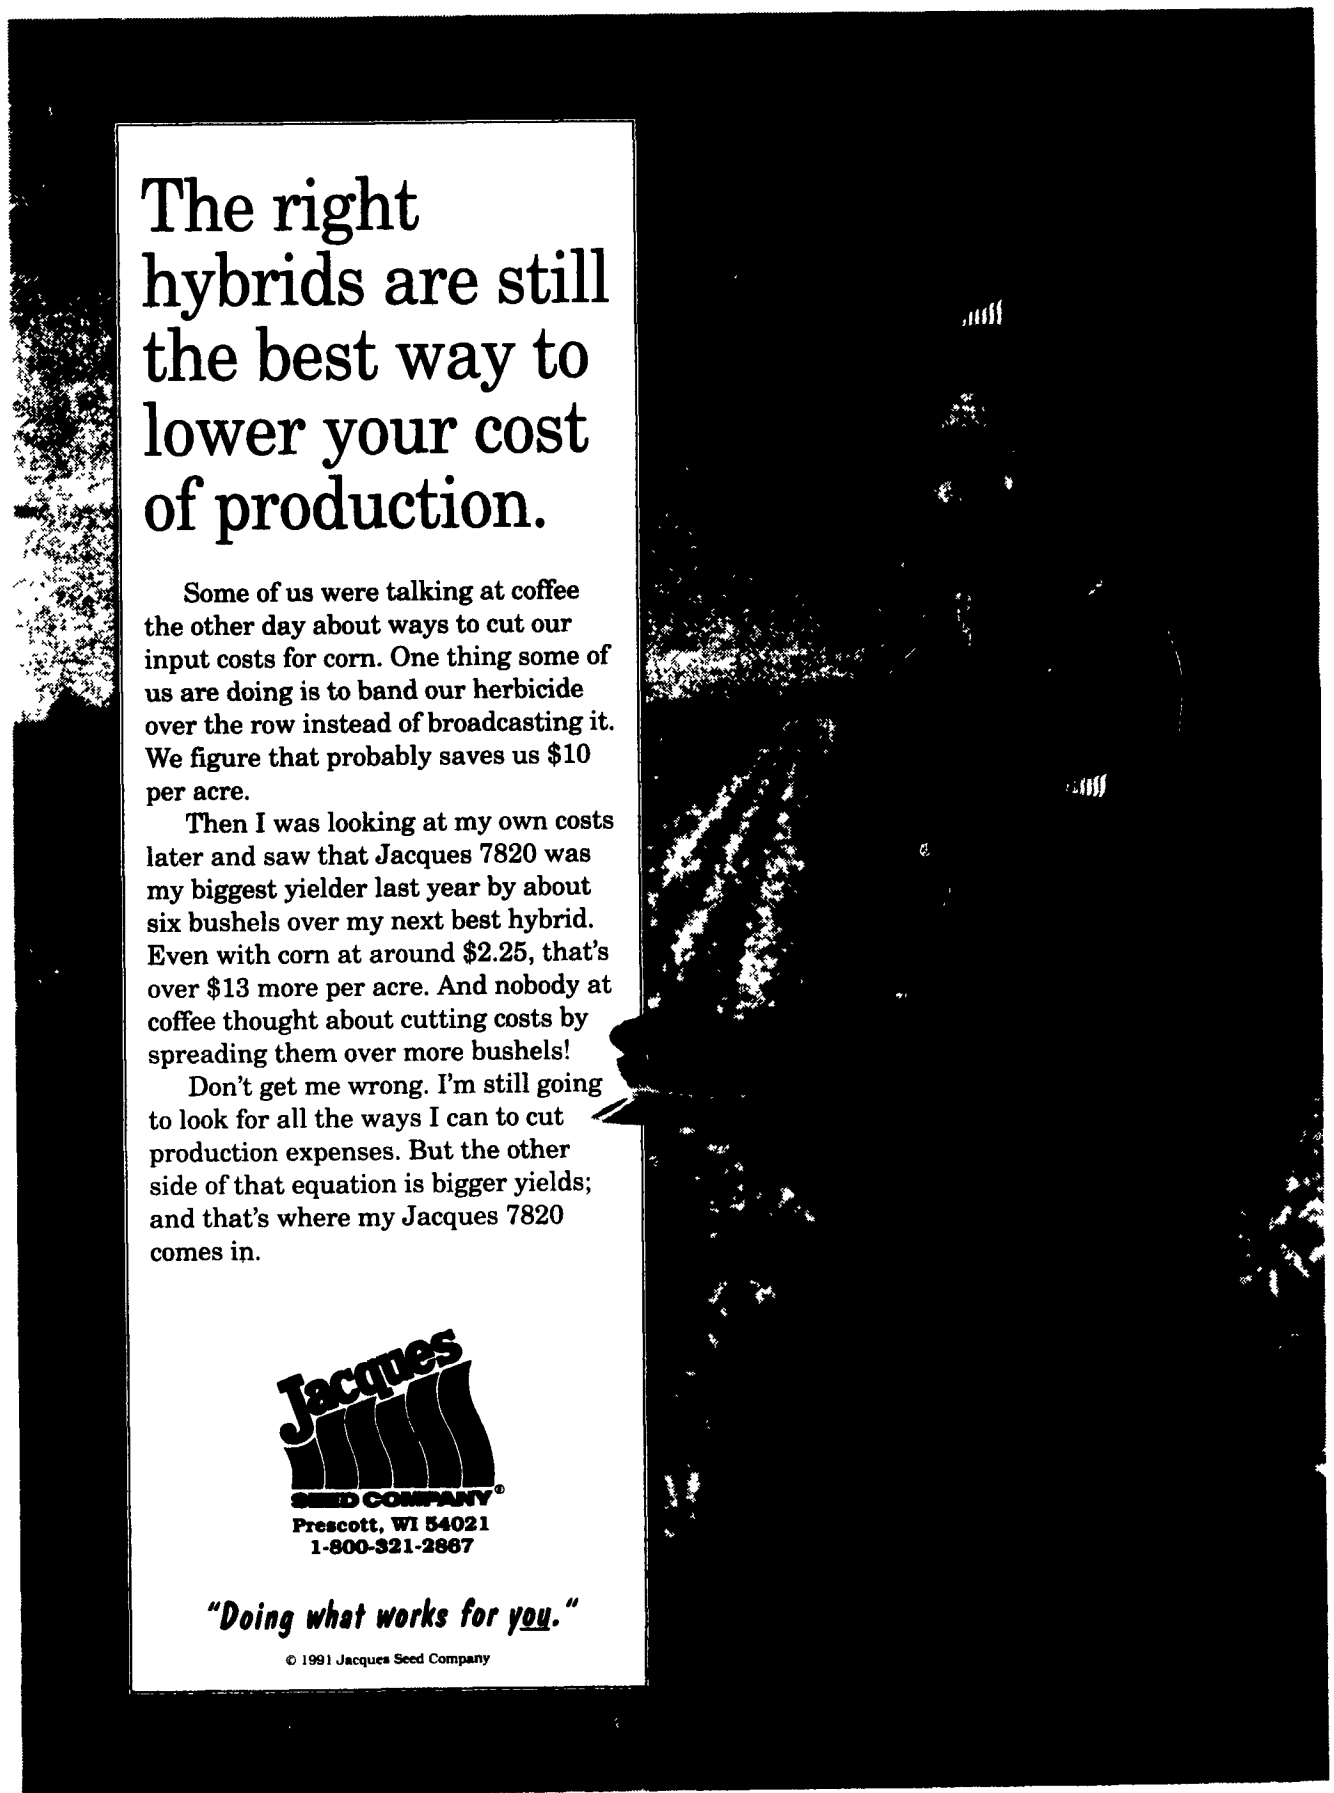
GRAPEFRUIT: 6.00-8.00 4/5 BU.



The right hybrids are still the best way to lower your cost of production.

Some of us were talking at coffee the other day about ways to cut our input costs for corn. One thing some of us are doing is to band our herbicide over the row instead of broadcasting it. We figure that probably saves us $10 per acre.

Then I was looking at my own costs later and saw that Jacques 7820 was my biggest yielder last year by about six bushels over my next best hybrid. Even with corn at around $2.25, that's over $13 more per acre. And nobody at coffee thought about cutting costs by spreading them over more bushels!

Don't get me wrong. I'm still going to look for all the ways I can to cut production expenses. But the other side of that equation is bigger yields; and that's where my Jacques 7820 comes in.

SRBC Hears Requests For Water Use

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Susquehanna River Basin Commission met Jan. 23 at the Robert J. Bielo Building in Harrisburg.

At this meeting, the commission heard:

- Reports on the status of storage reallocation studies at the Curwensville, Raystown and East Sidney Reservoirs, and on the progress made in obtaining buyers for Curwensville storage.
- Approved a Section 319(h) grant application totalling $115,900 for a two-year study assessing nutrient sources, concentrations and loads in the Armstrong Creek Basin, Dauphin County.
- Selected the auditing firm of Boyer & Ritter for the next three fiscal year audits.
- Approved an intergovernmental personnel agreement for the temporary utilization of the service of USGS Hydrologist, H. N. Flippo.
- Following a public hearing, adopted the Lackawanna River Flood Protection Projects into the SRBC Comprehensive Plan.
- Reviewed several pieces of correspondence sent out and received by the Commission.
- And acted on project applications for Armitage Golf Club, the Arundel Corporation and the State College Borough Water Authority.

The commission also held a public hearing on the Curwensville water Storage Reallocation Project. The hearing record will be held open until Feb. 24, 1992, for those who wish to submit any written comments on this project.

The next meeting of the commission is tentatively set for March 12, 1992, at the Robert J. Bielo Building in Harrisburg.

When's The Last Time You Had Your Water Checked?

WATER TREATMENT SYSTEMS™

by AGWAY®

- Acidic water can lower dairy production (as well as corrode pipes and fixtures).
- Hard water leaves mineral deposits that reduce water heater efficiency and make cleaning difficult.
- Bacteria (from animal waste) and nitrates (from fertilizers) create health problems for both animals and humans.
- Iron causes poor grade veal production, smells and tastes bad, and leaves stains.
- Sulfur produces foul odors and stains.

The only way you can be sure your water is safe and pure is to have it tested. And there's no better time than right now.

The Agway Water Sample Kit provides water containers and sampling procedures for a complete computerized water analysis that covers 13 common problems (including bacteria).

If there is a problem, our experienced Water Treatment Specialist will work with you to find the most effective and economical solution, using systems custom designed for agricultural needs. You'll be able to buy with confidence, knowing that we guarantee everything we sell and provide complete installation and service.

bit care, swine, foods, "and some fun ones," she said, "just to show kids that they can have fun, that 4-H is also social."

Teaching directives

Because of recent changes, the directives of teaching have fallen from the hands of the government's student educational arm to the ministry of agriculture.

Because the ministry's main concern is commerce, said Parker, they have asked this team to review their high school agriculture curriculum. It is hoped that, with a few changes in the coursework offered, today's student will be better prepared for the international ag market.

The southern region of the country is made up of 5-6 acre farms that will have to be combined to make them more efficient and profitable. When this restructuring takes place, the youth from these farms will need to become the service and sales personnel.

"They're the ones that need to be retrained into becoming service-oriented people running co-ops, doing fertilize sales, machinery operation . . . so they're the ones we really need to reach through education," said Parker.

Lot of improvements

Parker said the water quality is "a real problem" in Poland, and the people must boil their water. "You would never just open a tap and drink a glass of water," she said. "So they have a lot of improvements to be made, but the improvements are out there. It's not that you have to recreate anything, it's just that slowly but surely they need to be given the decisions and the opportunities."

Several teaching "models" will be suggested at the schools, such as the FFA model, 4-H model, the Pennsylvania Council Co-op Youth Scholar program, and the Governor's School, all in use in Pennsylvania. Parker said even if they don't adopt those models independently, given time, the Polish government can choose the best for their purposes.

"We're only making suggestions," said Parker. "We're not going to to go in there and say you must or you will. It's how it would fit into the system you already have."

The work of former Lancaster Extension Director Jay Irwin and his recent visits to the country have helped paved the way for Parker and the team. Several local 4-H programs were started in the country. According to Parker, when Irwin spoke to the minister, the government became extremely interested in the U.S. models and wanted more information about setting up similar systems.

Share concerns

Lancaster County and Poland share many concerns and opportunities in ag, said Parker. Because of small acreaage farms in the southern region of Poland, horses and mules are used to work the soil.

"The farmers here know how to use their land to the fullest, and so do the farmers in Poland," she said. "The difference lies in the quality of inputs available to the Polish farmer.

"With support from the U.S. and up-to-date information, the Polish farmer of tomorrow (today's student) will be able to make informed decisions concerning their farms and agribusiness."

Parker hopes to bring some of the educational experiences home to Lancaster county.

Better training

"It will be very interesting to see how the adults and youth perceive 4-H, FFA, and the other opportunities we present," she said. "I may be able to offer better leader training for Lancaster County 4-H leaders once I have seen volunteerism through Polish eyes."

For the children of Poland, there is "nothing but a bright spot ahead of them," said Parker. "And 4-H can teach them the leadership skills and the decision-making skills that they'll need to put the country back on its feet and to become agriculturally strong. And their future lies in their youth. 4-H can only strengthen their youth."

In the past, children in Poland were directed at an early age into a program for life.

"Now that they're no longer a communistic society, children get to choose what they want to be," she said. "But no one has taught them how to make the choices, how to make leadership roles, how to be responsible for their own destiny. 4-H does that. And we've done that for years."

Lesher Joins All American

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Lolly Lesher, a long time dairy enthusiast will be joining the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show staff, according to the president of the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association (PDAIA).

"The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show is a highly successful national dairy show, and we will continue to build on those successes. Her activities will further enhance industry relations and better serve the commercial exhibitors," said Obie Snider, president of the PDAIA.

Lesher is succeeding the late David Yoder, as coordinator of fund raising and commercial exhibits.

A graduate of Penn State University, Lesher has a broad background in dairy industry relations. She and her husband own and operate Way-Har Farms in Bernville, Berks County.

Prior to joining the staff of the All-American, Lesher worked for the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program and more recently for Dietrich Milk Products Inc.

The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show is to be held Sept. 21-24 in the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

This nationally recognized dairy event annually serves as host to four national breed shows. Exhibitors bring about 2,000 dairy cattle for competitions.

WORKING TOGETHER...A WAY OF LIFE

Rancher and actor Wilford Brimley... John Deere Day 1992 Spokesperson AJKA

We've worked hard together, so now let's get together at John Deere Day 1992! There's a whole line-up of activities, food, films (some featuring actor and rancher Wilford Brimley), and plenty of surprises, too. Your neighbors will be there—so bring the whole family to John Deere Day. We'll be waiting for you!

PCMA Meeting Highlights Agriculture's Condition

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Wayne Kuhns, president of the Pennsylvania Crop Management Association, used information from his own farming experience to illustrate the value of CMA to his operation, at the eighth annual meeting of PCMA.

Kuhns related details of his own cropping experiences at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Crop Management Assocation at the Knights of Columbus Hall in State College.

In 1991, Kuhns saved $3,500 in crop inputs through following the recommendations of his county CMA consultant. Through soil testing and weed, disease and insect scouting, he used only the inputs necessary to meet his production goals.

Dry weather interfered with the potential crops of corn and alfalfa he had anticipated.

"Like most farmers, I don't have $3,500 in the bank from the savings, but had that money to use in other ways on the farm," said Kuhns.

Reduced labor was not factored into his savings figures. An additional benefit is the improvement of water quality on the farm, he said.

To inform Pennsylvania farmers about the economic advantages of crop management associations and to convey to the public the responsible practices of farmers using crop management associations are the goals of the PCMA, said Kuhns. "We need to be working to achieve these goals," he said.

State Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff talked about the results of a recent study on agricultural chemical use conducted by Penn State and funded by the Department of Agriculture.

The study showed that most farmers are using Integrated Pest Management even if they don't know it, he said. There has been a reduction in the amount of chemical used on Pennsylvania farms.

The study also showed that small operation and part-time farmers need additional information and education on chemical uses, and that more effort needs to be made to tell the non-farm people of the use of IPM among Pennsylvania farmers.

Wolff addressed the state's fiscal problems and said he didn't hold much hope for improvement in the short term.

The Department of Agriculture is keeping track of nutrient management legislation that has passed the House and is now in the Senate, Weiff said. Someone from the department is to be testifying at hearing which will be conducted soon on the bill.

On another topic, Wolff warned farmers that there has been a request for a 52 percent workers' compenstation which will affect all employers including farmers.

Sen. Roger Madigan of the 23rd District expressed regret aht Gov. Robert P. Casey didn't even mention agriculture or rural Pennsylvania in his recent state of the state address. With agriculture being the number one industry in the state and the state having the largest rural population in the nation the governor could have made comment in his speech, he said.

Madigan discussed Ag 2000, a packages of bills to help Pennsylvania agriculture meet the challenges of the future. Many of the bills will be held back because of fiscal restraints at this time, but Madigan said he expects the regulations of labeling of organic food to come to the floor and hopes to get a crop insurance bill moving soon.

"These are changing times which put pressure on agriculture," said Madigan. Efforts are being made to make Pennsylvania agriculture sustainable, the opportunity to make a comfortable living and preservation of farm land for the future.

Farmers must realize the interdependence of all crops and the world impact on their farms, Madigan said.

"Pennsylvania agriculture is in the hands of the people who make it through the tough times and the good times," Madigan said. "The future is in good hands."

Veteran crop consultant, Martin Krone, Franklin County CMA and rookie crop consultant Tom Morgart, Lehigh Valley CMA, presented their perspectives on the work they do and the importance of CMA to agriculture.

The One Plan pilot project was reviewed by Barry Frantz who is on loan from Soil Conservation Service to the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts. The project is being conducted in Lehigh, Northumberland and York counties. Efforts to coordinate information between the various agencies a farmer deals with and to develop plans that will have lasting serviceability for the farm and farmer are goals of the project. Efforts to simplify the process and make the plans flexible is very important, said Frantz. The Soil Conservation Districts, Soil Conservation Service, CMA and the Extension service are working together on the project. Cooperation has also come from DER, ASCS and the agriculture department.

Plans for pilot farmers will be developed by March of this year and they will be reviewed in a year to evaluate the workability of the plans.

To develop the one-plan system across the state will require more CMA consultants and the cooperation of a lot of people in many agencies.

The afternoon included a panel discussion of crop insurance, with Bill McSweeney, extension economist, Liz Boob, Centre Insurance and John P. Held, of Held Insurance Agency, fielding questions.

Retiring directors, Jim Eshelman, Steve Kistler, Wayne Kuhns, Harold Book, Sheldon Harshbarger, Charles Allen, Duane Wilcox and Ed Snook were honored for their service to the organization.

Others that addressed the group included Louis Moore, extension economist, Stanley Curtis, head of the dairy and animal science department at Penn State, Allen Turgeon, head of Penn State's agronomy department and Gary Petersen, co-director of the remote sensing project in the agronomy department of the university.

Jersey Association Offers Growth Charts

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The American Jersey Cattle Club's Research Foundation has funded a project which may help dairy producers learn more about managing the Jersey cow.

"Standards of Weight and Height for Jersey and Guernsey Heifers," is an article by A.J. Heinrichs and G.L. Hargrove, both with Pennsylvania State University, which was published last year in the "Journal of Dairy Science."

In addition to new growth standards, researchers showed that better managed herds with higher milk production and reduced age at first calving have heifers that are larger at all stages of development.

According to Heinrichs and Hargrove, "While promotion of large heifers isn't the issue, our research shows that the greater growth in heifers at a given age may allow them to calve younger to produce greater amounts of milk."

Standard growth charts are designed to help Jersey breeders monitor heifer growth performance and allow closer scrutiny of the various age groups on their farms. Dairy producers should aim at having their heifers fall within or above the average level listed on the growth charts.

Previously, the only standards available for measuring Jersey growth were 30 to 50 years old and based on a limited number of experimental herds.

The new study was designed to develop a modern appraisal of the growth of Jersey heifers and to compare growth of heifers from herds with above average milk production to heifers in the entire breed.

Forty-nine herds in Pennsylvania and New York, with a total of 1,564 Jersey heifers, participated. The growth of these heifers, measured in both weight and skeletal height, was compared to the overall management of the farm during the past 12 months.

Information was gathered on the size of the milking herd, herd average milk, and average age at calving.

According to the researchers, their broad database allows the results to be applied across a wide range of the U.S. Jersey heifer population.

The results of the new Jersey growth standards were similar to those recorded in past studies with the exception of animals from one to six months; Jerseys up to six months of age show larger weights and heights than previously.

Weights and heights of heifers from six to 24 months were similar to the 1950 standards. Larger animals in the very young segment suggest that current mature weights of older cows may be correspondingly larger.

Jersey Breed Averages Balloon

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — During 1991, Jerseys enrolled in Dairy Herd Improvement Registry (DHIR) averaged 14,544 pounds milk, 680 pounds fat, and 542 pounds protein, shattering record averages set the year before.

These mature equivalent (m.e.) averages are based on a total of 48,867 lactations for milk and fat with 48,846 lactations for protein.

This production shows an increase of 3.4 percent protein, 3.2 percent milk, and 2.7 percent fat over 1990 figures. These figures clearly show the greatest production increase was in protein.

At the current rate of increase — 11.8 pounds protein and 273 pounds milk per year — the Jersey breed will reach its goal of 650 pounds protein in the year 2000 and boast a 17,000-pound milk average.

In addition to a record-high average for the Jersey breed, the 1991 DHIR Lactation Averages brought good news for individual herds. Two herds surpassed the 20,000-pound level for average milk production this year. This marks the first time in history a Jersey herd has reached this level of production.

As production levels for Jerseys continue to climb, the increase in numbers of Jerseys is also evident. At the end of 1990, 156,288 Jerseys were enrolled in Dairy Herd Improvement (DHI) testing programs. This is an increase of 2.6 percent over the previous year and a 17 percent increase in the last five years.

Semen sales also confirm that Jersey popularity is on the rise in the United States and around the world. Domestic semen sales increased almost 12 percent from 1986 through 1990.

growing calves and helping with making haylage.

Salesmen and dairy industry representatives visit often, which is generally taken as a sign that the farm is well operated.

There's a male Golden Retriever dog, its chin and muzzle hairs greying with age, that greets visitors and sleeps on the floor of the milk house office, or in the stanchion stalls when the cows are out. In the summer, the cool concrete beneath the milk tank is a favorite snoozing spot for the dog, Richard Jr. said.

It is a family farm in every sense, yet it is a progressive farm.

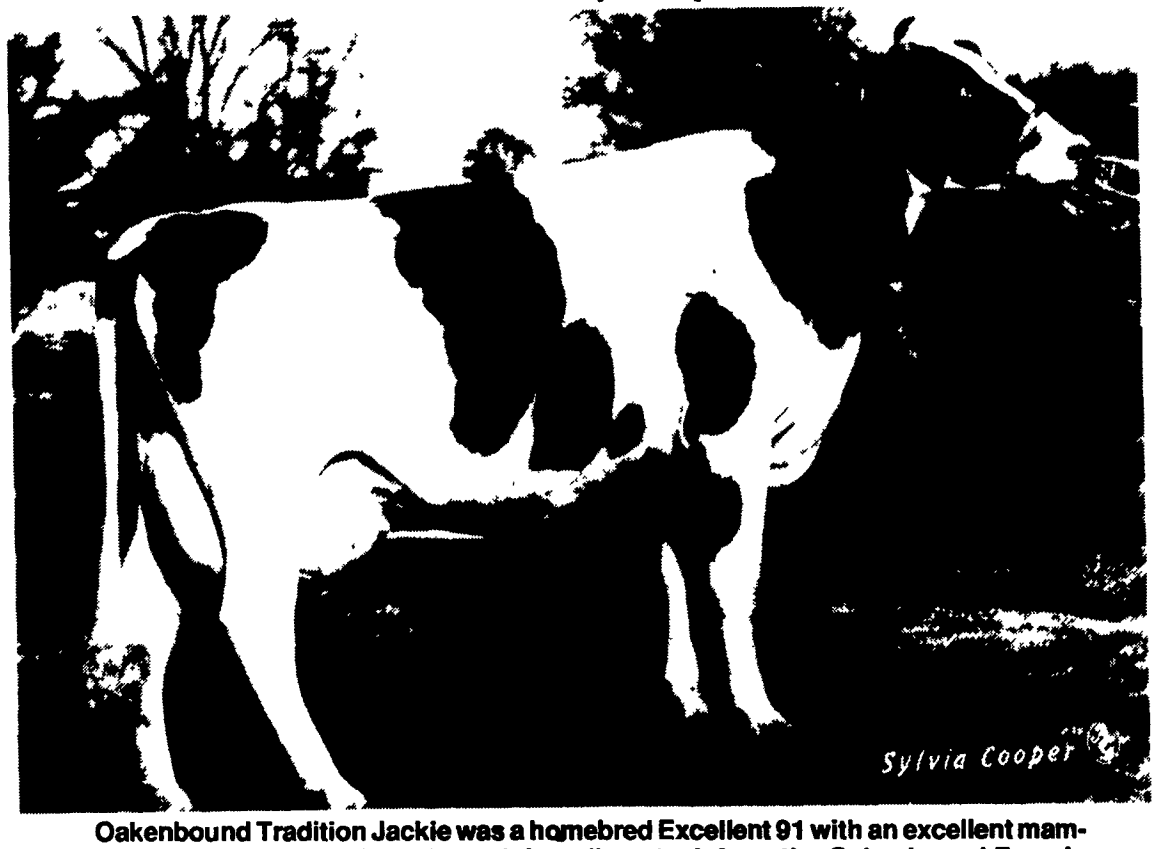
Nelson has applied himself to developing a strong understanding of genetics.

The 39-year-old does all the A.I. reproductive work on the herd. He buys the semen he wants to use and keeps it at the farm.

His handi-work and their use of businesses such as Em-Tran, a Middletown embryo transplant and reproductive operation, have enabled them to breed top stock.

He flushes some of his good cows, markets heifers and embryos and bulls.

Recently, one of his home-bred projects, Oakenbound Southwind Jaguar-ET, was one of four Pennsylvania dairy cattle bulls entered into a proving program of an artificial insemination cooperative. Jaguar was the embryo transfer result of a cross between his now-deceased Excellent 91 Oakenbound Tradition Jackie and the Southwind bull.



Oakenbound Tradition Jackie was a homebred Excellent 91 with an excellent mammary. Her genetics continue through breeding stock from the Oakenbound Farm in Berks County.

From the left, Richard Troutman Jr. and Nelson Troutman show a young bull calf that has already been targeted for purchase by an artificial insemination business.

The dam carried a production record in excess of 26,500 pounds of milk, 999 pounds of fat and 780 pounds of protein and had an Excellent mammary.

She also bore daughters and there's at least one in the string of 92-milking cows that should go Excellent.

And there are more bull calves at the 127-acre farm that are targeted for entry into AI proving programs.

As long as they don't test positive for BLAD.

BLAD is the latest concern in cattle breeding. And it is a concern among breeders that some dairymen may not understand what it is.

BLAD is an acronym for bovine leucocyte adhesion deficiency. It is probably the most recent "disease" discovered in dairy cattle.

The majority of cattle with BLAD do not show it, because it is not a disease really, it is a defective gene. A recessive genetic gene.

Most of the cattle with BLAD are carriers. If a cow carrier and a bull carrier are matched up, one out of four offspring (straight Mendelian principle) are expected to actually have the disability.

The disability is an inability to fight bacterial infections, because white blood cells can't function properly.

manage matings around BLAD. not to cull every positive carrier.

However, artificial insemination studs are not being accepted if they carry the gene for BLAD. The rationale is that if all A.I. semen is BLAD free, then even if a cow is a carrier, the offspring will not have any symptoms, and can be milked and bred.

The occassional bull calf that could show up as a carrier should not be used for breeding.

Those who would use untested cleanup bulls run a risk of producing cattle with BLAD symptoms.

While the strategy should work, the practice of killing bulls testing positive for the BLAD gene is a financial strain on those who maintain top quality breeding programs.

One, well-bred young bull which then tests positive for BLAD can represent a loss of several thousand dollars for the breeder. The money, time and selection which went into attempting to breed a desirable sire is gone.

However, such things are being taken care of and all cattle breeders are working with it.

As breeders all over are doing, the Troutmans are testing their bulls also.

The money made by selling breeding stock doesn't generate the most dependable income, but the extra cash from time to time comes in handy, the brothers said; especially this past year with the drought, the tightness of feed supplies and the low milk prices.

"Selling breeding stock is a by-product, a diversification of attempting to reach our main goal," Nelson said.

There are other benefits to taking extra care to breed well.

"It makes a better manager out of you," Nelson said, adding that when you sell breeding stock there can be nothing about the farm itself that may distract from the animals.

But selling and maintaining a reputation for having good breeding stock isn't easy. "Every bull we have has to gain between 2- to 3-pounds-per-day and you have to do it economically," Nelson said explaining that the stud operations won't look at a bull as a potential sire if it doesn gain fast and steady enough.

The reputation that Troutmans and the Oakenbound name has built for breeding Holsteins is solid. Nelson said it's based on a lot of things, but a lot of it is the concern that, "I like my cattle to do well for their new owners."

There are a few other examples of the Oakenbound breeding program that are of interest, such as Oakenbound Thor Toby-twin, a Very Good 88 with an excellent mammary that Nelson expects will go Excellent. Her dam went Excellent 92.

The Troutmans said they expect to continue with breeding cows for the best traits and to market the high pedigree that they have achieved.

Irwin To Speak On Polish Agriculture

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)— Jay Irwin, Lancaster County Extension director emeritus, will be discussing his six-month assignment in Poland at Lancaster County Cooperative Extension's annual meeting, at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, February 13, in the Farm and Home Center.

Jay and his wife Betty have recently completed a six-month assignment in Poland as part of a Penn State and United States Department of Agriculture project. He will be showing slides and sharing his insight on the situation in Poland, what is currently happening, and the issues facing the people in this former communist country as they adjust to a free market economy.

The evening will begin with a social hour featuring Lancaster County commodity groups serving a finger food smorgasbord. An ice cream sundae party will follow the program. Tickets are $2 per person by February 7, and are available by contacting the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Office, (717) 394-6851.

USDA Extends Filing Period On Milk Pricing Alternatives

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture is extending the deadline to March 2 for submission of proposals on alternatives to the Minnesota-Wisconsin (M-W) price currently used to set minimum prices in all federal milk marketing orders.

Daniel D. Haley, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said the extension is in response to an industry group re- quest for more time to submit its proposed alternative to the M-W price.

The M-W price is the average of prices paid to farmers in the Minnesota-Wisconsin area for manufacturing grade (Grade B) milk, or, milk eligible for use only in manufactured milk products.

In effect since the early 1960's, the M-W price has been widely accepted in the dairy industry as a good measure of changes in the supply and demand for milk nationally, Haley said.

A continuing decline in Grade B milk production, in part the result of more stringent sanitary requirements on dairy farms, is gradually making the M-W price unusable in formulating milk prices.

"Eventually, there will not be enough of that kind of milk sold to make a reliable base price," Haley said. "USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service, which compiles the M-W price, questions whether it will be able to provide that price past 1992 or early 1993."

"The proposals, to be discussed at a national hearing later this year, should come directly from the dairy industry and the public.

Proposals should be mailed by March 2 to the Dairy Division, AMS, USDA, Rm. 2968-S, P.O. Box 96456, Washington, D.C. 20090-6456.

1991 Dairy Assessment Returns Available Now

STATE COLLAGE (Centre Co.)— Dairy farmers have paid an assessment of 5 cents per hundredweight of milk sold in 1991 as part of the Budget Deficit Reduction Act.

All dairy farmers have the opportunity to obtain a refund of that assessment if they meet each of the following criteria: they marketed less milk in 1991 than they did in 1990, they have filed a conservation plan with their local ASCS office, and they apply for the refund at their local ASCS office between Jan. 1 and March 15, 1992.

In most cases the refund will not be very large; a 60 cow herd marketing 15,000 pounds of milk per cow (9000 cwt.) will have paid $450 in assessments.

However, in cases where the dairy farm is going to produce only slightly more than its 1990 production level, it may pay to reduce the amount of milk sold through early drying off of cows, culling or even milk dumping.

The following worksheet can be used if 1991 marketings will be close to 1990's.

LINE A:

Enter the expected assessment refund. The refund should be equal to five cents times the total hundredweights of milk marketed on the farm. In the example below, 9000 cwt is the expected 1991 farm marketings, which cannot exceed 1990 marketings.

LINE B:

Enter your expected December farm gate milk price ($/cwt), net of all marketing charges: hauling, coop dues, check-offs, and assessments. Make sure that the five-cent assessment charge is also deducted.

LINE C:

There may be cost savings when less milk is marketed. If a cow is dried off early and culled, there are savings in the feed and supplies that would have gone into that cow and her milk production. Those savings should be entered on line C. If, however, the cow is kept in milk production and the milk is not marketed but is fed to livestock on the farm, for example, then the feed value of the milk should be entered on line C. There would be no other feed cost savings since the cow is still in production. If the milk is simply dumped, then there would be no cost savings and the value entered on line C should be zero.

LINE D:

Subtract line C from line B and enter the result on line D. This value is the net return per hundredweight of milk that would be given up by reducing marketings.

LINE E:

Reducing marketings in 1991 to receive an assessment refund also affects the base production level for 1992 assessments. Increasing 1991 production beyond that of 1990 means losing the five-cent assessment in 1991. However, more milk marketed in 1991 means that more milk can be marketed in 1992 while still qualifying for the 1992 assessment refund. 1992 assessments will be refunded if 1992 marketings are not greater than 1991 marketings. The marketing base is determined by only the previous year's marketing level. The 1992 assessment refund will be at least 11.25 cents per hundredweight of milk marketed (the minimum set in the Budget Deficit Reduction Act) and probably will be more. Enter the expected 1992 assessment on line E to evaluate the effect of reducing 1991 marketings on the potential 1992 assessment fund.

Forum Addresses Water Quality

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Water quality in Lancaster County was the topic of discussion at a recent meeting of the Agricultural Issues Forum, a group of people who meet monthly for the purpose of strengthening agriculture through better communications and alliances.

Guest speaker was Karen Hottell, president of the Conestoga Valley Association. Her talked focused on contamination of groundwater supplies by industrial discharge, landfill leachate, and underground storage tank failure.

Using a map of Lancaster County's stream and agricultural land overlaid with the locations of federal Superfund CIRCLA sites and approved landfill and industrial discharge locations, she showed the extent to which Lancaster's water sources are endangered.

Further, she said, "Many assumptions regarding the level of protection of water resources by regulatory agencies are not borne out by the reality of regulatory implementation."

In other words, she said that while laws and regulations exist for the protection of water resources, enforcement of those laws and regulations is minimal or nonexistant.

To help change the situation, she advocated stricter monitoring of the discharge approval process and, more important in the long term, adoption of waste reduction technology by industry.

Asserting that technology exists whereby industry can both increase their profitability and benefit the environment, Hottell said, "This can be a truly 'win-win' situation."

Although production agriculture has been cited as a major contributor to water pollution by excess nutrients being washed into waterways, Hottell said that there are potentially more harmful sources of groundwater contamination that deserve close scrutiny by regulatory agencies and the public.

One reason is because a body of water polluted with nutrients will naturally cleanse itself, given time and a reduction in the amount of nutrients allowed to flow into the water.

On the other hand, many toxic or potentially toxic chemicals used in manufacturing, or as a component in manufactured products, can contaminate a water supply and pose a threat of permanently destroying that water source.

The next two scheduled meetings of the Agricultural Issues Forum are Feb. 20, for an update on nutrient management legislation; and March 11, for a special meeting with the state Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee.

For more information, contact Michael Brubaker, managing director of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Issues Forum.

AJCC Registration Soars

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The American Jersey Cattle Club recorded the largest number of Jersey registrations in almost 40 years and says it is due to a registration incentive program it announced in October.

The program allowed breeders to register animals at 20 to 60 percent savings over regular fees, bringing in a total of 76,816 registrations were received in the AJCC office during 1991.

This is the highest number since 1953, and an increase of 41.7 percent over last year. This overwhelming response shows the confidence Jersey owners have in the future of the breed. A total of 57,627 registrations were recorded during the year.

The AJCC staff has been working hard to keep up with the quantity of registrations that have poured into the office in the last three months. As many as 17,871 applications were received in a single day.

The AJCC asks participants to be patient as the registration department sorts through and completes applications. Work will be processed in the following order: transfers first, followed by registrations received with proper fees. Those who took part in the deferred payment plan and did not send money will be processed third, after proper fees are received.

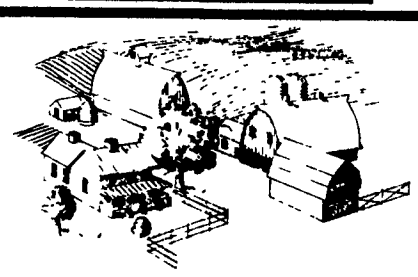
FARM MANAGEMENT



WHERE'S THE FREE TRADE?

Roland P. Freund
Penn State
Farm Management
Agent

President Bush's trip across the Pacific has raised the issue of trade practices. There seems to be a lot of confusion and far more frustration on these highly political matters.

Who allows "fair" trade and who trades "unfairly"?

"Fairness," like beauty, is in the eye of the beholder. So it is important to look at these issues from the perspective of the people from the other side of the ocean as well as through our own TV network camera lenses.

Aussies

From my Australian farming friends, I hear of their frustration at losing their wheat markets. They blame their woes on the the U.S. price supports, and the U.S. Export Enhancement Program.

Their plight is very serious, since they have been suffering severe drought, plus the depressed wool and sheep markets. Many have been forced to shoot more than 20 percent of their sheep, and take a big loss on what little grain and wool they produced. It sounds like a repeat of the Great Depression for them.

However, when it comes to farm exports, the Aussies appear to overlook the fact that the value of their agricultural exports to the United States is more than five times their ag imports from the U.S.

We did not hear much from the Detroit auto executives while they were "down under!" Australia has high tariff barriers on car imports to protect its auto industry and their labor unions. General Motors and Ford are big players there, and those corporations have benefitted from the trade barriers, so protectionism suited Detroit just fine in Canberra.

Japan

Many Japanese and, for that matter, British and Europeans went hungry during the great wars. Those who can remember those things insisted on the security of some level of self-sufficiency in food production.

We cannot blame them for maintaining this policy. But there is more at stake than a food supply.

Where profitable agriculture is maintained, the environment is protected by careful land-use planning and pollution controls.. Contrast this with the industrial degradation which resulted in the former Soviet republics.

If the Japanese rice fields and farms were to lose their markets to cheaper imports, the social and environmental costs could well be greater than the economic gains.

How much more can we ask for? Last year, Japan purchased $7,720 million of our agricultural products. Now that's a pretty big pile of beans! As Earl Butz once said, "I don't mind if my son drives a Toyota — they buy our soybeans."

GATT

There are 108 member nations involved in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT). They are now trying to hammer out an agreement on reducing farm subsidies, which is acceptable to all countries.

Perhaps this is an impossible task when everyone is trying to blame someone else for their economic woes. Will our farmers rejoice in the prospect of lower support prices for grains and milk?

The Hungry Nations

We seem to focus much attention these days on the former Soviet republics. Their situation is very serious and USAID is providing agricultural credits to supply them with wheat, feedgrains, vegetable oils, and hops.

We hope that the needs can continue to be met. There are also the third world countries like Haiti, Bangladesh, Etheopia, and other sub-Sahara African countries.

They don't have the creditworthiness to purchase the food that they need to maintain even a basic existence. While we might like to blame their political systems for their plight, it seems that it should be possible for relatively wealthy and resourceful nations to develop distribution systems to help.

International Solution?

One economic study has suggested that all wealthy nations could contribute all of the money which they now spend to "support" prices and export markets, and contribute it to an international "food stamp" program.

If needy countries were able to draw on these "food stamps" to purchase their food needs, then all agricultural commodity surpluses would disappear and agricultural commodity prices worldwide would rise an average of 15 percent.

Sounds like Utopia, doesn't it? Well, it seems that the concept needs to be investigated further. If as much energy and resources could be expended on getting food resources to needy people as is now spent by opulent farmers and politicians in America, Australia, Europe, and Japan in trying to get ahead at the other's expense, then this planet earth would be a much nicer place for us all to live.

Tax Notices May Be Wrong

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The Farm Management Services of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) is alerting farmers about erroneous state income tax notices being sent out by the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue.

Some farmers are mistakenly receiving notices of underpayment of estimated taxes from the state agency.

"We've learned that the Revenue Department is having a hard time identifying some taxpayers as farmers because of a tax law change which went into effect starting with 1990," explained Don Hummel, assistant manager of the PFA business service. "The tax change, which PFA helped secure, plus the state in line with the federal tax definition of a farmer as someone who receives two-thirds of gross income -- rather than net taxable income -- from farming. Evidently the Revenue Department's computer system is not able to identify the Gross Farming Income information from some returns."

Hummel advised farmers receiving notification to write "Exempt Farmer -- 66⅔ of Gross Income From Farming" on the Farm Exemption Worksheet included with the Revenue Department notice and return it to the department's Bureau of Individual Taxes in Harrisburg.

"If your gross income from farming is two-thirds of your total income, you're exempt," Hummel said, "We've contacted the department about the problem."

PFA is a voluntary farm organization representing 23,049 families in 54 local associations. It provides members with information, a voice in public affairs and business services such as the Farm Management Services.

PMMB Helps Dairy Industry Survive

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The recent addition of 25 cents to the minimum Pennsylvania price of milk to producers is but one of several actions the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB) has taken during its existance to help the state's dairy industry.

According to its chairman, Don Lanius, and board members J. Robert Derry and Leon Wilkinson, the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board has played a vital role in assisting the Pennsylvania farmers in the last few years.

The agency's Secretary O. Frank DeGarcia recently said that all three have been PMMB board members since September 1988, and have held several statewide hearings for drought relief as well as fuel cost adjustment to farmers.

As a result, their actions yielded approximately $102,033,782, or, an averge of more than $7,800 for each Pennsylvania milk producer.

A breakdown of the past actions of the PMMB reveals:

• The base premium payment for Class I milk (drinkable-milk) of $1.05 since Sept. 18, 1988 to June 30, 1992, would yield approximately $95,000,000 to Pennsylvania dairy farmers. These payments may not have been made, if it were not for the enforcement capabilities of the PMMB and dedicated staff of the agency.

• In December 1990 the board added 30 cents to the existing $1.05 for a total of seven months to compensate for increased fuel costs brought about by the Gulf crisis. This action of the board resulted in an additional $4,140,000 in revenue back to Pennsylvania farmers.

• Most recently, in January, the board held a statewide drought relief hearing. The results of the hearing were a 25-cent increase on top of the existing $1.05 for the remaining five months of the existing order. The Board's action will generate an additional $2,470,000 for dairy farmers.

Agency's Secretary DeGarcia said, "That while the PMMB, as a state agency, cannot solve all the problems facing our economy that is impacting on our Pennsylvania dairy farmers, the Board's past actions are efforts that have gone a long way toward curbing the damage caused by weather and marked conditions.

"This premium program is an addition to the numerous other board initiatives which ensure a stable market and a safe adequate supply of milk."

Corn Growers Announce Winners

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Winners of the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association 1991 Five-Acre Corn Club contest will be honored at the 1992 Pennsylvania Corn Conference March 3 here at the Embers Convention Center.

Awards were made for both three-year yield averages as well as for highest yields during 1991. One hundred and forty four corn growers participated in the program this year.

In addition to awards, the program provided each grower with nutrient management and crop budgeting information.

In the three-year average class for shelled corn harvested from a large (more than 3 acres) sample, first place was awarded to John McDowell from Mercer with an average yield of 163.3 bushels per acre from 1989, 1990, and 1991 from Pioneer 3475. Second place went to William Bissinger, Bloomsburg, with an average of 161.7 from 1989 with Pioneer 3343, 1990 with Pioneer 3241, and from 1991 with Pioneer 3527. Lee Hitz of Annville took third place with an average yield of 158.3 bushels per acre in 1989 on Pioneer 3343 and in 1990-1991 with Pioneer 3241.

In the three-year average class for shelled corn harvested from a regular (less than three acres) sample, first place was awarded to Lloyd Zook from Oley with a yield of 185.3 bushels per acre off of 1989 yields from Pioneer 3295, 1990 from Pioneer 3180, and 1991 from Pioneer 3241. Second place in this class went to Joe Matejik, Mechanicsville, with 178.5 bushels per acre off 1989 yields from Stanford HT 650A, in 1990 from Hytest 650A, and in 1991 from Hytest 736. Paul Lechner of Oley, third place, had an average yield of 176.7 bushels per acre from a 1989 yield from Pioneer 3295, a 1990 yield from Pioneer 3241, and 1991 yield from Pioneer 3141.

In the ear corn class, the three-year average first place award went to David Schantz of Alburtis, who has averaged 186 bushels per acre. Yields came in 1989, 1990, and 1991 from Pioneer 3358. Second place went to Sidney Lewis from Wysox with an average of 181.8 bushels per acre in 1989 and 1990 from yields obtained from Doebler's 75X, and in 1991 from Doebler's 66XP. Third place went to Dennis Eby from Gap, with a yield of 178.4 bushels per acre from 1989, 1990, and 1991 plantings of Pioneer 3241.

For the 1991 3-acre harvest size, first place in the large harvest shelled corn class went to D. Richard Snyder from Montoursville with a yield of 175.2 bushels per acre off Funks 4624. In the regular harvest size class, Norman Jodikinos of Clinton took the honors with a yield of 194.5 bushels per acre on Pioneer 3527.

The first place award in the ear corn hand harvest class was won by Harold and James Bishop from Muncy with a yield of 184.9 bushels on Pioneer 3245. Mike Lucas of Zion Grove took the top honors in the machine harvest ear corn class with a yield of 128.7 bushels per acre on Northrup King 7705.

The Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association has more than 350 members statewide.

LINE F:

Add lines D and E and enter the result on line F. This value is the opportunity cost per hundredweight of reduced milk marketings in 1991.

LINE G:

The breakeven marketing adjustment is found by dividing line A by line F. Enter the result on line G. This amount determines how much milk should be marketed above 1990's production level to justify an increase in milk production. In the cull example, the breakeven adjustment is 59 hundredweights. The dairy farm should market at least 59 hundredweights more milk in 1991 than in 1990 to justify increased production. If milk marketings will not increase by at least 59 hundredweights, then it would be more profitable to market at 1990's level 13 districts with 1,042 members in the county. According to Balmer it's an organization farmers cannot afford to be without.

"If we didn't have this Association, we wouldn't have any total farm package," she said. "Every agricultural problem and concern should come through the Farmers Association, which is part of the larger Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA). Politicians aren't influenced much by one farmer's viewpoint, but when farmers have group representation, we get things done. It always carries more weight with politicians when they know that PFA has 23,000 members."

Additionally, you can get the $75 annual dues back in one shot by using any one of the many benefits," Balmer said.

Annual dues on VISA cards obtained through the Association are waived. Insurance rates are cheaper and eyeglasses and other prescriptions may be purchased at 60 percent reductions. Purchase of tires and batteries result in kickback money for the Association.

But more important than financial benefits is the influence the Association wields by lobbying for farmers' causes.

"Anyone interested in farming should have someone represent them in government. We (farmers) don't have time to go to the government. Our dues go to a lobbyist and he represents us the way we (farmers) tell him to."

Balmer said, "For example, the other year we lost the 9½ cent gas refund. PFA lobbied to get it back and did. Just two weeks ago, PFA called a meeting with the Pa. Milk Marketing Board to get additional money for drought expenses so farmers can take that extra money to buy feed to keep herds going. They got the money. They've lobbied to have lower-priced licenses for farm trucks instead of paying commercial rates."

Balmer desires to see more unity among farmers. She said, "Farmers' biggest problem is that we don't work together. We are too independent. We should have the world eating out of our hand. We shouldn't have financially depressed farmers."

Farmers, she believes, should get more for their products by organizing, figuring the cost with a decent profit added on top, and refuse to sell it at a lower price.

"The agri-business world won't make it happen, we must," she said. "We can't keep getting rid of farmers; otherwise, we'll see here (in the U.S.) the same thing that is happening in Russia with empty store shelves."

She said, "I've been farming for 29 years, and we have less pay margin now than 25 years ago. In 1978 a farmer's pay for one dozen eggs was 12 cents below the wholesale cost. In today's market, farmers get 29 cents below the wholesale cost of eggs. We got squeezed out of the profit margin."

She does not see an easy solution to this problem. "I can't see it changing unless we farmers change. If we farmers don't stand up for ourselves, the younger generation won't be able to farm."

With the farm economy as it is, she sees that the big guy isn't forced out of business but the little farmers are. "But it's the little farmers that made America great," she said. "Largeness deteriorates quality on everything."

When does a farm become "too big?"

Jane admits it is a bit difficult to draw the line as she believes it depends on circumstances. "I've thought about it often. It depends on the size of the family, and the farm operation needed to support that family."

"Farm prices were low for Granddad, but the profit margin was high. Insurance takes its toll on farmers. Today we struggle to get $3 per bushel of corn. In 1982, farmers got $4. Yet seed corn and fertilizer prices have risen since then."

According to Balmer, these costs have resulted in less than $200 profit per acre of corn compared with $2,000 plus per acre of tobacco. "Tobacco pays the best in farming but it is labor intensive."

Although most farmers call tobacco raising hard work, Balmer does not. "I call it fun. Fun because we have a good time doing the work. It's a family affair to plant, cut, and strip. We can communicate while we work because we don't have the loud hum of machinery. And, of course, if it pays, it makes it so much more fun."

Balmer would like to see a credit union established for farmers. She said, "Years ago people didn't put their money in the bank. They would lend it to someone. It was a tremendous help to farmers starting out. Now, people don't trust each other. They trust the bank, but the bank doesn't trust us. We should have a credit union for farmers or some lending force that would work with farmers, that would be understanding of drought effects."

"If we farmers don't do something, the next generation won't be able to farm," said Balmer who is shown with her three-year-old granddaughter, Vanessa.

If Balmer had her way, politicians would spend at least six weeks working on a farm to learn first hand the problems farmers face. "You can't learn farming from a book. It takes firsthand experience," she said.

Several years ago, a college student who was pursuing an agricultural degree, begged Balmer to let her work on the farm for the summer.

"She learned really fast about the frustrations of machinery breakdowns and price cutbacks," Balmer said. Balmer was quick to inform the student of the costs involved in every aspect of farming. When eggs dropped two cents a dozen, Balmer explained how that seemingly small cut drastically affected the overall profit.

"Why do you people do this?" the girl asked. "Why do you farm?"

Balmer's reply was simple: "I love it. I had two loves, one (husband) was taken away now I love farming even more than before."

Balmer has these words of advice for other farmers: "If farmers want to keep farmers farming, they should belong to the Farmers' Association.

The Lancaster County Farmers Association's goal is to have 1,094 members by the end of this year. For those who would like to know more about the Lancaster County Farmers' Association, call (717) 653-5916 or the county Extension office at (717) 394-6851.

Open House At Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Agricultural and Biological Engineering Department at Penn State University will be participating in the 1992 Engineering Open House on Saturday, February 22.

The Department will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. to conduct tours of the various activities in the department and to discuss career opportunities in agricultural engineering.

Exhibits describing activities in the department include spray drying of coffee, juice extraction from fruits, computer vision systems for fruits and vegetables, timber bridge model, beam testing, hydroponic lettuce production, plant tissue culture system, rainfall simulation, physical properties of foods, expert systems for frost protection, agricultural machinery systems, and agricultural safety.

Bus tours to Agricultural Engineering leave from parking lot Brown A behind the Mechanical Engineering Building at 10, 10:30, 11, 11:30 a.m. and 1, 1:30, and 2 p.m. All visitors will be treated to free cider and University Creamery ice cream.

Agricultural engineering involves the application of engineering principles to all phases of agricultural production, food processing, and management of our natural resources. Agricultural engineers work in research, development, design, testing, management, sales, and education.

Areas of emphasis within agricultural engineering include:

- Soil and water management for efficient crop production, waste handling, and environmental quality.
- Food engineering for processing, handling, packaging, and storing food products.
- Structural systems for efficient livestock production, food storage, and plant production.
- Machinery design and systems management for agricultural production, food processing, construction, and forest industries.

For further information contact Dennis E. Buffington, Professor and head, Agricultural and Biological Engineering Department, 250 Agricultural Engineering Building, University Park, PA 16802, (814) 865-7792.

Two-State Dairy Day Set For Feb. 6

HARTLEY, Del. — The annual Delaware-Maryland Dairy Day will be held Wednesday, February 5, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the fire hall in Hartley, Del. This conference, co-sponsored by the Cooperative Extension systems of the University of Delaware and the University of Maryland, is free and open to anyone regardless of race, color, sex, handicap, age or national origin. Lunch will be provided.

Dr. Stephen Emanuele, a dairy professor at Rutgers University, will give the keynote speech. He will address cation and anion as they relate to the nutrition of dairy animals and discuss how the right feeding rations can help the dairy farmer avoid mineral imbalance in high-producing cows.

For more information about the conference, call Dr. George F.W. Haenlein at the University of Delaware at (302) 831-2523.

Accurate and precise in worked fields, too.

White 6100 planters have gained a well deserved reputation for planting with incredibly accurate spacing at precisely the right depth.

Our short 18" aerodynamically designed seed drop and independently acting walking beam gauge wheels see to it. And our low-pressure, air metering system and edge drop seed disc singulates seeds to avoid doubles or skips.

Best of all, the row splitter and wide array of attachments allow you to plant in nearly any field condition--no-till, min-till or finely-worked--with row widths ranging from 15" to 40".

different apple varieties are readily available for the customer at the store. The store also stocks free apple cider and other items for taste testing.

Trax stressed the importance of keeping up the farm image and making additions to the farm. Also, the farm holds seasonal festivals and tours.

Developing market

Developing a successful farm market involves many years of hard work, according to Joe Strite, Strite's Orchards, Harrisburg. The farm market operates about 275 acres with 13 different kinds of fruit and 30-35 varieties of vegetables.

The key is to "start the season early," said Strite. Customers like to see the large displays and containers filled full. He emphasized the importance of giving the customers a good measure and to pick fruit which is firm, not green or soft, and ripens in a day or so.

Strite's Orchards also grow about ½ acre of flowers. However, the business grows no speciality crops, because those crops are hard to sell. "Only a few people want them, and the rest go to waste," said Strite.

According to Strite, good cold storage is necessary as well as the importance of good daily records.

100 percent retail

Bob Best, of Best Farms, Inc., Hackettstown, N.J. grows about 60 acres of fruits and vegetables. The farm market is 100 percent retail, and they recently built a 9,400 square foot facility.

"We grow our own to ensure our own quality," he said. He emphasized the importance of developing trust with the customer. "Take time to talk to the customer," Best said. "They will come back if you are willing to give them honest answers."

Best Farms offers more variety than the supermarket at prices that are at market levels. They also do quite a bit of advertising, he said, which provides an excellent return.

"The greenhouse business has been a tremendous asset to us," he said. "Every year we generate a larger and larger dollar volume."

The farm grows its own apples and freezes cider to sell during the off-season months. They also have a bakery, "which smells great and makes the store smell great — it's a tremendous magnet to the customer." They offer a special apple cider donut with six different toppings, a very popular item. For special occasions, they also provide apples in a basket with a bow on them. The fruit basket market is a very good deal, he said.

Best emphasized the importance of providing a lot of room for the customer in the store. Keep the aisles wide and have a lot of displays. "The more time the consumer spends looking around, the more they'll buy," he said.

"You have to have specials. It's a way to move out the excess," he said.

Although the recession has hit several farm markets hard; customers continue to purchase quality fruit, vegetables, and greenhouse items, according to Best.

Driving distance

Lynn Moore-Arms, Larriland Farms, Maryland, operates a farm market and off-farm retail market. They maintain about 250 acres and are open six months out of the year. Although they are south of Baltimore, they are located within driving distance of the large population bases of Baltimore and Washington.

Moore-Arms stressed the importance of locating the facility where people have access to it. Also, setting up "branch markets" may help those who live and work too far away from the central facility.

For those operating pick-your-own facilities, it is important to make them easily accessible. The design should make it easy for the customer to drive in, pick the fruit, pay for it, and leave. Also, the vegetable and fruit crops should be close by.

Moore-Arms also said the business uses checkout counters in the fields. "This makes the customer comfortable and provides better security for the business," she said.

The checkout counter and other tables are on wheels, which makes them easier to move and position. "They layout is also a big factor as to whether it's a success and whether it draws repeat business," she said.

Quality is paramount, according to Moore-Arms. "And the best thing to do is to spend time in the field listening to what the customers want. They will tell you," she said.

The conference also included the regular meetings of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association and the 133rd annual meeting of the State Horticultural Furman Foods, represented by James F. Kohl, vice president, left, sponsored the award.

At the vegetable program entitled "Making Big Bucks," more than 400 attended a panel on successes and failures in retail markets. Disaster Payment Program Signup Starts

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) will administer a crop disaster assistance program to compensate eligible producers for crop losses caused by drought, flood, and other natural disasters in either 1990 or 1991.

"To be eligible, producers with crop insurance must have had losses greater than 35 percent," said ASCS County Executive Director, Ray Brubaker. "Producers without crop insurance must have had losses greater than 40 percent."

Program applications may be filed from Feb. 3 through March 13.

The 1990-91 crop disaster program provides cash payments for production losses on participating program crops of wheat and feed grains; nonparticipating program crops; soybeans, sunflowers, and tobacco; and all commercial non-program crops.

Brubaker said producers who intend to file should begin to assemble their records now, so they will be ready when the program opens.

He said that farmers will receive a special mailing with specific information on the program this month. "If a producer does not receive the disaster program information in the mail by Feb. 3, he or she should call the county ASCS office."

Brubaker said that a producer may not file on one crop on a farm for one year and a different crop on the same farm for the other.

"However, the producer may request benefits for 1990 on one farm and for 1991 on another farm."

The ASCS official said disaster payments would be computed according to the 1990 Farm Bill, and that he expects to begin issuing payments to farmers by April 16.

Further details of the disaster payment program may be obtained from any local ASCS office.

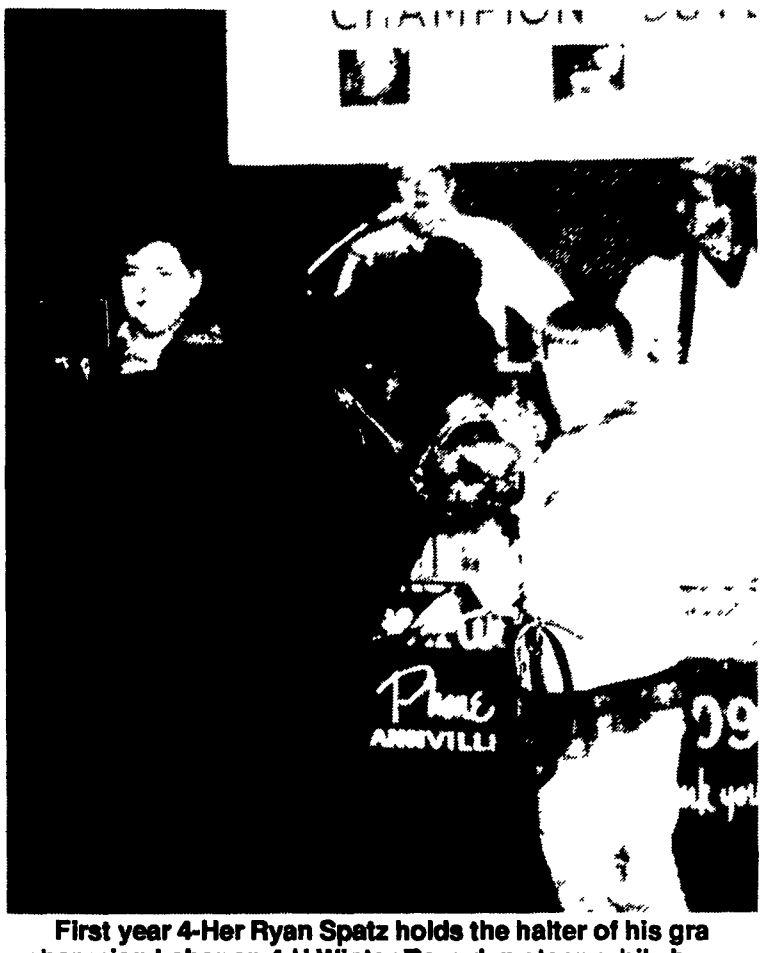
Lebanon 4-H Livestock Holds Roundup

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County 4-H Livestock Winter Roundup and Sale was held recently to help its youth better their ring performance and earn money to continue projects.

According to Kenneth Winebark, county livestock agent, the event was the largest ever for the county program. Of the market animals raised and shown, there were 125 hogs, 15 lambs, and 6 steer.

The sale summary on 120 market hogs sold showed a total liveweight of 26,819 pounds that brought a total $16,125.

The sale of 14 lambs yielded $1,655 for the youth. The animals' combined weight was 1,472 pounds.



First year 4-Her Ryan Spatz holds the halter of his gra champion Lebanon 4-H Winter Roundup steer, while buy David Martin, for Dutchway Farm Market, holds the plaqu

The steers brought a total of $6,235 on a combined weight of 7,515 pounds.

Although most of those who compete in the winter roundup do continue to go to the Farm Show. The sale of animals provides needed cash and the roundup competition helps fine-tune animal grooming techniques and showring performances.

Although some question the logic of holding a winter roundup just prior to the state's Farm Show, most of the animals entered were second choice animals to others the individual selected to take to the Farm Show, although sometimes the Farm Show animals don't fair as well in the stiffer competition.

"It compliments the entire program," Winebark said.

Ryan Spatz showed the grand and heavyweight champion market steer, which weighed 1,340 pounds. It was purchased for $1,225 by Dutchway Farm Market Inc., Myerstown.

The reserve grand and lighweight champion steer was shown by Shelby Heagy. Her 1,235 pound animal was purchased by Carlos Leffler Inc. for $1,000.

Joseph Tice showed the grand champion market lamb. The 121 pound lamb sold for $300 to Tice Farms, of Lebanon.

The reserve grand champion was shown by Darren Grumbine, who sold the 115-pound hog for $170 to agriculture department of Lebanon Valley National Bank.

The grand champion market hog was shown by Gregory Bomgardner, son of Charles and Marlene Bomgardner. His 250 pound winner had a market value of $95 and sold for $310 to Hatfield Quality Meats, represented by Doug Clemens.

Bulls Enter Program

PLAIN CITY, Ohio — Four Pennsylvania bulls were recently entered into a proving program managed by Select Sires artificial insemination cooperative, headquartered in Plain City, Ohio.

All selections for entry into the Select Sire Program for Genetic Advancement (PGA) are based on pedigree.

7B695 Victory Acres Emory Star, a young sire bred by Dean and Brenda Daubert, of McElhattan, has been selected as one of four Brown Swiss bulls from throughout the United States to enter the program in 1992.

In addition to being sampled through PGA cooperator herds, this specific bull has been also selected as a super sampler, which means his semen is to be available to all interested Brown Swiss breeders.

Sired by Emory, 7B695 Star is out of an outstanding Improver daughter classified Very Good 88 points, with a top record of more than 20,400 pounds of milk, 720 pounds of fat and 700 pounds of protein. The grandam is a Very Good 87-point cow with production records of more than 30,700 pounds milk, 980 pounds fat and 1,000 pounds protein.

A Holstein bull, 7H4215 Oakenbound SW Jaguar-ET, bred by Richard Troutman and Sons of Richland, has been selected as one of 185 Holsteins selected to enter in 1992.

A Southwind son, he is from an Excellent 91-point Tradition dam with a production record of more than 26,500 pounds of milk, 999 pounds of fat and 780 ounds of protein. She had an Excellent mammary.

The grandam and great-grandam of this bull were respectively classified Very Good and Excellent, and both had production records in excess of 26,600 pounds of milk, and 900 pounds of fat.

Another Holstein bull entering the program is 7H4192 Howcrest Airwave-ET, bred by John and Susan Howard, of Willow Street. Airwave is a Southwind son from two generations of Very Good, high protein dams.

The dams recorded production of more than 28,000 pounds of milk, 1,200 pounds of fat and 1,000 pounds of protein. Both dams averaged at least a 3.4 percent lifetime production of protein and each is at least a +1 udder composite.

Also entering the Holstein program is 7H4198 Red-Fever Oakland-ET, a yound sire bred by James Younker, of Fleetwood.

Oakland is also a Southwind son and was bred to be a component improver — his dams have all recorded high solids production.

As a junior 2-year-old, Oakland's Very Good 87-point Mark dam produced more than 22,000 pounds of milk, of which 4.3 percent was fat and 3.5 percent was protein.

His grandam was a Very Good 87-point Ivan daughter with production recorded at more than 31,000 pounds of milk, 1,210 pounds of fat and 980 pounds of protein. She had averages of 3.3 percent protein on a lifetime basis.

Three New 40-60 H.P. Tractors From Deere

MOLINE, Ill. — John Deere has introduced its new line of 5000 Series tractors which replace the 45-hp 2155 and 55-hp 2355 in its utility tractor line.

The model 5200, 5300, and 5400, at 40, 50, and 60 pto horsepower, respectively, are new tractors.

"These are completely new tractors, not updated versions of previous models," said Mike Everett, marketing manager at John Deere's new Augusta, Ga. factory, which builds the tractors. "With features based on a lot of customer input, these tractors are high-quality, competitively priced products that deliver what customers say they want."

The 5000 Series tractors are powered by a John Deere 3-cylinder, 2.9-liter (179-cu. in.) diesel that provides high torque rise and fuel efficient operation. The 5400 uses a turbocharged version of the engine.

A high torque rise of 22 to 25 percent (depending on model) produces the lugging power to pull through tough conditions without downshifting. Unlike many competitive models, full engine power is available at rated pto speed to handle demanding applications and provide all the power the customer purchased without overspeeding the implement.

Engine features include a new high-ring piston design for improved combustion and fuel efficiency, a common housing for the water pump and thermostat that improves serviceability and reduces repair costs, and replaceable wet cylinder liners that provide uniform heat dissipation and reliable performance. The engine's exclusive Fuel-Gard™ filter incorporates a hand primer, fuel filter, and water separator in one unit.

All three tractors feature a 9Fx3R collar shift transmission as standard equipment. Three gear ratios in each of three ranges provide evenly spaced speeds that are well matched for the numerous jobs these tractors are required to do. The efficiency of the transmission means more engine power gets to the drive wheels, and the quiet operation of the helical-cut gears contributes to operator comfort.

The range selector lever is located to the left of the operator and the gear selector to the right, along with a positive engaging park position. Second gear forward and first reverse are positioned for convenient straight-line shuttle shifts during loader work.

A creeper option is available that provides a ground speed as low as .2 mph for special operations.

The optional mechanical front-wheel drive (MFWD) axle has a 6-degree caster angle and a 55-degree turn angle for a tight 9.9-ft. turning radius. The axle's limited-slip differential delivers tractive effort to both wheels in slippery conditions for added mobility.

A rear-axle differential lock and hydraulic wet-disk brakes are standard. The brakes are self-adjusting and self-equalizing for dependable, straight stops.

The tandem hydraulic pump with a combined flow of 16.2 gpm provides a dedicated 4.8 gpm to the hydrostatic power steering circuit for consistent, responsive steering control regardless of hydraulic demands from loader or implement operation. The other portion of the pump delivers up to 11.4 gpm for the loader and implements.

The open-center hydraulic system operates at 2750 psi — a 22 percent increase (compared to the previous models) in hydraulic power for the 3 pt. hitch, loader, and steering functions. Up to three selective control valves are available for hydraulic attachments.

Top-link sensing provides responsive, accurate draft control for implements typically used with these tractor sizes. The cat. II hitch (convertible to cat. I) with adjustable sway chains can accommodate virtually any 3-pt. attachment for these tractors.

The operator's station features an uncluttered platform area for comfort during operation and ease in getting on and off the tractor from either side of the machine. A deluxe suspension seat that adjusts fore and aft, up and down, and to the operator's weight is standard. Arm rests are optional.

Color- and shape-coded controls are easy to reach and use, and the design of the instrumentation panel provides a quick, easy way to monitor machine status.

The John Deere 5300 tractor, rated at 50 pto hp, is one of three new 5000 Series tractors which include the 40-hp 5200 and the 60-hp 5400. Features include a fuel-efficient, 2.9-liter (179-cu. in.) John Deere diesel engine, a 9Fx3R collar shift transmission, responsive top-link sensing for 3 pt. hitch work, a convenient foldable ROPS, and standard independent 540 rpm pto. A creeper transmission option, MFWD, and loader are available to handle various application requirements.

A foldable ROPS reduces tractor clearance height when entering buildings. It folds without tools for added convenience.

The 5000 Series tractors also feature tilt-up hoods and easily removed side panels for quick access to the engine area.

The John Deere model 520 loader is available for the two-wheel drive (2WD) version of the tractors. The model 540 loader is intended for MFWD tractors and 2WD tractors that are used in heavy-duty applications.

The loaders are designed for fast installation or removal. With the loader mounting frame attached to the tractor, an operator can remove or install the loader quickly without tools. Several attachments, such as a forklift and round bale fork, are available for expanding the use of the loaders.

Potato Growers Institute Offers Full Agenda

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — This year's Potato Growers Institute set for March 4 and March 5 promises to be an information-packed seminar on the most important topics and problems facing potato growers, according to its sponsors at the Pennsylvania Cooperative Potato Growers Inc., in Harrisburg.

"We will be meeting at the Peek'n Peak Resort and Conference Center at Clymer, New York," said Roger Springer, general manager, in a letter to growers, friends and business associates of the state's potato industry.

The Peek'n Peak center is located along Rt. 426, about five miles south of Rt. 17, in Clymer.

Registration is from 9 a.m. to noon on March 4, followed by a noon luncheon and the start of the meetings at 12:45 p.m.

"We anticipate another super program," Springer said. "Our afternoon session on Wednesday, March 4, will deal with fresh and processing (potato) varieties, the Colorado Potato Beetle, chemicals and (control) programs, various types of irrigation methods, and potato storage management."

Presenters of the afternoon session are to be Dr. Robert Plaisted, Cornell University, N.Y.; Dr. Barbara Christ, of Penn State University; Dale Moyer, Suffolk County Cooperative Extension, N.Y.; Dr. Zane Smilowitz, Penn State University; and Steve Belyea, with the Maine Department of Agriculture.

The morning session on March 5, starts with the annual meeting of the Co-operative Potato Growers Inc., from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m., followed by a tour of Welch's in Northeast, Erie County, and the Troyer Potato Chip Plant in Waterford.

Following a catered luncheon at Troyer's, Dr. Wilbur Gould, consulting food technologist of the Snack Food Association will speak on quality control, Agtron readings and equipment, sampling techniques, gravities versus chip yields, etc.

Again this year, there is planned a shopping tour to one of Pennsylvania's largest indoor shopping malls, near Erie.

Those interested in skiing can make arrangements through the Harrisburg office of the cooperative growers, at 3107 N. Front Street, or directly with the resort at (716)-355-4141.

"The board of directors of the cooperative have voted to underwrite the total cost of the program, which is considerable," Springer said in the letter. "Your cost are meals, lodging, registration, and your time. If you do not take this opportunity to get the latest information on these subjects, you will be the loser."

He said he recommended making reservations early, because special rates can only be guaranteed for registrations received by Feb. 21. After that, it will be as space permits.

For more information, call the cooperative at either (717) 232-5300, or 1-800-222-2138 in Pennsylvania. Also, the cooperative FAX number is (717) 232-1885.

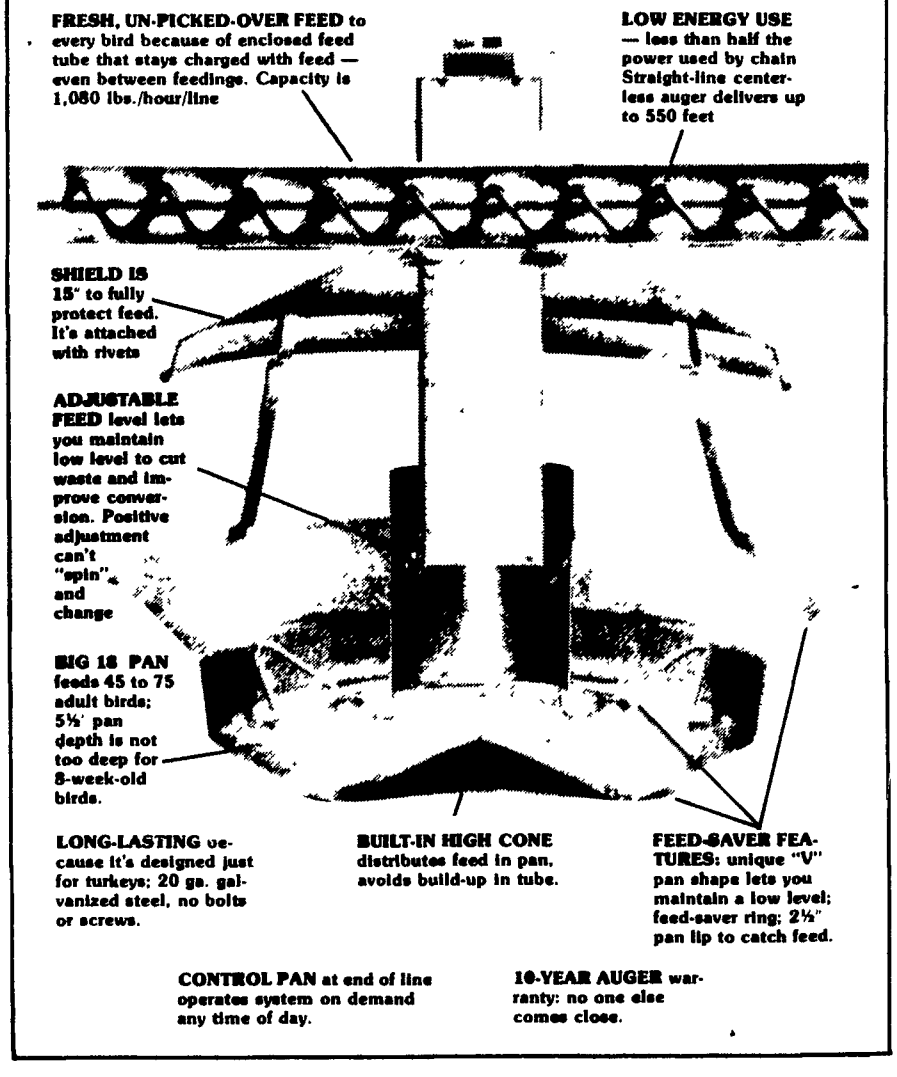
Let Us Build A New TURKEY HOUSE For You With CHORE-TIME® Feeding Equipment



FRESH, UN-PICKED-OVER FEED to every bird because of enclosed feed tube that stays charged with feed — even between feedings. Capacity is 1,080 lbs./hour/line
LOW ENERGY USE — less than half the power used by chain Straight-line centerless auger delivers up to 550 feet
SHIELD IS 15" to fully protect feed. It's attached with rivets
ADJUSTABLE FEED level lets you maintain low level to cut waste and improve conversion. Positive adjustment can't "spin" and change
BIG 18 PAN feeds 45 to 75 adult birds; 5½" pan depth is not too deep for 8-week-old birds.
LONG-LASTING because it's designed just for turkeys; 20 ga. galvanized steel, no bolts or screws.
BUILT-IN HIGH CONE distributes feed in pan, avoids build-up in tube.
FEED-SAVER FEATURES: unique "V" pan shape lets you maintain a low level; feed-saver ring; 2½" pan lip to catch feed.
CONTROL PAN at end of line operates system on demand any time of day.
10-YEAR AUGER warranty: no one else comes close.

- FEED WINDOWS and Feed Gate (1) floods feeder pan with plenty of feed to attract and start poults from the first day they are put on the feeder. After birds get started, Feed Gate in "open" position (2) can be quickly put in "closed" position (3) with a simple flick-of-the-wrist. Closed Feed Gate means feeder is adjusted to low feed levels (4) for top feed conversion.
- ALL-PLASTIC FEEDER consists of 3 simple, rugged polypropylene parts (5) for permanent corrosion-proofing. Pan easily removes (6) for clean-out and hangs from feeder for drying and storage.

24-Month Calving Is Okay

LAWRENCE W. SPECHT
PSU Dairy Specialist

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Age at calving and production in first lactation for Holstein heifers has been summarized from the past four years of DHIA tested herd information.

Test Year	# Heifers	Avg Age at Calving
1987-88	76153	27.0
1988-89	78600	26.8
1990-91	79502	26.5

The average age at first calving for Holstein heifers has dropped by half a month in four years. If there is a potential saving of from one to two dollars per day, this reduction in age at calving has saved Pennsylvania dairymen from 1.2 to 2.4 million dollars in 1990-91 compared to 1987-88. However, there is still plenty of room for improvement as the table below indicates:

Age at Calving Months	#	305 Milk	Day Fat	Production Protein
<19	266	14169	513	439
19	175	13910	492	427
20	370	13631	490	423
21	910	14494	522	448
22	2893	15275	549	472
23	7754	15555	560	481
24	12200	15674	565	485
25	11432	15794	569	488
26	9948	15822	571	490
27	8080	15791	571	489
28	6282	15707	568	487
29	4937	15672	568	486
30	4031	15632	564	484
31	3212	15563	564	483
32	2429	15494	561	482
33	1939	15458	559	481
34	1429	15363	557	480
35	1215	15248	552	476

With production of 15,674 pounds of milk at 24 months of age and little change thereafter, it looks as if the recommendation to calve heifers at 24 months of age is a reasonable one.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

106 CRM
Medium maturity 3527 has superb early growth and exceptional plant health. Ideal for reduced tillage, it has very good grain appearance and test weight, strong stalks, plus exceptional ear flex.

NEW 3394
111 CRM
A must on every farm. This exciting new hybrid combines traits corn growers want: exceptional yield, impressive early growth, strong stalks and roots, sound stress tolerance, fast drydown and lengthy staygreen.

114 CRM
Excellent early growth and resistance to several diseases make 3241 ideal for conservation tillage. Grain growers will appreciate its outstanding yield potential and strong stalks. Excellent staygreen and reliable drought tolerance.

NEW 3293
114 CRM
3293 is similar to 3241 with more top-end yield potential. This hybrid features strong early growth and outstanding stalks.

MILK CHECK

THOMAS JURCHAK
Dairy Specialist
Lackawanna County

M-W Peaks

SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.) — It went up higher and stayed up longer than anyone predicted but dairy products prices and the milk supply finally caught up with the Minnesota-Wisconsin Price Series.

It fell 38 cents in December to $12.10 after eight months of increases.

It's still $1.91 better than last year and did manage to keep your farm price on the increase to the end of the year.

Cheese prices dropped slowly losing only two cents on blocks and five cents on barrels this month but still 14 cents above the support price. Powder prices dropped more than cheese losing 14 cents in one month but again still well anove supports.

Butter prices dropped below supports but that was only two cents from where they were last month.

The drops in product prices aren't as disturbing as the increases in milk supplies. It doesn't show up so much on the production charts but there's a lot of milk selling at under order prices in the East and the upper Midwest.

Usually some milk is moving out of the M-W area to tighter markets but now there's more milk moving in. If this keeps up we may see a real spring flush for the first time in several years.

If the drought cut feed supplies in the Northeast it certainly isn't showing up yet in the milk supply.

More Disaster Relief

The Disaster Assistance Program has been added to the Emergency Livestock Feed Program and may give added relief to dairymen suffering crop losses in 1990 or 1991.

This program is for nearly all crops, including grain and forage crops, where losses were over 40 percent without crop insurance and 35 percent with crop insurance. Losses for crop years 1990 or 1991 are covered and the farmer has the choice. Take one year or the other but not both.

However, losses on two different farms operated by the same producer could be eligible in either year but not two different crops on the same farm in different years.

Congress limited payments to $995 million so the rate of payment won't be known until all the claims are in to see how far the money goes. The sign up period begins February 3 and ends on March 13.

It is possible that a farmer could qualify for payments under both the Emergency Livestock Feed Program and the Disaster Assistance Program.

Refund Applications

While you're at the ASCS office you can also make appplication for your five cent refund as soon as you have your December milk check stub.

All you have to do is prove that you produced no more milk in 1991 than you did in 1990 and you get back the five cents a hundred you akeady paid in 1991 under the Budget Reconciliation Act.

You'll need each of your monthly statements from 1990 and 1991 and they will be matched to determine if you had more, the same or less milk shipped in 1991.

The monthly matching is important. If you quit shipping milk in 1991 only those months that can be matched with 1990 will be counted. If you shipped milk from more than one farm you will have to report on all of them. This will include all the farms in which you or your wife have an interest. You can transfer the 1990 base if you sell the business but only if it's the entire operation and goes to a member of your family.

You can make application anytime now up to March 16 and probably get a check as soon as you qualify. There are no payment limits and you don't need a conservation plan for this refund.

However, you should know that how much is refunded for 1991 will be reflected in the assessment for 1992.

Starting with January milk you will be paving 11.25 cents a hundred but this can change in May.

When all of the applications for 1991 are made and the refunds paid, the total will be announced by April 30. That's when the decision will be made on how much more the assessment will be for the last seven months of 1992.

You may not have paid much attention to the five cent assessment in 1991 but the stakes are going up and it may get your attention in 1992 or 1993 and it isn't over until 1996.

High Blend Price

With the help of a near record high Class I price of $14.92 in December and in spite of a record low of 40 percent Class I utilization you still made the highest blend price of the year in December in Order 2.

It was just two cents higher than November at $13.34 but it was $2.11 higher than last December and that sounds a lot better.

You were still getting the benefit of the higher M-W price in October in your Class I milk so it went up 48 cents over November to $14.92, the second highest Class I price for December.

The Class II price at $13.41 was also 48 cents above November but the Class III price at $12.16 took the full blow of the 38 cent drop in the M-W this month.

Total receipts took a jump of a million pounds per day over November so it's no wonder there were son-e bargain prices in the market last month.

Lower butter prices dropped the differential down to 10 cents which you haven't seen in 30 vears. At least the $13.34 for December milk saved my prediction that farm prices would increase to the end of the year but I

Lancaster DHIA Elects Officers

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster Red Rose DHIA board of directors held its annual re-organization meeting on January 27. The following officers were elected: P. Robert Wenger, president; Joseph Graybeal, vice president; and Gerald Risser, secretary. The board also endorsed Joseph Graybeal as a candidate for state director from the Southeast region to replace J. Robert Kindig, who announced his decision not to seek re-election.

The re-organization committee reported that it is attempting to work through a new committee set up by the state board to come up with a new federated agreement for counties who do not wish to centralize.

Lancaster feels that it would be in the best interests of both local members and the whole state to attempt to keep Pa. DHIA unified. The major concern is still the transfer of records from Pa. DHIA to the DRPC at Raleigh to provide access to the most up-to-date technology currently available in dairy records processing at a reasonable cost. Due to difficulties in arriving at an agreement with Pa. DHIA, the February 1 goal for Raleigh processing is no longer a possibility. It is hoped that an agreement can be reached with the next two months.

RCMA Regroups

If you were wondering what would happen to RCMA after losing the Rogers-Allen program in New York you should be happy to know that they're alive and well after their annual meeting in Syracuse last month.

With the election of Lewis Gardner, president of Eastern Milk Producers and now president of RCMA, and the re-election of all the other officers, they're already making plans for ways to get higher milk prices for northeastern producers.

Their move to Syracuse with a smaller staff and reduced space is only to conserve their assets for future efforts for producers.

Carmen Ross, the executive director, will work on a per diem rate and board meetings will be reduced to save money. Already a study committee has been organized to develop a new program from their past experience and one that all segments of the dairy industry will support.

They still face the court battle over compensatory payments but they also have a number of options to consider that can be helpful.

It may be a matter of taking what you can get or settling for a half loaf if you can't have it all but even in these months of rising milk supplies selling for under order prices it should be comforting to know that RCMA is preparing for action and the next opportunity.

PA Premium

The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board took testimony on the effect of the drought on farmers last week.

Some groups asked for a 15 cent increase and some for 20 but the Board decided on 25 cents. This is in addition to the present premium of $1.05 which is in place until June 30. So it will be $1.30 on Class I milk produced and processed in Pennsylvania from February to June.

Petitions have already been presented for hearings this spring to extend the premium beyond June 30 just in case there's a need for it.

NEW ALFAGRAZE VARIETY ALFALFA

12 years of university development and testing prove Alfagraze survives intensive grazing better than any alfalfa variety!

THE FIRST DUAL-PURPOSE ALFALFA FOR HAYING AND GRAZING.

SURVIVES INTENSIVE GRAZING

12 years of university development and testing prove Alfagraze survives intensive grazing better than any alfalfa variety.

DAIRY PRODUCERS LOWER FEED COSTS

Alfagraze has produced protein contents of 22 to 23% and digestibility as high as 62%. Grazing Alfagraze eliminates harvest losses, increases forage quality and can save you 20 to 40% on your feed bill.

BEEF PRODUCERS 2.5 lbs.

Alfagraze has produced gains up to 2.5 lbs. per day at moderate stocking rates in university yearling beef steer trials. Alfagraze boosts live weight gain per acre and lowers production cost.

TOP YIELDS

Whether you graze or hay Alfagraze, you can count on top yields. In yield performance trials, Alfagraze yields like other top hay varieties.

Glass Cutting Provides Profitable Hobby

BY GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SALISBURY (Somerset Co.) — Accepting the inevitable scrapes, cuts and occasional minor burns, Dixie Otto finds the craft of working with stained glass brings her both satisfaction and enjoyment.

She creates lovely lamp shades for lamp bases that she purchases separately; unusual shades for nightlights, attractive sun-catchers, glass Christmas tree ornaments and eye-catching pencil holders.

"I really enjoy it. To me it's not work... well, it's pleasurable work," she adds on second thought.

"I think the first thing I had a problem with was worrying about getting cut," she recalls, scurrying around her economical space in search of a particular piece of glass," because we're taught from childhood, 'don't touch this or that.'"

The compact shop, located in the basement of a friend's home, is equipped with the necessary conveniences for creating a top-notch glass product. Handy electrical outlets, good lighting, and nearby water faucets are a must for this job.

The volume is turned low, but one hears Cheers airing on the small black and white television set nearby. Obviously, some electronic companionship is an effective tool to stop the monotony of working in solitude.

"Some glass is more splintery than others," she explains, saying that she buys the glass from Youghiogheny Glass in Connellsville.

A larger piece of glass is plated on top of the Morton glass cutting board, which is about 18 by 24 inches of firm white plastic with tiny hollow squares for catching chips or shards as Otto works.

Taking a plastic pattern for a section of a future nightlight cover, she deftly draws on the design with the tip of a colored marker to match the stained glass which might be a delicate blue, lavender, green or another darker color. With the appropriate tools she scores, cuts, then breaks the glass apart.

The pair of protective pastel blue gloves, seen hanging nearby, Otto has chosen to disregard, opting to work with bare hands.

She exercises meticulous care in fitting the segments together. "It's verey important that everything is accurate," she says. "What you are trying to do is to get your pieces as even as possible."

This is where the electric grinder saves time over using a hand file. The grinder is filled with water before Otto arranges a large piece of heavy brown paper around its back and sides to absorb the inevitable splashing from the running grinder. With this step Otto can file the rough edges and perfect the fit of each section to the others before joining them.

Next Otto thoroughly washes the glass to remove surface oils. She uses Joy dishwashing liquid because she says her instructor recommended the product when Otto was a student at a glass class held at Carole's Craft Corner in Boswell.

She removes the paper backing from some narrow copper foil which comes in rolls, and attaches it to the edges of the cut glass. Using a flux and a soldering iron, she then seals the edges. Sometimes she will use came, pronounced kam, which is a grooved lead strip also used to fasten pieces of glass.

Finally, the glass is washed a second time and ready for the application of a finishing compound to bring out its fine lustre, says Otto.

The lamps for which she has created shades appear wonderfully antique and perfect for occupying a small desk or pretty boudoir table. They are displayed for sale at a local art gallery.

Like the upside down gores of a skirt, the nightlight shade sort of flares around it in three small sections to shield the tiny bulb from view.

"The prettiest things are when you hold them to the light," she says, lifting a sun-catcher to illustrate what she means.

Other crafts enjoyed by Otto are photography, oil painting, and arranging dried flowers.

Her photographic entries have won some blue ribbons and she transforms a plain white notecard into a simple work of art with a personal touch just by attaching a sprig of dried flowers to one corner. She also makes small bouquets with dried flowers.

Several years ago a few area persons — Otto was one of them — organized a club and dubbed it the Tub Mill Arts Association, paying homage to a locally respected old stream and landmark known as the Tub Mill Run.

They saw artistic talents in the rural community literally being "hid under a bushel," as one member put it. They wanted to garner publicity and create a sales outlet for the work of those persons.

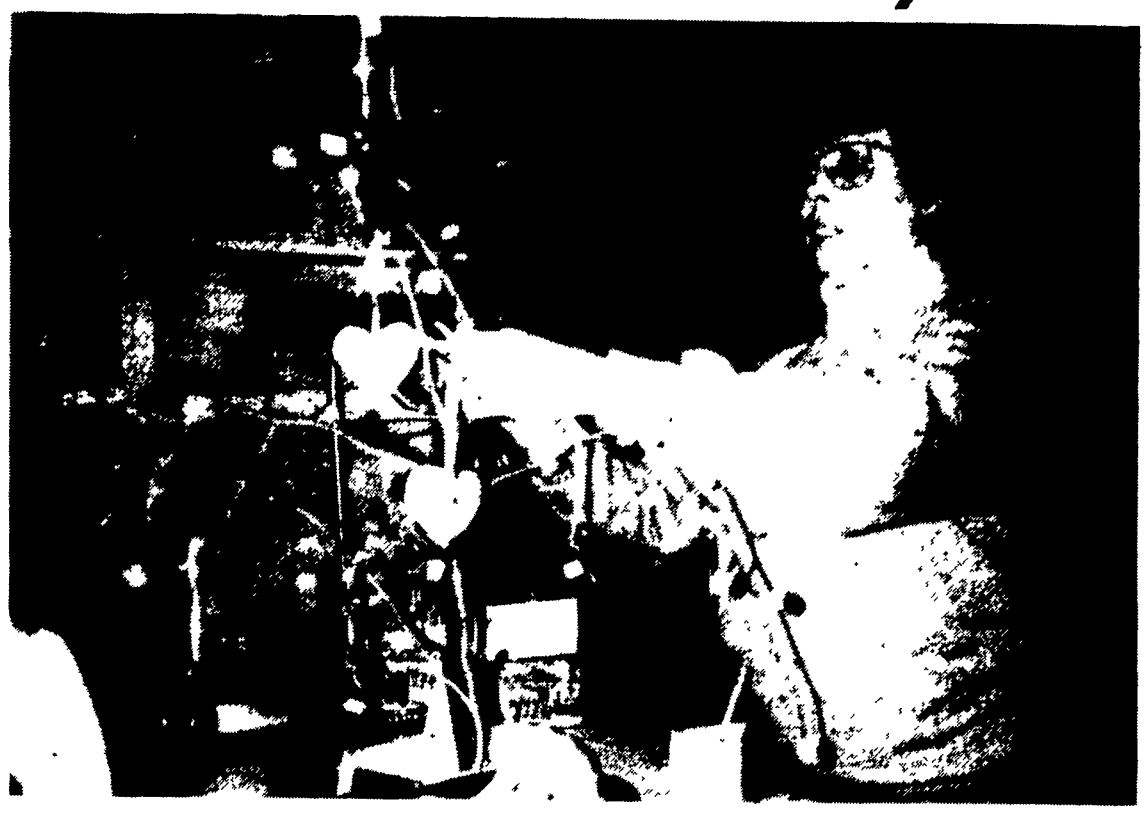
Says Otto, "We met to organize a club and just sort of all pitched in." She became the treasurer when officers were elected.

To get things rolling they held art shows, using space in a local school. They were held the weekends of the Pennsylvania Maple Festival. Although the festival was held in Myersdale, top maple producers located around Salisbury attracted tours to the area. Shows were also held prior to the Christmas season.

While the pressing goal of the association is to permanently locate its art gallery in a large building so they can offer art classes and seminars, they have found a good temporary location on Grant Street in Salisbury. Just a few feet from the town's only traffic light, the building sits along Route 219 where association members host the facility for visitors from 12 noon to 5 p.m., Wednesdays through Sundays.

Also a musician, Otto, a bank manager by profession, has played piano and organ for years, tutoring many pupils. She says she still sets aside time for a few piano lessons. She is one of two organists at her church.

She attended Hood College in Frederick, Md., and Norristown Business College, Norristown. After working a while in Philadelphia, Otto says she returned to her home area and began working in a bank, a career which has spanned some 31 years and advanced her to manager's position at Integra Bank in Salisbury.



Dixie Otto hangs some of the glass ornaments to provide a sun-catching arrangement.

Dixie displays her stained glass wares in the art gallery: lamps, pencil holders and nightlights.

Homestead Notes

Pa. Cattlemen Seek Queen

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Applications for the 1992 Cattlemen's Queen are currently being accepted by the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association. PCA will be selecting a queen and one alternate during the 1992 PA Beef Expo, March 26 and 27.

The Queen contest is open to any interested female, ages 18 to 23. Contestants must have a working knowledge or have displayed abilities to work with cattle at the on-farm level of the cattle industry.

The Cattlemen's Queen will be crowned at the Annual Awards Banquet, Friday, March 27. She will represent the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association and the beef industry at various events throughout the state.

The Pennsylvania Beef Council will also be selecting "Beef Industry Representatives" for 1992. Serving as the Cattlemen's Queen would not interfere with that individual's opportunity to serve as a Beef Industry Representative.

Applications are available by contacting Sue Clair, Chairman of the Queen Program Committee, 568 Rock Road, State College, PA 16801, or by calling Mrs. Clair (814) 238-1233 or Marie Painter, PCA Sec'y (814) 258-7283.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Maybe it's age.

But lately I seem to get sidetracked with increasing frequency.

You've probably never done this.

Say, you're making lunch. And you need some ingredient from the freezer in the basement, like a spare loaf of bread stashed away there.

So you trot down the stairs.

There you note that the heat from the woodstove seems to be fading. So you open the stove door to stuff in a couple of chunks from the wood stack.

But before you throw in the wood, you note that an abundance of ashes has accumulated. So you trot out to the porch for the ash bucket.

But the ash bucket is full. Very full. So you throw on a jacket, dash back outside, grab the running-over bucket of ashes, scatter them over the garden, go back inside, remove the ash from the firebox, restuff the stove with wood and return the ash bucket to the porch.

But now you've noticed, that the inside supply of wood is dwindling and an arctic cold front is on its way. So you prop open the door and lug in several armloads of ammunition against tomorrow's icy chills.

In the process, you drop bits of bark, woodchips, sawdust and a scattering of dry leaves that swirled in through the open door with a prelude gust of cold. Fetching the broom and dustpan, you remove that mess before it spreads any farther.

Now, back to your original purpose for having trotted down the stairs.

But before you reach the freezer, you realize that the load of laundry in the dryer is finished tumbling. So you dump the armload of dried things into the laundry basket, transfer another load of wet items from the washer to the dryer, and start yet another load through the cleaning process.

You remove a couple of hand and bath towels from the basket full of dry items and begin folding them on your way back up the stairs.

Back in the kitchen, you stand there momentarily and ponder why you originally went to the basement in the first place.

Then, you remember that you needed a loaf of bread for lunch.

And you trot back down the stairs to fetch what you set out to get a quarter-hour earlier. Hoping you don't forget by the time you get to the bottom of the steps what you went for.

Now, you don't do that, do you?

I plead guilty. And this problem isn't isolated to the house.

Quickie trips to the garden during summertime get sidetracked with similar ease. Perhaps it's just to pick a green pepper for a supper salad.

But Solomon will want to play ball on the way, so I'll toss him his rubber ball a couple of times. Remember that I needed to pull a few onions. Decide to check the tomatoes while they're handy. Spy a ripe cantaloupe that would be tasty for dessert. Pull a couple of weeds in passing. Take the long way back around the lower back yard roses to check the latest blooms; and while I'm that close, sneak up to the bank of the little pond to see if I can spot any fish poking around near the upper edge.

And inevitably end up back in the kitchen with a little of everything from the garden except - you got it - that green pepper.

This is not just an issue of female forgetfulness, either, folks.

More than once, The Farmer has made a quick dash to the barn office to retrieve for me some piece of cattle record information, like the registry number for a bull we had never before used.

Before he returns three hours later he will have helped chase in an ornery heifer that slipped through a gate, bred a couple of cows, helped start some reluctant piece of equipment, been called off to repair a wagon tire, fielded three phone calls and two salesmen - and eventually show up just in time for lunch.

By then I will have long forgotten what bit of information I originally needed.

Things do have a way of ultimately getting done - they just don't always get done in the order originally intended.

We like to think of it, not as forgetfulness, but as flexibility.

"Microwave Magic"

By:
Carol Stark

Stop here for sophisticated fare. Let's try recipes that are a little different and not your every day microwave item. Appetizers and beverages for parties are sometimes mind busters as to what to have that might be different.

What are the advantages of microwaving appetizers and beverages? Many appetizers, such as cocktail meatballs and stuffed vegetables are precooked but require reheating before serving. The microwave does this quickly and efficiently. Individual servings of beverages can be heated or reheated in mugs using the microwave. Melting cheese on crackers is a snap in the microwave. So when thinking of parties, think of those last minute warmups in the microwave.

Basic Cocktail Meatballs

1 pound ground beef chuck
¼ cup quick cooking oats
2 tablespoons catsup
1 egg
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
1 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
BAKING DISH - 12-inch
(Cooking time for beef meatballs)
TIME AT HIGH - 4 minutes
TIME AT MEDIUM LOW 3 to 4 minutes

In a medium bowl, combine ground beef, oats, catsup, egg, onion, and parsley flakes; mix thoroughly. Shape into balls. Place in a baking dish, and cover with vented plastic wrap. Microwave at full power (HIGH) for 4 minutes. Turn meatballs over and rearrange in baking dish; cover. Microwave at MEDIUM LOW for 3 to 4 minutes. Drain.

Deviled Cocktail Tidbits

60 cooked basic cocktail meatballs
2 (10-ounce) jar currant jelly
¼ cup creme de cassis
¼ cup prepared mustard
2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
3 tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons cold water
BAKING DISH - 2-quart
TIME AT HIGH (Sauce) 8 to 9 minutes
TIME AT HIGH (Thickened sauce) 3 to 4 minutes
TIME AT HIGH (Meat added) 8 to 10 minutes

Prepare Basic Cocktail Meatballs. In a casserole combine currant jelly, creme de cassis, mustard and horseradish. Mix well. Cover. Microwave at full power (HIGH) for 8 to 9 minutes. Stir twice. In a small bowl, blend cornstarch and cold water. Stir into casserole. Microwave at full power (HIGH) for 3 to 4 minutes or until thick and bubbly, stirring 3 times. Mixture should be thick and smooth. Stir in meatballs. Cover. Microwave at full power (HIGH) until heated through, stirring once or twice. Serve with cocktail picks.

Fruity Popcorn Treat

2-quarts popped popcorn
1 cup salted peanuts
⅔ cup sunflower kernels
⅔ cup shredded coconut
½ cup sugar
¼ cup butter
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup honey
1 cup golden raisins
1 cup snipped dried apricots
BAKING DISH - 12-inch square microwave dish
GLASS MEASURING CUP - 1 quart
TIME AT HIGH - 2 minutes
TIME AT MEDIUM LOW (syrup) 5 minutes
TIME AT MEDIUM LOW (Popcorn mixture) 5 minutes

In a baking dish combine popcorn, peanuts, sunflower kernels and coconut. Toss to mix well. Set aside. In a glass measuring cup, combine sugar, butter and cinnamon. Drizzle honey into sugar mixture. Microwave at full power (HIGH) for 2 minutes or until boiling, stirring once. Stir well. Microwave at MEDIUM LOW for 5 minutes. Pour over popcorn mixture. Mix with 2 forks, coating all pieces with syrup. Microwave at MEDIUM LOW for 5 minutes or until heated through, stirring once. Stir in raisins and apricots. Cool completely. Store in tightly covered container.

This recipe is a nutritious one for the children as well as colorful. The kids will love it.

A microwave caution: Trying to pop popcorn in the microwave without the proper equipment can be dangerous and even result in fire. Do not attempt to pop popcorn in your microwave unless you have a popcorn popper or packaged popcorn specifically designed for use in the microwave oven.

Easy Bean Dip

1 (11½-ounce) can condensed bean with bacon soup
1 (5-ounce) jar processed cheese spread
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
¼ teaspoon bottled hot pepper sauce
1 cup dairy sour cream
BAKING DISH - 1 quart
TIME AT HIGH - 4 to 5 minutes
TIME AT MEDIUM LOW - 2 minutes

In a deep 1-quart casserole, combine soup, cheese, brown sugar, Worcestershire sauce, mustard, onion and hot pepper sauce. Cover. Microwave at full power (HIGH) for 4 to 5 minutes, stirring twice.

Stir in 1/2 cup; bean mixture into sour cream. Stir sour cream mixture into bean mixture in casserole. Cover. Microwave at (MEDIUM LOW) for 2 minutes stirring once. Serve hot with vegetable dippers and chips.

Nut Nibblers

¼ cup butter
2 teaspoons celery salt
2 teaspoons chili powder
2 teaspoons onion powder
7 cups mixture of pecan halves, cashews, whole almonds
GLASS MEASURING CUP - 1 cup
BAKING DISH - 12-inch square microwave baker
TIME AT HIGH - 45 seconds
TIME AT MEDIUM LOW - 40 to 45 seconds

In a 1 cup glass measuring cup, combine butter, celery salt, chili powder and onion powder. Microwave at full power (HIGH) for 45 seconds or until butter mixture has melted. Place nuts in a baking dish. Stir butter and pour over nuts. Toss until coated thoroughly. Microwave at MEDIUM LOW FOR 40 TO 45 SECONDS UNTIL TOASTED STIRRING 3 TIMES. Cool completely. Store in a plastic bag or airtight container.

New Weigh Of Life

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lose weight for a lifetime. Penn State's College of Agriculture has introduced a weight-management program designed to help people shed pounds — permanently.

"Although many people lose weight on traditional diets and weight-control plans, 95 percent gain the weight back," says Dr. Madeleine Sigman, assistant professor of food science and a registered dietitian. To address the problem, Sigman developed "My New Weigh of Life," a program that teaches participants to integrate weight loss into their lifestyles. "Managing your weight is a personal issue," Sigman says. "To be permanent it must become part of your life."

The program grew out of current research into theories about obesity, weight loss and coping management. Participants are given accurate, up-to-date information about food nutrition and exercise. They are encouraged to recognize their own needs and choices and to be more physically active. Participants also learn how to lower the fat content of favorite recipes. The program's philosophy is that there are no forbidden foods, only those a person might choose to eat less often and in smaller amounts. By keeping a diary of their food intake and mood patterns, participants identify behaviors that have led them to overeat. Recordkeeping also helps them set realistic goals.

For permanent results, the program calls for a slow loss of weight, ½ to 2 pounds per week. Enrollees must eat three meals daily. "If you don't eat for a long time during the day, your body signals to itself that whatever comes in next should be stored as fat," says Sigman. "If you skip a meal to lose weight, you actually are defeating the purpose."

Toward the program's end, participants are shown how to cope with relapes and how to establish a weight-maintenance support group.

The Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Office is offering "My New Weigh of Life" at two locations this winter and spring. If you would like more information, call the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Office at 717-394-6851.

Novel Ideas For Cereal

It's amazing the recipes that can be made with cereal. Equally amazing is that the cereal generally has a whole new flavor when used in cooking.

Many of these recipes are quick and nutritious. They're sure to give you new options for fun and tasty cooking.

CEREAL COOKIES

½ cup butter
16-ounce bag marshmallows
6 cups crisp rice cereal
5 cups puffed rice cereal
1 cup cut-up fruit-flavored gumdrops

Melt butter in large heavy saucepan; add marshmallows and cook over low heat, stirring constantly until marshmallows are melted and mixture is syrupy. Remove from heat and add cereals and gum drops. Stir until well mixed into a buttered 9x13-inch sheet cake. Press firmly into pan. Bake 5 minutes at 250 degrees.

John Hess of Manheim creamed the other contestants during the Ice Cream Churn-off held during the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

With his rasberry ice cream made with his grandmother's specialty jam, John churned his way to the top prize of $300.

Granted, you don't have access to his grandmother's homemade jam, but maybe you can substitute your own or your favorite brand and still stir up a batch of prize-winning ice cream. Here's John's recipe.

RASPBERRY ICE CREAM

1 quart thin cream
1 can sweetened condensed milk
2 cans evaporated milk
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons vanilla
Enough milk to fill ice cream freezer
5 eggs
16-ounces homemade raspberry jam

Mix all ingredients together except the milk and jam. When the sugar is completely dissolved and free of lumps, add the milk and begin freezing. Add the jam when the ice cream is about half frozen. Makes 6 quarts.

Barbara Winfield's Quilt Wins Best Of Show

BETH WHITMAN PITZER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

Mechanicsburg (Cumberland Co.) — Barbara Winfield was thrilled when the quilt she made took "Best of Show" at the Farm Show. She smiled as she said, "I was really pleased... It's special to get recognition for something you've made." The artistic pattern of rose and blue strips garnished with a flair of green makes it easy to see why this quilt was a winner. The worksmanship and stitches are equally as beautiful.

Barbara has been sewing and quilting for years. In previous competition, Barbara had other people finish her quilts. This past year was the first time she did her own final stitching on the quilt she made for Farm Show competition.

Barbara works full-time. She estimates that it takes six months to make one quilt. She doesn't use any special tools for her creations. She quilts on her lap, starting in the middle and working to the outside to keep it nice and flat. Her dog lays on the end of the quilt while she is working on it.

Barbara has been fascinated by quilts since she was a small girl. She enjoys every step of the process that goes into making each quilt. She especially likes working with the design, colors, and paying special attention to the workmanship. When asked what some of her tips were for quilting, she said she is meticulous when she measures, sews, presses, and clips. She also found that her sewing and tailoring background helped teach her clipping, pressing, and stitching skills.

All 100% cotton fabrics are used for the design and backing of all of her quilts. Barbara begins by prewashing all of the fabrics and has found it helpful to buy only brand name fabrics. She enjoys taking a trip to Lancaster once a year for the backing and fabrics.

A bigger picture of Barbara Winfield shows a nurse at Mechanicsburg Area Intermediate School for 14 years. She has four adult children and three grandsons whom have been gifted with quilts. The married children have each received a quilt as a wedding gift. She's hoping to be able to quilt for her first granddaughter in March.

Barbara designed and quilted a beautifully detailed child's quilt for her grandson Matthew last year. Coloring book shapes came to life as dozens of fabric appliques on a primary-colored pieced quilt. She used a bike, double bus, plane, train, balloon, and dairy truck as some of the shapes. The dairy truck has special significance in her family as her husband works for a local dairy.

A hobby that began as a child making doll-clothes has bloomed into a beautiful expression of color and design. Barbara enjoys the artistic expression of quilt-making and finds it to be a wonderful way to relax.

Delaware Ag Auction Slated April 4

DOVER, De. — The Delaware Agricultural Museum's annual benefit auction will be held on Saturday, April 4.

A sample of the items which have already been donated to the auction includes: antique meerschaum pipes, copier, wrought iron table and chairs, cobbler's bench, a Nipon China vase, a baby stroller, dehumidifier, Victrola, glassware, guitar, Antari computer printer and a birdhouse. The museum has also accumulated many treasures for the flea market and book sale which are held in conjunction with the auction.

The museum needs many, many more items to sell - antiques, collectibles, old and new farm equipment, household goods, tools, plants, trees, hardware, crafts, gift certificates, books. etc. Since the museum is a private, non-profit organization, the fair market value of any donated item is tax deductible.

For further information about the Delaware Agricultural Museum's benefit auction or to arrange for delivery/pick-up of donations, please call (302) 734-1618. The museum is located on Route 13 in Dover just south of Delaware State College.

MICROWAVE CHICKEN BREASTS PARMESAN

8-ounces tomato sauce
1 teaspoon Italian seasonings
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
⅓ cup corn flakes crumbs
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
2 large boneless chicken breasts, split, skinless
1 egg, beaten
½ cup shredded Mozzarella cheese
Parmesan cheese, grated

Mix tomato sauce, seasoning, and garlic salt in 2-cup measure. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave at high for 2 minutes. Stir. Reduce power to medium. Microwave 5 minutes, stirring once. Set sauce aside.

Mix corn flake crumbs, ¼ cup Parmesan cheese and parsley flakes. Dip chicken breasts in beaten egg, then in crumb mixture. Place in casserole dish, cover with waxed paper. Microwave at medium-high until chicken is tender, 9 to 15 minutes, rearranging after half the cooking time. Do not turn over.

Pour sauce over chicken. Sprinkle mozzarella over chicken breasts. Sprinkle with Parmesan. Microwave at medium-high until mozzarella melts and sauce is hot, 2 to 6 minutes.

RAISIN BRAN MUFFINS

10-ounces raisin bran
5 cups flour
3 cups sugar
2 teaspoons salt
5 teaspoons baking soda

Mix well. Add:

1 quart buttermilk
4 beaten eggs
½ cup butter, melted
½ cup oil

Beat until well moistened. Bake in muffin tins at 400 degrees for 15 minutes. This dough can be kept in the refrigerator in a covered bowl for several weeks.

2 cups water
1 cup uncooked rice
2 large carrots, sliced
½ green pepper, chopped
¼ cup onion, chopped
Cheese

Combine meat, bread crumbs, egg, and salt. Mix lightly and shape into 18 balls. Brown on all sides in a large skillet. Drain. Add water, rice, carrots, green peppers, and onions. Cover and simmer 25 minutes. Add cheese and heat until it melts. Serves 4 to 6.

Cheesy Rice Pie

1 pound ground meat (beef, turkey, pork)
½ cup dry bread crumbs
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper, optional
2 cups tomato sauce
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 cups cooked rice
1 cup grated cheese

Mix together ground meat, crumbs, onion, pepper, ½ cup tomato sauce, and seasonings. Pat mixture on bottom and sides of pie pan. Combine rice with remaining tomato sauce and ½ cup cheese. Pour into meat shell. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Top with remaining cheese and bake 5 more minutes. Serves 6.

Potatoes And Zucchini Au Gratin

3 cups potatoes cooked, peeled, sliced
3 cups sliced zucchini, ½ -inch sliced
2 tablespoons water
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon instant chicken bouillon
1½ cups milk
1 cup shredded mild cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
½ teaspoon thyme leaves
Canned French fried onions

In medium saucepan, cook zucchini in water for 5 minutes or until tender. Drain; set aside. In medium saucepan, melt butter; stir in flour and bouillon. Gradually stir in milk. Cook and stir until bouillon dissolves and sauce thickens. Remove from heat; add cheese, pimiento, and thyme. Stir until cheese melts. In 1½ -quart baking dish, layer one-half potatoes, zucchini, and sauce. Repeat layers. Bake at 350 degrees, uncovered, 25 minutes or until bubbly. Top with onions; bake 2 minutes longer.

GRAPE NUT PUDDING

1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup coconut
¾ cup Grape Nut cereal
1 cup cracker crumbs
1 cup sugar
1 quart milk

Heat milk and thicken with flour. Add sugar and egg then remove from heat. Add additional ingredients and stir. Serve warm or cold.

Champion Colored Fleece Named

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Greta Dise of Glenn Rock took champion honors with a colored fleece from her colored Border Leicester ram in both the Wool Show and the Colored Fleece competition held at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

It was the first time for the colored fleece competition sponsored by the Natural Colored Wool Growers Association Friends in Pennsylvania, a networking group that promote quality colored sheep and wool. For more information on the association, write to NCWGA Friends in Pa., R.D.2, Box 120, Millerstown, PA 17062.

 Pennsylvania produces 10 billion pounds (or 1.16 billion gallons) of milk annually, which is 7% of the nation's total milk production.

 There are 13,200 commercial (10 milk cows or more) dairy farmers in Pennsylvania, with a total of 698,000 head of milk cows, averaging 14,324 pounds of milk per cow per year. The average Pennsylvania dairy farm has 53 milking animals.

 Nationally, Pennsylvania ranks fifth in milk production, preceded by Wisconsin, California, New York and Minnesota.

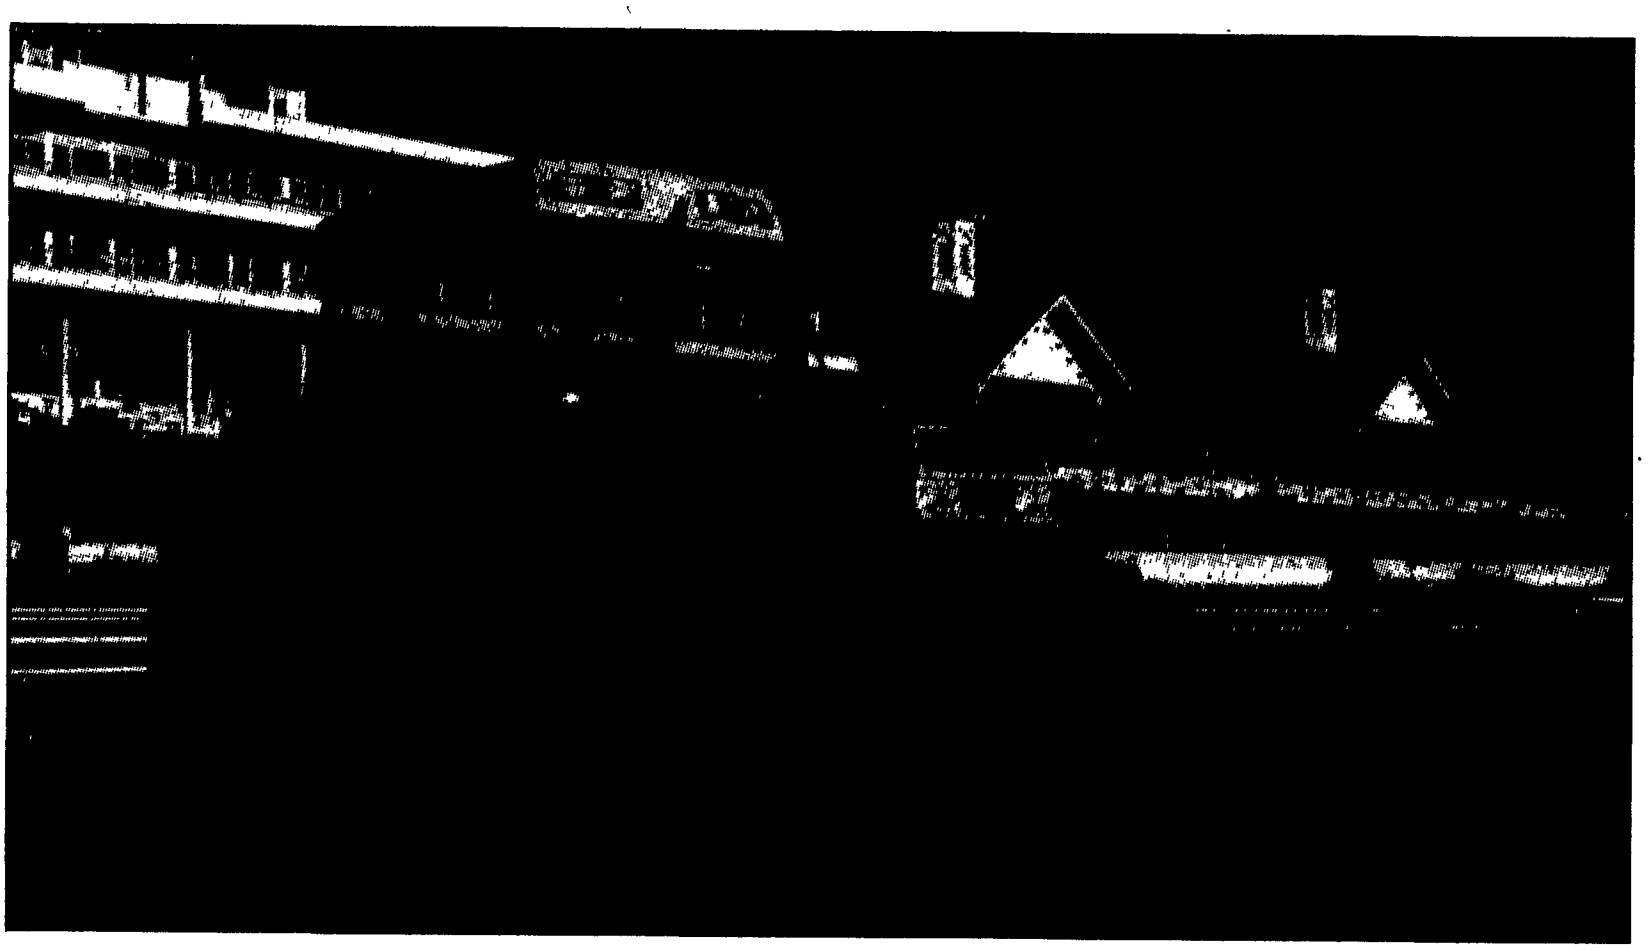
The typical American consumes around 26 gallons of milk per year.

Best Values in New Equipment



If you were a jockey, this would be Secretariat.

Power, speed, performance ... the best of its kind. That's what you think of when someone mentions a famous Thoroughbred like Secretariat. And it's what you get in Case International MAXXUM™ tractors at 77, 86 and 94 PTO horsepower (57, 64 and 70 kW).

Built with farmers like you in mind. MAXXUM tractors are in a class by themselves, with the features farmers like you demand: Plenty of glass for an unobstructed view. A forward/reverse shuttle shift and optional powershift transmission to make you more productive. Optional creeper speeds for added versatility. Quiet, comfortable cabs to make long days go easier. Power and traction to handle more work than you've ever done with this size tractor. But that's not all.

MAXXUM

In a class by itself.

Put a Thoroughbred to work for you. You may not be a jockey. But as a farmer, you need a tractor that performs like a Thoroughbred day after day, season after season. You need a MAXXUM tractor. Ask your Case IH dealer to bring one out to your farm so you can put it through its paces.

Explore A World Of Fun, Learning At Hands-On House

Laren Chaby, 3, practices in the Soundworks room.

Real big.

Like the size of a whole house, with nine rooms filled with more things to do then you've ever seen.

Then imagine going to your friend's birthday party in this real big room.

Travis Chaby, who lives in Brownstown, did. Twelve of his friends surprised him when they came to his fifth birthday party at the Hands-On House.

At the Hands-On House (which runs year-round), kids 3-10 years old get a chance to learn by doing. Kids can make some of the neatest music. Or they can practice on a big construction set. They can look through the kaleidoscope in the Eye Spy room, play doctor with some real lifelike equipment in What's Up Doc? or shop for food like mom and dad do in the Corner Grocery.

They can visit the Not Just Trees room (go on a forest treasure hunt and listen to a talking tree). They can paint faces at the Face to Face room. Or kids can visit the Pack Rat Habitat and pack their bags full of neat stuff to build a project at home.

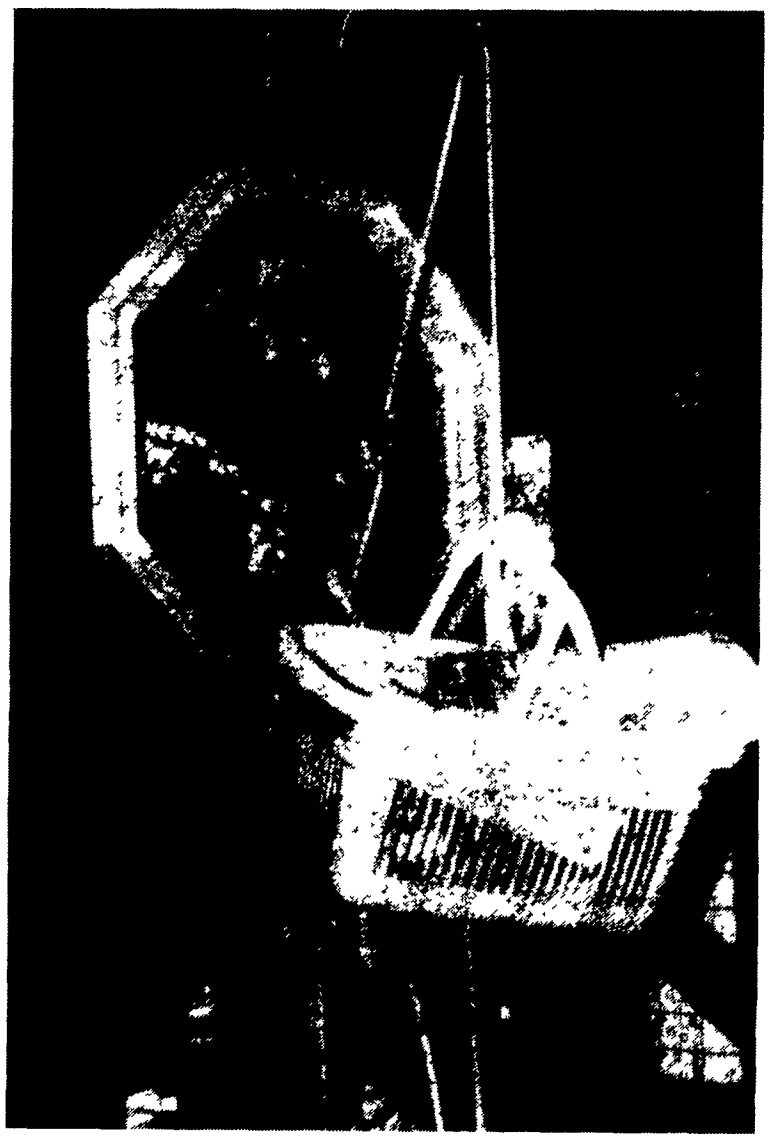
For Travis and his 12 friends at the party, cake was served, along with apple juice and "Pack Rat" party favors.

The same day, Christopher Colosi, Lititz, invited eight other friends over for his fifth birthday.

Saturday is the busiest day for the Hands-On House, which is open everyday but Monday. The house was built in 1900 by Peter and Priscilla Landis on 30 acres of farmland. It is a six-bed, one bath-room house, renovated in June 1987 by the Hands-On Children's Museum of Lancaster at a cost of $90,467.

"When it's raining, a lot of people visit," said Elaine Dow, staff museum aid.

Kyle Hampson, 3, Brownstown wonders which car will be first at the finish line at the track.



Erika Hostetter, 6, Morgantown hoists up blocks at the Construction Area in Hands-On House.

Travis Chaby celebrated his fifth birthday with lots of activities at the Hands-On House.

Many day care facilities bring kids in for field trips, she said. Visitors come from places such as New York, Reading, and surrounding areas.

Recently, the Wickersham Elementary School visited.

"Here, the kids learn while they play," said Dow. "They learn about ecology and recycling and other things. Also, special teaching projects are held, which cover crafts and games."

Every month, the house offers a variety of activities for kids ages 2 and older. Each class explores a topic with lots of hands-on activities.

There are 25-30 staff, of which two are full-time and six work part-time.

Cost for admission to the house is $3 for children 2 years of older and adults. Kids under 2 are free. Special yearly membership rates are available.

The hours for the house are Monday, closed; Tuesday, 11 a.m.-4 p.m.; Wednesday, 11 a.m.-4 p.m.; Thursday, 11 a.m.-4 p.m.; Friday, 11 a.m.-8 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.; and Sunday, 1 p.m.-4 p.m.

Meet Huntingdon County Farm Women President Ruth Chilcote

ROCK HILL FURNACE (Huntingdon Co.) — Since 1970, Ruth Chilcote has been a member of Shade Valley Farm Women #4. Recently, Ruth was installed as president over the four Huntingdon County societies and their 48 members.

"I like Farm Women because it's a way to make new friends," Ruth said.

She found these friends shortly after her marriage to a dairy farmer.

It was these friends that comforted Ruth after she gave birth to a still born baby and when her husband of 10 years died of a brain tumor.

After her husband's death, Ruth moved in with an aunt who also died. Now Ruth lives alone. After 27 years of factory work, Ruth retired in the early 1980s. She is master head of the Shirleysburg Grange, a member of the Three Springs Rebecca Lodge, and a member of First Methodist Church.

She has traveled to places such as Nova Scotia, Hawaii, and Nashville. This year, she plans to vacation in Missouri.

Ruth said that Farm Women find it fulfilling to help with community needs. Recently members gave money to provide transportation expenses for a boy who needed cancer treatments.

"I would like to see more members join Farm Women," Ruth said. If interested in knowing more about the Huntingdon Farm Women Societies, contact Ruth at Rock Hill Furnace, Pa. 17249 or call (814) 447-3942. For information on Farm Women groups in other counties, contact Arlene Witman, 1351 Harrisburg Avenue, Mount Joy, 17552.

Ruth Chilcote

The Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania was founded October 14, 1914. It's purpose is to contribute to the power and influence of the farm home; to contribute to the community activity of farm women; to develop leadership and to promote better living and working conditions in the farm homes of Pennsylvania. The 16 county societies have a state membership of 3,371. Check this section weekly for a feature story on individual Farm Women presidents from Pennsylvania.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 14

Lancaster Farm Women #14 met on the evening of December 19 at the Woods Edge Plaza restaurant for a great time of food and fellowship with members, friends, and spouses. The spirit of Christmas was celebrated with the singing of carols. Members were entertained by the Barber Shop Quartet and many 'oldies,' 'humorous' and 'sing-along' songs.

On January 15 members met at the home of Arlene Eshbenshade for the annual sewing of cancer pads; 63 pads were completed by noon time. Hostesses of the day Hannah Brackbill, Helen Hershey, Rhoda Landis, and Helen Herr had sandwiches and salads prepared.

President, Ellen Newswanger, opened the meeting by calling on Rhoda Landis for a devotional. To depict the ringing in of the New Year, Rhoda rang a little bell as she gave her poetry and scripture.

Members decided on Alexandria, Md. as the destination for the one-day trip in April. The sewing committee reported that nine of our members sewed 158 new items and mended 30 pieces for the General Hospital on Jan. 9.

Ellen Newswanger, Jean Thomas, Rhoda Landis, and Gladys Eshbenshade represented the Society #14 at the State Convention of Farm Women held during the Farm Show in Harrisburg. They all were enthusiastically impressed with the speaker Ken Markley from the Narromore Foundation of Pa.

Viola Hostetter introduced Mrs. Harriet Sharpless who indeed is a doll lover. She moved 536 dolls with her and her husband into their room at the Willow Valley Manor. Each of the few she brought with her were special. Barbara Bush in her inaugural dress is very beautiful; the Bergman dolls and the Robin Woods dolls are very valuable. She had with her the very favorite doll of her childhood days a Victrola doll that still plays. Harriet gets much pleasure from sharing her family of dolls with others.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Donna Coleman.

York Society 7

York Starview Farm Women 7 met in January at the home of Viola Druck. Newly elected officers are Irene Rentzi, president; Donna Hoover, secretary; and Edna Brothers, treasurer.

The next meeting will be held on February 12 at 7:00 p.m. at the home of Nancy Emswiler. Each member should bring a Valentine verse.

Lancaster Society 15

Lancaster Farm Women Society 15 met January 16 at the home of Louise Wenger, Quarryville. Society 8 invited Society 15 to be their guests at a luncheon meeting held at Mt. Joy on April 8.

Jean Ressel reported the Sunshine committee sent 5 cards, flowers, and 3 fruit baskets. Members sang "Happy Birthday" to Trudy Bard, Jessie Trimble, Sally Greenwalt, and Kathryn Horner. Reports from the Pennsylvania Farm Show were given by Kathryn Horner, Judy Greenleaf, and Arlene Maule. They reported on the memorial service given the late Hazel Lowe, a former Farm Women #15 member.

A quiz on the Farm Women by-laws was given by Sadie Greenleaf. The Farm Women #15 budget for community work and projects designates $2,780 to be used during 1992. President of Solanca Fair, assistant Donald Trimble was present for consultations and questions concerning the Fair. The February meeting will be held at the home of Arlene Maule.

York Society 11

York Farm Women Group 11 chose "The 12 Days of Christmas as their theme for the year. The first meeting was held January 21 at the home of Cora Miller. The theme for the day "A Partridge in a Pear Tree" was used. Program chairpersons, Charlotte Dubbs and Orpha Innerst reported on the facts and habits of the partridge in the U.S. Every member received a pear.

Fourteen members responded to roll call by telling about a law they would like to change.

The "No strike" law for teachers and the abortion laws were the two laws with the most interest. The by-laws of the society were read.

The next meeting will be held February 18, at the home of Sarah Snyder. The theme for the day will be "Two Turtle Doves." Valentine's Day will be observed during roll call when members respond by telling of a love story they enjoy.

Berks Society 6

Berks Society of Farm Women, Group #6, had a luncheon meeting in the home of Dorothy Wagner, R.D. #1, Oley on January 21.

The nine members present answered to the roll question: Did you have a nice holiday?

The constitution and the by-laws were read by the president, Pearl Hoffman.

Thank you notes were read from the Hamburg State Center and the Keehn family.

A monetary donation was made to the Oley Valley High School BASH program.

Joyce Mast was welcomed and reinstated as a member of Group 6.

A shopping trip to the M.O.M. outlet is being planned for the February 18 meeting.

After the business meeting, a few games were played.

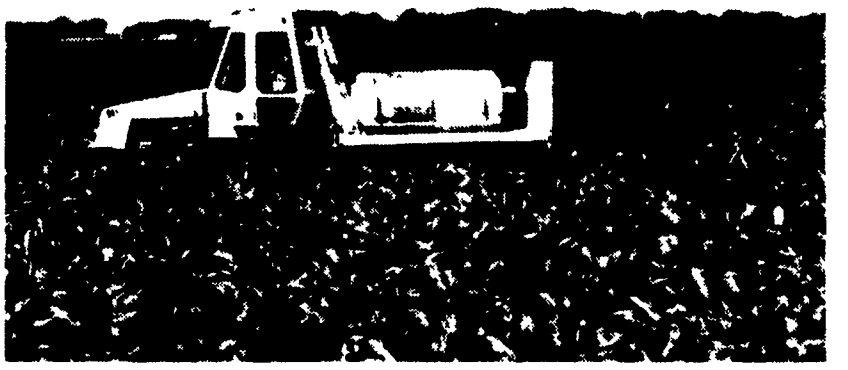
Now...the NEW Willmar Air Ride



Application Versatility
The AIR RIDE is a versatile applicator which can make accurate applications across rough fields before planting and through finished fields after the crop is up. A rugged four-wheel independent suspension supports the vehicle frame and allows the applicator to make precise custom application.

Adjustable Axles
The front and rear axles can be hydraulically adjusted from inside the cab, to any width between 72 and 96 inches to adjust for any row width.

Reduced Compaction
The AIR RIDE is equipped with 43x12.4x24 inch tires, to reduce crop damage and soil compaction.

60 Foot Boom
AIR RIDE's 60-foot self-leveling boom and 500-gallon spray tank translates into more acres per day.

Melt Ice But Save Plants

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.)— With all the talk about global warming we still need to deal with ice and snow. Fortunately, even if it is deep, snow is not usually a problem for your lawn and landscape plants. However, as you shovel or blow snow from walks and drives, watch where you throw it. Snow can be heavy and too much piled over shrubs may cause mechanical damage.

A real concern at this time of year is with the type of melting materials some people use to remove ice and snow. If used incorrectly, these materials can damage lawns, shrubs, and ground covers along walks and drives. The most common melting salt used locally is probably sodium chloride, sold as table salt, rock salt, ice cream salt or water softener salt. Calcium chloride is also available commercially in some places.

Applied at excessive rates, both calcium chloride and sodium chloride can injure plants. The sodium in sodium chloride will also damage soil structure and inhibit root growth and expansion. The U.S. Department of Interior, Park Maintenance Division, considers one-half pound of salt per square yard a safe rate for plants. This should be considered as total application per season and may be used as a guide.

If most of the salty water runs off your property onto the street, you might be able to get by with slightly higher applications. But remember, it's the salt that enters the soil that does the damage - both on your property as well as to surrounding areas.

A safer alternative for melting ice might be to use garden fertilizer. This is not quite as effective as salt, but runn-off water mixed with fertilizer will help plants and lawns as long as you don't use too much.

Excessive applications of fertilizer will harm plants in the growing season. When you use a complete fertilizer like 5-10-10, the muriate of potash or KCI does most of the melting. Any superphosphate in the fertilizer probably adds traction and skid resistance rather than increasing melting.

Pure nitrogen fertilizer, such as urea, is a good melter at temperatures down to 11 degrees Fahrenheit, and is best applied at temperatures between 25 to 30 degrees. Urea can be applied at rates of 10 pounds per 100 square feet. An application of a mixture containing 3 pounds of urea and 100 pounds of sand will melt ice and increase surface traction at the same time.

For longer lasting control of ice on sidewalks, mix sawdust and calcium chloride. The sawdust absorbs some of the melter and slows the run-off rate. Mix at a rate of one part calcium chloride to three parts sawdust.

Have You Heard?

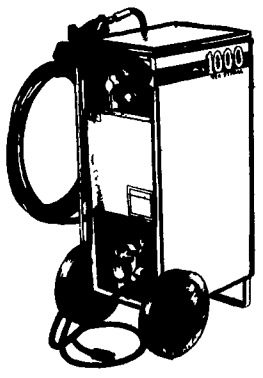
For most people, a large appliance is a major item in their household budget. To keep satisfaction high and disappointment low, I offer the following suggestions.

First study all the dealer's available printed materials. Specification sheets will help you compare different features, designs, and capacities on different makes and models. Check the warranty to find out how long the coverage is in effect, if it covers the entire product or only certain parts, and if labor is included. The appliance manual gives you information about how the product operates and any special care required.

Compare what you have learned with your personal requirements. What features will you really use? Will the use justify any extra cost? Will this model allow you to add on features in the future? Does the size meet your family's lifestyle requirements? Will the appliance fit where you plan to install it... with sufficient clearance to open doors or accommodate family traffic patterns? Does this include removal of your old appliance? How much will that cost? Does the dealer service the appliances he sells? If not, find the nearest location for authorized factory service.

Once you have that new appliance in your home, don't wait until it is too late to discover that something does not work properly. Warranties are based on time, not usage. Since most defects show up during the first few uses, make a point of trying out each feature and testing the controls in the early stages of ownership. If you have a problem, contact the dealer or service agency immediately. If they do not handle the problem to your satisfaction, contact the manufacturer. Keep a "paper trail," for example, put your complaints in writing, then keep a copy of all correspondence and service receipts, including no-charge, in-warranty calls. This type of documentation will help settle any conflicts that might arise.



PORTABLE POWER WASHERS

Removes Stubborn Dirt And Grime In Minutes!

Hand-cart mobility, and Pre-computed Mixing for easy cleaning/spraying.

The Portable Power Washer positively mixes soap from the heavy duty tank and powerfully applies them under high pressure, it also provides a high pressure rinse from the local water source.

The Portable Power Washer features the heavy duty Hypro pump and pre-computed mixing as standard features. The large wheels aid the hand-cart mobility over rough terrain and pavement.

The Portable Power Washers popularity stems from its ability to use powdered soaps and liquid concentrates equally well. This capability affords savings up to 75%.

ADC Meets Farmers' Needs

More Than $110 Million in Extra Payments

Robert B. McSparran
President

"At Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, our mission is to maximize returns to members. In the past four years, we returned more than $110 million to members in equity payments, over-order premiums and quality bonuses. That's an average of $31,500 per member. And these extra dollars are continuing at the rate of $1.5 million a month.

"When non-members ask me why they should belong to Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, I am happy to report that we are financially healthy, strong in membership and growing in sales. ADC is the region's largest and most fiscally-sound cooperative, with a guaranteed market and outstanding benefits.

"More dairy farmers joined us last year than at any time in the past decade. If you are not an ADC shipper and are worried about your own milk market, then you should talk to the cooperative that is facing the future with confidence."

Grube Family Surrounded By Rich History

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — If you are a history buff who is intrigued by the glamour and mystique of the famous, then the life of Judy and Don Grube would thrill you.

The Grubes and their two children, Todd and Sheree, live in the Stiegel House and are caretakers for the Coleman Mansion near Brickerville.

This former home of aristocrats brims with history, glamour, and a bit of mystery. It's the house where Baron Stiegel amassed great fortune until his frivolous lifestyle forced him to sell the property to Robert Coleman who built a nine-room addition and amassed 22,000 acres.

For the past 14 years, the property while owned by descendants of Robert Coleman, is home to the Grubes. Judy is quick to point out that living on the estate is not all glamour. It's a lot of hard work both inside and outside the mansion to keep it in shape. In addition, the couple operate their own business, Don Grube's Property Services, which has mulch, firewood sales and offers custom skid-loader and back hoe work.

In the fall, Todd was admitted to DeVry Institute of Technology in Columbus, Ohio, on a full scholarship for electronics engineering. His absence means that 16-year-old Sheree and Judy need to help more with the business. They tend the business located along Route 322, load mulch with the skid loader and even split firewood with a splitter. Judy also does the bookkeeping.

"Caring for the grounds and operating our business is a family affair and keeps us busy," said Judy. "It takes seven to eight hours to mow the lawn and we hire neighbor kids to pick up sticks."

Despite the business, Judy admits the breathtaking beauty of the grounds is exhilarating.

The history of the Coleman Estates begins in 1746 when John Jacob Huber, an immigrant from Germany, acquired 400 acres of land on the northern end of Lancaster County where he amassed a fortune in ironmaking.

About six years later, Heinrich Wilhelm Stiegel, an employee in the blast furnace married Huber's daughter Elizabeth. Five years later, Stiegel with partners, Alexander and Charles Stedman and John Barr, purchased the land from his father-in-law. Within three short years, Stiegel increased the acreage to 10,544.

Stiegel updated the Huber Furnace and when the official opening ceremony was held, the torch which set the Furnace ablaze was held by his wife Elizabeth and christened Elizabeth Furnace. That same year, the surrounding lands were named Elizabeth Township.

One year later, Elizabeth died while giving birth to her second child. Elizabeth Furnace experienced a building boom and in less than a year, Stiegel married another woman named Elizabeth.

Judy said that during that era, people referred to the property as the Elizabeth Furnace Plantation because it was a village complete with schoolhouse, grist and saw mill, 25 tenant houses, a general store, blacksmith shop and wagon maker's shop.

Four of the buildings still standing today include the long stables with their flattened arch doorway, the charcoal house where charcoal was stored to provide heat to melt the ore, the original home of John Jacob Huber, and the original tenant worker's house now used as a play house. A large stone outhouse containing two rooms, one for men and one for ladies, is still standing. Each side has three seats, one low enough for children.

Although surrounded by the fascinating history of the rich and famous, the Grube family believe they live an ordinary life as caretakers of the Coleman Mansion. From left: Don, Judy, Todd, and Sheree Grube.

In 1763, the Baron began his glass blowing business for which he became famous. Bottle glass and windows known as Stiegel glass are rare but several pieces remain in the Coleman mansion.

At first, it seemed that Stiegel was born to amass fortunes, but unfortunately Stiegel, who claimed to be a baron although it was never documented, was prone to grandiose living and high risk business ventures and he ended up in debtor's prison.

It is said that Stiegel had a 75-foot tower erected where a watchman fired a cannon to salute the Baron and announce his arrival.

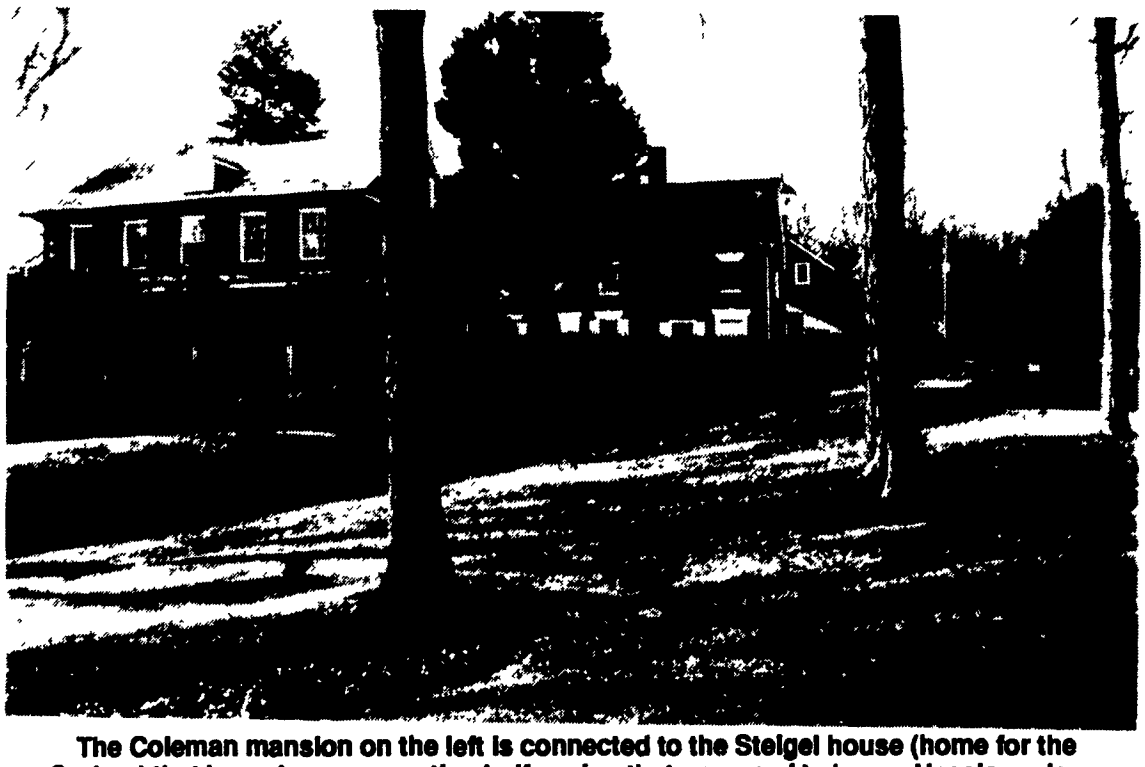
Later, the Baron founded the town of Manheim and had a band and orchestra play whenever he approached the town. The townspeople were expected to dance in the streets whenever the band played to greet the Baron's arrival.

After the Coleman family took over Elizabeth Furnace, they amassed a great fortune from the iron business.

The grounds surrounding the Coleman Mansion are excellent for horseriding, which the Grube's two quarter-horses offer.

In addition to being caretakers of Coleman Mansion the family works together in their business called Don Grube's Property Services. Here Don and Judy load firewood for a customer.

Several of the buildings that made up the iron plantation during the 1700s are still in good condition on the Coleman Mansion grounds.



The Coleman mansion on the left is connected to the Steigel house (home for the Grubes) that has a long connecting belfry wing that was used to house Hessian prisoners of war during the American Revolution.

During the Revolutionary War, 70 Hessian prisoners of war were lodged in the Belfry addition. It was their job to dig a canal 6x6 feet to reinforce waters to run the wheel which drove the blast engine at the furnace. It is known as the Hessian Ditch and remains of it can still be found today.

During the era when former President James Buchanan was Lancaster's most eligible bachelor, Coleman's daughter, Ann, fell in love with young James Buchanan. When the relationship ended during a lover's quarrel, Ann traveled to Philadelphia where she died suddenly and mysteriously.

Although no legal evidence exists, it is rumored that she committed suicide. Her father must have believed Buchanan was responsible for his daughter's death, because he refused to allow Buchanan to attend the funeral or visit his home again. It is believed that Buchanan never forgot Ann as he kept her portrait above the mantel in his Wheatland bedroom and he never married.

Tragedy increased for the Coleman family when a younger Coleman daughter became romantically attached to William Augustus Muhlenberg, a minister for whom Coleman built a church. But when the minister attempted to hold evening services in the church, Coleman forebade the minister to visit his daughter. Two months after her father's death, the daughter traveled to Philadelphia where she died as suddenly and mysteri-

4-H HAPPENINGS

4-H Potato Team

The Adams County 4-H Potato Judging team placed third at the annual state 4-H Potato Judging competition held at the 1992 Farm Show. The A Division team members were Rebecca Brown, New Oxford; Catherine Coleman, Hanover; and Debbie Wilkinson, Gettysburg.

Adams County had three B Division teams which placed third, fifth and sixth. The third place B team members were Matt Linebaugh, New Oxford; Jennifer Coleman, Hanover; and Sadie Bucher, New Oxford. The fifth place B team members were Sarah Almoney, New Oxford; Mary Johns, Centerville; and Greg Young, Biglerville. The sixth place team members were Zeb Eckert, Gettysburg; Eric Egger, Abbottstown; and Ronnie Young, Biglerville.

The individual placing for combined divisions are as follows: Catherine Coleman was third place individual with 449.6 points and Rebecca Brown was twelfth place individual with 433.1 points.

The teams have been practicing for the contest for the last 12 weeks. The contest consists of:

• Deciding if each of 100 potatoes is either in or out of grade — a time and accuracy relationship. • Identifying 20 potato defects on 40 potatoes. • Placing 2 classes of 4 plates of potatoes.

4-H Goat Club

The Cumberland County 4-H Goat Club will meet on February 5, at the home of Billy George Leib at 7 p.m. This will be an organizational meeting for the coming year. Anyone interested in joining is welcome.

If you would like additional information about the goat club, contact the leaders Red Allen at (717) 776-5097, Suzie Leib at (717) 697-5374, or Lois Zeigler at (717) 776-7583.

South Mountain 4-H

The South Mountain 4-H Club held its monthly meeitng recently at the Fontana community building. Fifteen new members joined at this meeting.

New business discussed: the 4-H Club has entered eight teams in the Bike-A-Thon for the American Heart Association at the Boscov's Mall. The club elected new officers including: Melanie Bushong as president, Andy Grubb as vice president, Amy Musselwhite as secretary, Mike Robertson as assistant secretary, Rebeka Messinger as treasurer, Jesse Wenger as news reporter, and Matt Robertson and Beck Musselwhite as game leaders.

The selection of projects are sewing, cooking, crafts, vet science, pet care, rocketry, wood working, vegetable gardening, entomology, photography, stamp collecting, forestry, ceramics, riflery, strawberries, counted cross-stitch, computers, posters, bicycle, child care, and cake decorating.

Vet science will start Thursday, Feb. 6 through March 12 and Ceramics will start Monday, Jan. 27-Feb. 17.

May 31 is the deadline to sign up for projects.

Adams County 4-H'er Recognized

At a recent competition at Penn State, Jacqueline Sterner of Gettysburg has been selected as the leading 4-H member in Pennsylvania in the Bread National Awards program. Sterner is the daughter of Charles and Judy Sterner, and is a member of the Shamrock 4-H Club.

In recognition of this accomplishment, Sterner will be attending the five-day National 4-H Congress at the Chicago Hilton and Towers in December as a guest of Fleischmann's Yeast, Inc. This program, attended by more than 1,500 4-H members from across the country, is filled with recognition events and education tours and programs.

The path to Chicago began more than 11 years ago when Sterner became a 4-H member. This spring, Sterner was selected to represent Adams County in state competition. Following a review of her 4-H record, and a personal interview, she was selected to represent Pennsylvania at the National 4-H Congress.

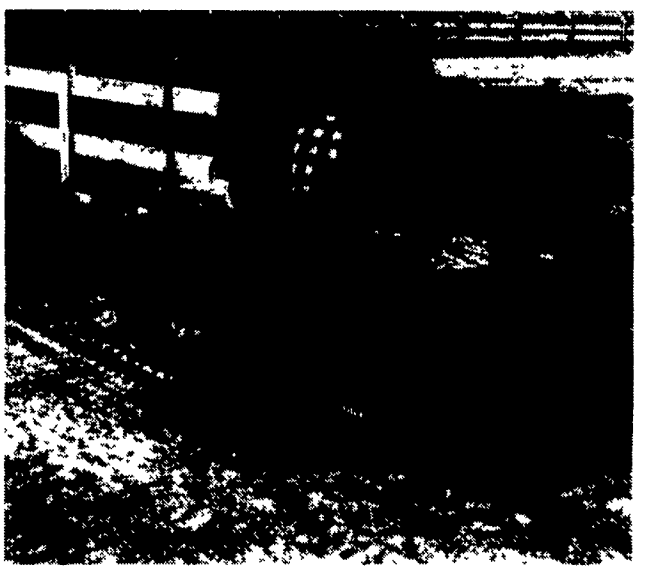
NO JOB IS TOO SMALL



Yes, our B-50 Series is a line of compact tractors ranging from 10 to 20 PTO HP. They're designed and built compact to increase maneuverability and to get in and around tight spaces.

But, don't let our size fool you. Powerful and versatile, the B-50 Series comes with a mid and a w-speed rear PTO. A variety of implements are available, mid and rear mount mowers, front loaders, box scrapers, backhoes, posthole diggers, snowblowers and rotary tillers.

Kubota's optional "Bi-Speed Turn" system allows smaller and precise turns in 4-wheel drive, which makes mowing and loading more efficient.

Reverse air flow cooling directs radiator heat away from the operator for a comfortable and quiet ride.

The Kubota B-50 Series can do the job!

Kubota Tractor Corporation markets a full line of tractors through a nationwide network of over 1,000 dealers.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

The year 1961 stands out in my mind at the present time because I've just spent several hours reading my diary for that year. Our children's ages were one, four, seven, ten and twelve. Not only did I read but I wrote 18 pages of tiny writing so that each child got a run down of their activities that year.

It is interesting for Philip and Lisa to compare their son's activities to the things that his father did at the same age. Their son is a bit heavier and taller and walked a little sooner.

Our four-year-old girl was mother's helper. She was anxious for kindergarten to start so she could go to school too. Her brothers made a sandbox for her and she entertained the baby. She asked questions like, "When I die, how will Got get my soul out of my body?" What a question for a four year old!

Now, the seven year old was a real boy. He drilled a hole down through the barn floor. He lay under a tree in the meadow when he was supposed to be pulling weeds. Often he fell into manure as he chased calves into pens. He lost things — so many things. His brother and he liked to make pancakes for breakfast, french fries for dinner and cookies for supper whenever they got the opportunity. He also helped to unload hay.

The ten year old drove the big tractor and was very careful but in later years he did have two accidents. He was generous to a fault. He took his earn money and bought his classmates a basketball. He made a mistake and told his sister what her birthday gift was going to be and then took five dollars off of his "earn sheet" and told me to buy myself a dress to pay for his error. We took him to so many Little League baseball games and 4-H dairy meetings.

His older sister always said that she had to work too hard and I guess she did. I too was the oldest of seven and had to be a big helper. She cooked, baked, hoed, tended calves, and hated cleaning her room. But, she was taken to Lancaster every week for violin lessons. She made nice clothes by going to a 4-H Sewing Club and had girl friends visit overnight.

Life really wasn't that bad as at the end of a hot day we could all go swimming in the Conestoga River.

Grube Family

The Colemans bribed the church into accepting $5,000 in exchange for dismissing the young minister. The church took the money, the minister left the area but, like Buchanan, he never married.

As caretakers to the mansion, the Grubes refuse numerous requests for tours of the mansion since it is co-owned by descendants of Robert Coleman who had purchased the land from Stiegel. Francis Coleman of Washington D.C. and his nephew William of Philadelphia, now own the property.

While the Grubes live in the Stiegel side of the mansion, the Coleman side is reserved for weekend visits from the Colemans.

It is Judy's job to polish the antique furniture and dust the volumes of ledgers that trace the history of the Coleman estate from the 1700s until recent times. Large matted deeds, indentures of servants and portraits, many of the Coleman family, hang on the walls or are stored in the attic that at one time served as servant quarters.

While the kitchen has been updated, most of the mansion remains in its former state. One room has hand-blocked wallpaper that dates to about 1815. The downstairs hallway is inlaid with six different types of wood. Several fireplaces in the mansion are still used by weekend guests.

Judy cleans the mansion weekly, and annually she hires friends to help give the mansion a thorough housecleaning.

One of the main reasons the Grubes love living on the secluded grounds is for horseback riding. The family has two quarter horses and Sheree, who is a junior at Warwick High School, competes in 4-H horse competition.

For several years, the Grubes kept 12 pygmy goats on the farm to help trim the grass, but the goats kept escaping and it was hard to keep the fences repaired. Occasionally the family also raises turkeys and a few chickens for their own use.

About 1,750 acres of the original acreage remain on the Coleman estate. Three-hundred acres are planted with Christmas trees for a wholesale and retail operation. During the Christmas season, the farm offered a horse-drawn wagon ride to the fields where families chose their own tree. Sheree helped form the fresh wreaths sold on the farm.

The Grubes said that it was a family decision to be caretakers for the Mansion especially since the whole family needs to help keep the grounds in shape. Leaf cleanup is especially time consuming. When the children entered high school and wanted to become involved in sports, the family reached the joint decision that each child needed to limit their involvement to one sport a year.

"We told them we could move to a house that required less maintenance so they would have more time for sports, but the children decided that they'd rather stay living on the grounds so that they could enjoy horseback riding, three-wheeling, and motorcycle riding on the grounds," Judy said.

The history of the Coleman estate chronicles the changes in society and the use of the land, but the beauty of the remaining 1,750 acres remain unchanged.

Social Security For Farm Women

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — What steps can a farm woman take to help ensure financial security in retirement? One important step is to build up social security eligibility, said Debra Bryant, Wayne County extension director.

Workers and self-employed individuals pay a social security tax throughout their productive years, then draw a monthly benefit after retirement until death. Farm couples who operate a farm together usually find that the husband is considered to be self-employed and the income from the farm is credited to him. The wife's work on the farm then results in no social security contribution in her name.

An exception to this rule occurs in a family partnership between husband and wife. The partnership agreement is usually written. Signs that a partnership exists include:

* The intent of the parties to form a partnership.
* The contribution of all parties of land, money or services.
* Participation in management by all parties.
* The sharing of profits and losses.
* Mutual agency, in which each partner can act for the other.
* Joint liability.

For social security purposes in a husband-wife partnership, each spouse reports his or her share of the profits on separate schedules. The procedure holds even if they file their income tax returns jointly.

Another way to build the wife's social security contributions classifies the husband as a self-employed farmer. He pays his wife a salary for her farm-business work. Her social security tax as an employee will be deducted from her paycheck, and her husband, as her employer will be required to match her contribution.

Although this arrangement decreases the income available for current use, it can have advantages in retirement.

Typically, benefits to a non-contribution spouse are lower than benefits to a contributing spouse. Paying the spouse a salary, therefore, and paying both the employee's and the employer's contributions can result in higher retirement benefits for the couple than if the retirement benefits are based solely on the earning of the self-employed farmer. In addition, the spouse could be eligible for benefits in case of disability.

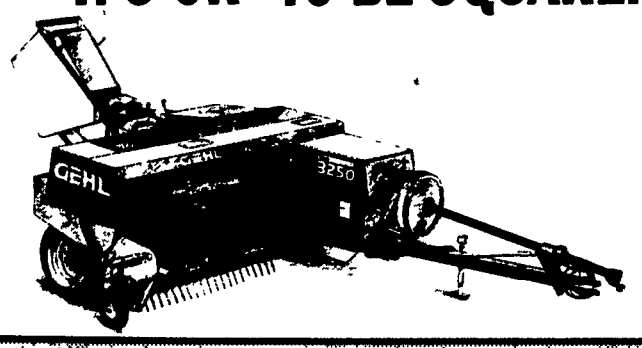
GEHL

IT'S OK TO BE SQUARE!



Gehl thinks it's all right to be square -- when it comes to baling hay, that is. That's why we've introduced two new square balers to compliment our great line of round balers and other Gehl haytools. Both balers make standard 14x18-inch bales and offer these proven features:

- Dependable knotter - Has fewer parts for more reliability and stronger knots, tie after tie.
- Wide pickups - With close spaced tines, flared side sheets and standard gauge wheel, the pickup brings in all of the crop.
- Plunger system - self-aligning for reduced wear.
- Bale tension - Easily adjusted with two handles.
- Hydraulic bale thrower - Has a self-contained hydraulic system and electric controls on the tractor (optional).
- Big twine storage - Holds 6 bales of twine.

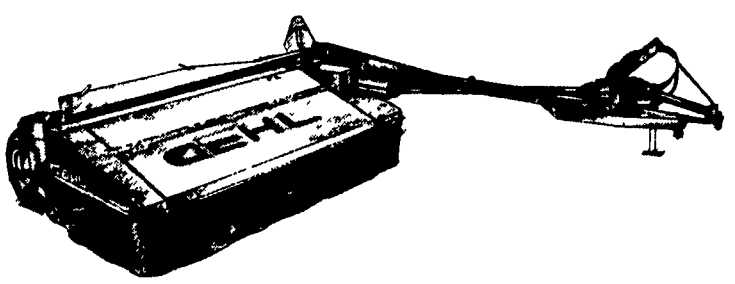
COMMON SENSE MOWER CONDITIONERS

Gehl mower conditioners are "common sense" machines because they're packed with sensible features. Gehl pull-type sicklebar mower conditioners are built to give you fast cutting and conditioning for quick crop dry-down.

- Full-width intermeshing conditioning rolls with intermittent ribs deliver thorough, uniform conditioning.
- Simple sickle drive with pivot-arm design provides more cutting force.
- Fewer moving parts than competitive models for worry-free performance.
- Three-point flotation support protects the cutterbar from rocks and uneven terrain.
- Two models with 7-foot and 9-foot cutting widths available.

CUT HAY THE DISC WAY!



Gehl has two all-new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy. The DC2340 has 7 discs and a 9-foot cutting width; the DC2360 has 8 discs and a 10½ -foot cutting width.

- High speed discs - Each disc has two knives to slice through the toughest crops and conditions; the disc gear drive operates in an oil bath for long life.
- Sturdy frame - Cradles the cutterbar for extra protection and durability.
- 540 or 1,000 rpm driveline with equal-angle hitch for smooth power transfer.
- Standard hydraulic tongue - Makes it easy to position the unit without leaving the tractor seat.

Care Promotes Lamb Survival

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Much of the profit in a sheep flock can be lost at lambing time, particularly during winter.

To prevent disease and death, farmers must take care of pregnant ewes and new lambs, said a sheep specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Lamb survival is a major problem in Pennsylvania sheep flocks," said Dr. Clair Engle, associate professor of animal science. "But there are a number of steps you can take to minimize lamb deaths."

Start with good nutrition for the pregnant ewe.

"First-lambing ewes and older ewes should get high-quality hay, because younger ewes are still growing and older ewes lose body condition more easily," Engle said. "A balanced mineral supplement with the major elements — salt, calcium, and phosphorus fortified with selenium — will improve general health and metabolic function."

He encourages producers to shear ewes a month before lambing, particularly if they plan to shed/lamb. "This reduces the risk of external parasites at lambing time and creates more room in the lambing pen. Newly shorn ewes will seek shelter during bad weather either before or after lambing outside. Shearing the ewe also helps newborn lambs get their early fill of colostrum milk." Give newly shorn ewes four to six days of protection from wet and cold environments and be prepared to use high-quality feed to prevent pregnancy toxernia.

When the ewe delivers, be sure the new lamb is breathing properly. "Clear its mouth and nostrils of mucous," Engle said. "Breathing can be stimulated by gently stroking the inner nostril with a straw, passing smelling salts by the lamb's nose, or administering mouth-to-mouth respiration." The lamb's heartbeat can be felt with a gentle touch in the area of the left forerib.

Next, make sure the lamb receives its first milk, or colostrum. "Newboms must nurse as soon as possible," Engle said. "Colostrum supplies antibodies that protect the lamb from possible illnesses caused by stresses such as drafts, low temperatures, dampness, or malnutrition. A lamb's ability to absorb antibodies diminishes greatly two hours after birth. By the time a lamb is eight hours old, it can absorb less than half of the antibodies that could have been absorbed shortly after birth."

It also is important to clip a lamb's umbilical cord and treat the wound with tincture of iodine solution before placing it in a lambing pen. "This helps prevent tetanus and other infectious organisms from attacking the lamb through the navel," Engle said. Keep lambs in a dry, draft-free environment. "Respiratory problems such as pneumonia are sure killers of baby lambs," Engle said. "If a baby lamb gets a chill, it's much more likely to develop pneumonia and will never fully recover even if it lives."

Four days after lambing, separate ewes according to single, twin, triplet, and multiple births and feed each enough to meet milk production needs. "High quality hay needs to be part of your feeding program," Engle said. "A 150-160 pound ewe with a single lamb can get by with four pounds of quality hay with a 14 percent protein content.

"Ewes with twins should get three pounds of hay and a pound of a 15 percent protein supplement containing corn, soybean or linseed meal, and possibly some com for extra energy. Ewes with triplets should get three pounds of hay and two pounds of supplement."

Castration and tail docking also should be done at three to four days of age or when healthy lambs have bonded well with their mothers. "Don't operate on a stressed or weak lamb until it's in better health," Engle said.

After four days, lambs and ewes can be grouped in small communal pens, with six to eight ewes per group. "Don't mix lambs differing in age by more than 10 days," Engle said. "Hungry older lambs can seek out the new mothers and take milk from younger lambs."

At this time you also may wish to expose young lambs to a pelleted creep ration. "It's important to give lambs their first C and D enterotoxemia shot at this age," Engle said. "A second shot given 10 days later provides full protection from the overeating disease."

If your production system requires early weaning, Engle recommends a minimum age of six weeks. "Waiting an extra two weeks to separate the lambs from their mothers helps lambs adjust to concentrate feeds," he said. "That ensures better growth and fewer health problems."

FARM MANAGEMENT

IS YOUR ESTATE PLANNED?

Alan W. Strock
Multicounty Farm Management Agent

While the new year is upon us and the meeting season is not quite in full swing, now is an excellent time to review your estate plan.

Estate planning involves many once-in-a-lifetime decisions. It is not merely writing a will. It involves many complex issues, feelings, and emotions.

Unfortunately, it usually is not at the top of one's "to-do" list, either. The last task of being a top-notch manager is getting the business, intact, to the next generation, or whoever you want to carry on. If you die without "putting our financial house in order," then added chaos, family squabbles, forced sales of assets, and increased taxes often result.

Establishing personal and family goals are a prerequisite to estate planning. Clearly defined goals and objectives will greatly simplify the estate planning process.

Let's look at a few of the goals and obstacles that your estate plan should address:

- Provide security for retiring parents and surviving family members.
- Treat the nonfarm and farm children equally and/or fairly.
- Provide guardianship for minor and/or handicapped children. Name the guardians and provide funds for the care and education of your children. Also appoint the executor to settle your estate and trustee(s) to mange your trust(s).
- Preserve the family wealth. Turn the total business over to family members. Specific goals must be set, and steps taken to avoid a family feud. This usually requires detailed planning, including a will, additional agreements, a planned gifting program, trusts, insurance, family mortgages, and installment sales, etc.
- Provide for the desired distribution of all assets, especially family heirlooms, antiques, and other specific gifts or bequests. The will must include details on who gets what.
- Provide revenue for your favorite church, charitable organization(s), or other humanitarian institution(s).
- Provide liquidity (cash) in the estate to pay costs. This can prevent a forced sale of assets in order to pay settlement costs, including taxes. Life insurance is commonly used to provide needed cash.
- Minimize estate settlement costs. In estates that exceed $600,000, tax considerations become more important. Most strategies that reduce taxes also require yield-

More accurate seed SPACING

John Deere MaxEmerge 2 Planters with improved VacuMeter system

John Deere MaxEmerge® 2 planters make every seed count, no matter what the crop. Our improved VacuMeter™ system gently selects individual seeds and releases them one by one for accurate plant spacing. Then, gravity takes over so seed falls into a perfectly formed furrow without the bounce and roll associated with other delivery systems.

The result is more uniform planting and better stands. Ask us about John Deere MaxEmerge 2 planters, including new front-folding planters.

USDA Completes National Swine Health Survey

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced the results of the first comprehensive, nationwide survey of swine health and productivity.

The National Swine Survey, sponsored by USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, (APAIS) consists of information on rearing practices, biosecurity efforts, illness, death rates, and preventive practices. More than 80 percent of U.S. hog farms and 95 percent of the swine population are represented in the survey results.

"Information gathered by the swine survey will allow pork producers and veterinarians to make informed decisions about disease priorities, farm management practices, and productivity," said Dr. Lonnie J. King, deputy administrator for veterinary services in APHIS.

"This survey provides statistically based information to support decision-making and action by producers, researchers, and animal health officials," King said.

APHIS collaborated with USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service to select a random sample of swine producers in 18 states and to collect data on management practices from 1,661 farms. For three months, 712 of those farms kept records measuring illness and death in baby pigs and sows, preventive and treatment practices, and productivity information. APHIS veterinary medical officers visited these farms monthly to collect the records and obtain additional information.

All participating farmers received their individual survey results so they could compare their farms with the national averages. Farmers can use the survey information to modify husbandry practices for greater productivity and more effective preventive care.

Survey findings included:

- 15 percent of live-born piglets in the study died before weaning. The piglets' average age at death was six days.
- The most frequently reported instance of death in preweaning piglets (43 percent) was crushing by the sow. Other reported instances of piglet death, in order of reported frequency, included starvation, scours (diarrhea), lameness or joint problems, deformities, respiratory illness, and nervous-system illness.
- 78 percent of swine producers surveyed vaccinated in the farrowing house to prevent illness in sows and gilts are 56 percent vaccinated boars. Preweaned piglets were vaccinated 57 percent of the time.
- Other frequent preventive practices included deworming, mange/lice treatment, and antibiotic treatment for adult swine.
- More than 80 percent of the sampled farms maintained at least one totally confined farrowing facility.

The comprehensive swine survey is part of a program to provide additional statistical data on the health and economic impact of husbandry practices on animal health production. APHIS operates the National Animal Health Monitoring System (NAHMS) in Fort Collins, Colo., as a clearinghouse for animal health information.

APHIS will conduct similar surveys of beef, dairy, and poultry farms in the future, according to Will Hueston, NAHMS director.

"By identifying losses from disease and other animal health conditions, we are able to assist farmers and veterinarians to identify safer, more effective farm animal management and health care," said Hueston.

Copies of the National Swine Survey summary report are available to the public. For further information, write to Swine Survey, National Animal Health Monitoring System, USDA-APHIS-VS, 555 S. Howes, Suite 300, Ft. Collins, Co. 80521.

Dealers' Association Announces President

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — John Grotzinger, owner & president of Grotzinger Equipment Inc., St. Mary's, Elk County, was recently elected president of the Penn Jersey Farm and Power Equipment Dealers' Association at their annual management conference held at White Haven.

Penn Jersey is a 500-member retail trade association of farm, industrial, and outdoor power equipment dealers located in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Grotzinger Equipment Inc. is a third-generation dealership started by John's grandfather in 1913. John's father owned the dealership until John was graduated from Penn State University in 1963 and came back in the business.

John was graduated from St. Mary's Area High School in 1959 and from Penn State University with a bachelor of science degree in dairy science and agricultural engineering.

He was a member of the Dairy Cattle Judging Team, past president of Elk County Ag Extension Service, and former member of regional extension service. He is a member of St. Mary's Chamber of Commerce, Kane Area Logging Safety Committee, and a past director and officer of the John Deere Industrial Dealers Association, Northeast division. He has served on numerous committees while a member of this association's board of directors, representing industrial dealers in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

ing control of assets.

Once you have prioritized these goals, you should also take an inventory of your personal and business belongings and debts. With your inventory and goals in hand, you are now prepared to take action with your estate planning team, which may include some or all of the following: family members, attorney, tax accountant, bank trust officer, business management consultant or advisor, cooperative extension agent, insurance professional, and investment advisor.

If you don't have a will, the state has one for you. If you die without a will (to die intestate), your assets will be distributed by the state's distribution plan. Their asset distribution will probably not be the same as yours. Your will can convey to special people, corporations, charities, churches, or other beneficiaries the specific property that you want them to receive.

If your estate is worth more than $600,000, you may consider setting up a trust that could save federal estate and state inheritance taxes. An estate worth $1.2 million can, by simply using a trust, save up to $255,500 in federal estate taxes.

Saving taxes is critical since the federal unified gift and estate tax rates start at 37 percent of the net estate above $600,000 and quickly increases, by steps, up to the maximum rate of 55 percent of a $3 million estate. The state tax rate is 6 percent or 15 percent of the entire estate, depending upon who inherits the property.

Remember, you have many tools available to you to facilitate the transfer of your estate, such as different ownership methods, last will and testament, power of attorney, trusts, special farmland use evaluation (IRS Code Section 2032A), sale of conservation easement, gifting, insurance, partnerships, and corporations, just to name a few.

Estate planning is more than writing a will. It is a process that will need to be updated as family needs, estate values, and laws change.

Now is an excellent time to get your family together and discuss your estate plan. Don't let dealing with difficult issues stop you from planning your estate's distribution.

For resources and personal assistance in helping to set priorities, evaluating various tools and options, and inventorying your estate, contact your local cooperative extension office.

Polled Offering Leads National Sale

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — If anyone ever wondered how popular Limousin genetics are in the Limousin breed, they just needed to watch the National Western Limousin Sale in Denver.

All told, 35.5 polled, purebred and fullblood lots marched through the ring for a $4,907 average, going to 14 states. Of the top eight sellers, six were polled.

Yackley-CMC Limousin of Onida, South Dakota brought the top selling bull with YKCC Polled Tango. Half-interest in the 8/30/90 Polled Power son out of YKCL Sabrina brought $15,500 from O'Brien Farms of Pineville, Missouri.

The sale show reserve grand champion female, VORD Amarillo's Fancy, was the top seller, bringing $15,000 from Stewman Ranches of Maryneal, Texas and Chavez Limousin of Lubbock, Texas. Vorthmann Limousin of McClelland, Iowa offered the black polled 2/1/91 daughter of WLCC Dollar Bill out of WCCL Polled Amarillo.

Whisman Limousin of Caney, Oklahoma stopped the bidding at $7,900 to own CHR Majestic Lady 017A, a black polled 2/19/91 LEHF Black Magic daughter out of CHR Ronda 210X that came from Coyote Hills Ranch of Chattanooga, Oklahoma.

Jim Young of Muleshoe, Texas bought into polled genetics as well when he gave $7,400 for OTSS Senor Power 0525Y, a 9/13/90 Polled Power son out of 503L's Senorita.

Drennon Springs Limousin of Campbellsburg, Kentucky took home the sale show grand champion female for $7,400. At that mark they got TUBB Miss Angel 118A, a 3/15/91 black polled TRAI Polled Savory daughter out of Miss 6678U that came from Ratliff's Cherry Creek Farms of Westphalia, Kansas.

La Tania, a 3/6/90 LL Live Wire daughter out of TTHF Geisha Lady 304T came from Lamborn Limousin and Lester Adler of Mounds, Oklahoma to earn $7,200. Buyers were CFLQ Limousin, Carruthers Limousin and Swan Limousin, all of Johnson, Kansas.

MGM Grand River Ranch of Chouteau, Oklahoma also gave $7,200 to own JCL Queen Maiden, a 5/14/90 TEXS Ranger Primo daughter out of SWPL Navajo Maiden that sold bred to Harvest Olympus, coming from Lisa Douglas of Miami, Oklahoma.

A black polled 2/22/91 SY Polled Satisfaction daughter out of BJCO Yellow Daisey Mae 156N rounded out the high sellers, bringing $6,950 from Seven Mile Limousin of Boise, Idaho. CHR Daisey Mae 022A was offered by Coyote Hills Ranch.

Ratliff's Cherry Creek Farms of Westphalia, Kan. led out the grand champion in the National Western Limousin Sale Show with TUBB Miss Angel 118A, a 3/15/91 TRAI Polled Savory daughter that later sold to Drennon Springs Limousin of Campbellsburg, Ky.

SAFER FARMS THROUGH TRAINING AND POSTING
Sam Steel
Sr. Project Assistant
Dept. of Agricultural and Biological Engineering

People who work in agriculture know that it is a dangerous occupation.

Extreme care must be exercised around farm tractors, equipment, facilities, livestock, and agrichemicals.

Even though the risks are well known, rates of serious injury and fatalities remain high. Data compiled annually by the National Safety Council show fatality rates comparable to mining, making them the highest per capita rates in the nation.

When risks translate into high injury and fatality rates, federal and state agencies often mandate new regulations which are designed to control or eliminate hazards. Such was the case with the Hazard Communication Standard (HCS) which was effected by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) in 1988.

These regulations were developed to protect the safety of employees on more than three million work sites, including those U.S. farms which employed 11 or more nonfamily member workers. The HCS meant that OSHA was moving into new areas of enforcement since hazardous chemicals and not "hard hat" or electrocution hazards were the prime emphasis.

From a federal perspective, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) had been the primary agency for regulating hazardous chemicals, including pesticides used in for businesses. Another factor which may delay implementation is USDA's negative views of portions of the new standard relating to field re-entry and the costs associated with "reasonable" posting of work sites.

Ultimately, farms throughout the United States will be required to develop training programs for workers and also post work sites with safety messages, warnings, and slogans which are in a language workers can understand. The best guess on when these regulations will go into effect is late 1992 or early 1993. Cooperative extension, pesticide education personnel, and staff of agricultural safety and health at Penn State have taken a proactive approach for working with farm clientele in Pennsylvania. Rather than wait for proposed regulations to become law, farmers should plan ahead.

If you are a farmer who employs other than family members, then you will likely be affected by EPA's new regulations within the next one to two years. You can plan ahead for worker safety regulations by developing a training program which covers the following:

• Survey those pesticides used on your farm and list potential hazards which are found on their labels. An example would be a weed killer which is readily absorbed by the skin. List human hazards and tell workers where potential exposures exist and how to protect themselves.

• Note the various signal words which are found on pesticide labels and explain their meaning to workers. An example is the word DANGER, referring to extremely toxic pesticides.

• Train workers on how to deal with emergencies. If a potential poisoning has occurred, workers should know how to provide "first on the scene" care and how to obtain emergency assistance.

• Obtain the necessary personal protective equipment for workers and maintain it in a readily accessible and clean location. Workers agriculture. It was apparent from the outset that OSHA's regulations would create some confusion, especially in the agricultural sector.

During initial OSHA inspections on farms in 1988 and early 1989, the typical violation involved the failure of farmers to develop a written training program for their workers. This program was supposed to make workers aware of potential chemical hazardous, how to recognize poisoning signs and symptoms, how to read and understand the signal words on chemical labels, how to utilize personal protective equipment, and how to deal with poisoning emergencies.

While OSHA was accomplishing a small number of agricultural work site inspections, EPA was developing new regulations to be called the Worker Protection Standard (WPS). It was appropriate that the two agencies reach some agreement on which of their standards would take precedence over the other.

Eventually EPA would prevail and OSHA administrators notified regional offices that enforcement of HCS would not be undertaken for pesticides. This left EPA with primary responsibility for developing regulations which would protect farm workers from exposure to pesticides.

Since EPA's regulations have not as yet received final approval, farm inspections relative to worker safety are now on hold in most states. Since California and Texas have regulations which can be enforced on agrichemicals, it is likely that their farms are being inspected.

As this article is being written, several factors will determine when and if EPA will be prepared to enforce the WPS on U.S. farms. Of primary consideration will be the impact of President Bush's request for a 90-day moratorium on federal regulations. His concern (and those of White House staff members) seems to be aimed at determining the compliance costs must receive training on how this safety equipment should be used.

And finally, contact local farm or supply stores and catalog services on the availability of safety signs for posting the work site. Signs used for posting should be explained to workers and be in a language that they can understand.

If you run into difficulty implementing chemical safety training and posting programs for your farm, call your county extension office and get assistance before new regulations place serious demands on your business.

PFA Praises Approval Of Bottle Bill

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The head of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) praised the recent approval of a "bottle bill" by the Pennsylvania House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee.

"Enactment of legislation to stop the litter of bottles and cans in our fields and pastures is a longstanding priority of our members," said PFA president Keith Eckel. "It's a multi-million dollar farm problem that the state's recycling law does not solve. We support the committee's action and will be working for prompt enactment of the bill by the General Assembly."

House Bill 829 would amend the 1988 recycling law to require a minimum deposit of five cents on every beverage container sold in Pennsylvania. Refunds would be available at the retail store where the container was sold or at local redemption centers established under the bill. Deposits would be required for containers made of glass, metal, paper, plastic, or any combination thereof, which hold beer, soft drinks or bottled water. Penalties for littering could range as high as $1,000.

Rep. John Broujos (D-199th Dist.), prime sponsor of the legislation and a member of the House Agriculture Committee, said, "The farm community has been at the forefront in conservation in many ways -- land conservation, farm land preservation, and now the bottle bill."

House Agriculture Committee minority vice-chairman Art Hershey (R-13th Dist.) is the other main sponsor for the legislation which would also ban "pop top" detachable openings on metal beverage containers and carrying or handling materials for beverage containers which will not decompose quickly.

The bill was approved by a 14-3 vote and was forwarded to the House Appropriations Committee for a review of its fiscal impact before going to the full House.

In announcing committee passage on Jan. 21, Rep. Broujos pointed out that the state's current recycling law only covers household waste. "Recycling does not prevent the waste that is strewn in fields, farms, streams and roads," he said, "Only a bottle bill will provide this protection."

"We've had bottle bill legislation get this far before, without success," said Eckel. "I think its important this time for Governor Casey to declare his support for this important environmental measure. It's been successful in other states. We think it's time to put it into effect here in Pennsylvania."

One Of Stoutest Limousin Shows Ever

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — Take 29 pens and six carloads of Limousin, put them in the old stockyards in Denver, and you have the makings for what was without question the stoutest National Western Limousin yard show to date.

A packed house crowd was on hand from beginning to end to watch the 143 bulls dance across the sand and to try to match placings with judges Dr. John Edwards of Texas A&M University; Alan Petzold of Arapaho, Oklahoma; and James Linthicum of Welch, Oklahoma.

Cane Ridge Farm of Paris, Ky. exhibited the grand champion pen of three Limousin bulls at the National Western in Denver.

When all was said and done, Cane Ridge Farm of Paris, Kentucky had the champion pen of three bulls with February and March 1991 bulls by Craftsman and SY Polled Reflection. The bulls were an average 7.3 for frame score, 30.8 cm. for scrotal measurement and 15.4 sq. in. for ribeye.

Petersonls L7 Bar Limousin of Pukwana, South Dakota was giving stiff competition for the top spot as their March 1991 son of The Virginian took reserve grand champión honors. The bulls were an average 7.4 for frame score, 28.9 cm. for scrotal measurement and 12.1 sq. in. for ribeye.

Competition in the carload show would have tested the abilities of any judge, given the quality and the depth. When the dust settled though it was Magness Land and Cattle of Platteville teaming up with Flying Dog Ranch of Woody Creek, Colorado to lead out the grand champion carload. All but one of the August and September 1990 bulls were sired by WLCC Turbo; the other by Polled Power. The bulls were and average 8.0 for frame score, 36.3 cm. for scrotal development, and 17.9 sq. in. for ribeye.

Perennial yard powerhouse, Yackley-CMC Limousin of Onida, South Dakota exhibited the reserve grand champion carload with bulls sired by YKCC Bandito, PMDB Adonis, Gretzky, Polled Sky Cat, YKCC Atlantic, YKCC Top Line, SY Polled Satisfaction and WLCC Turbo. The March and April of 1991 bulls were an average frame score of 7.1, 29.2 cm. for scrotal measurement and 13.4 sq. in. for ribeye.

Magness Land and Cattle of Platteville, Colo. teamed up with Flying Dog Ranch of Woody Creek, Colo. to exhibit the grand champion carload of Limousin bulls at the National Western.

Sets Growers Meeting

FLEETWOOD (Berks Co.) — The third annual grower's meeting of the Kutztown Produce Auction Inc. will be held on Thursday, February 13, at the Leesport Auction and Farmer's Market Banquet Hall. Registration starts at 9 a.m. and the meeting begins at 9:30 a.m. and will last to about 3 p.m.

Items of interest to the new grower as well as the not-so-new grower will be discussed. New policies, packaging requirements, post harvest handling of produce (before being brought to the auction), success and failure stories are some features.

Featured speaker will be Robert Van Liew, head of produce buying of Associated Wholesalers, Inc. of Robesonia discussing produce packaging, buying, and other needs of the larger produce buyer.

A variety of agricultural exhibitors will be at the meeting to answer questions.

A luncheon will be served at at cost of $4.50 per person. Contact Herb Gebely at (215) 683-7161 or (215) 926-6536 to make a reservation or for more information.

Conference Highlights Sustainable Ag

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Farming in an ecologically sound manner while maintaining profitability is a major challenge facing Pennsylvania's agricultural producers.

With the help of research and education, more farmers have the knowledge they need to sustain their operations and the environment.

The development of sustainable agriculture systems will be highlighted at a statewide conference Feb. 7-8 at the Keller Conference Center on Penn State's University Park Campus.

"Farming for the Future: Sustainable Agriculture in Pennsylvania" is organized by the Pennsylvania Sustainable Agriculture Steering Committee, an ad hoc group of farmers, educators, consumers, processors, and marketers.

"To be sustainable, agricultural practices must be profitable, environmentally sound, energy efficient, and compatible with society's goals," said Dr. Herbert Cole, professor and head of Penn State's plant pathology department. "We hope this conference raises awareness of the need for sustainability and serves as a building block in developing sustainable agriculture in Pennsylvania."

The conference will feature workshops, panel discussions and presentations by noted researchers and successful farmers. Topics include soil health and nutrient management; livestock, field crop, fruit and vegetable production; marketing; and sources of technical assistance. Speakers will include Dr. Lamartine Hood, dean of Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, and Boyd Wolff, Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture.

"Sustainable agriculture no longer can be considered a glorified name for organic or back-to-earth farming," said Tim Bowser, conference coordinator and Penn State research technologist in entomology. "It represents everything from conservation tillage, integrated pest management, and large-scale composting to marketing of specialty agricultural products. One goal of the conference is to encourage formation of a statewide network to help farmers adopt more of these practices."

For information on conference registration, contact the Sustainable Agriculture Conference, The Pennsylvania State University, 306 Ag Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802, (814) 865-8301.

Program Helps Get Rid Of Old Pesticides

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — A pilot program offered by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and Penn State Cooperative Extension will help agricultural producers in six counties dispose of old and potentially dangerous pesticides free of charge.

The program, called Chemsweep, will be tested in Bedford, Fulton, Lebanon, Lehigh, Snyder and Union counties, and eventually could be expanded statewide. Farmers in these counties have until Feb. 4 to sign up for the program.

"Chemsweep allows farmers to get rid of banned or outdated pesticides at no charge," said Dr. Winand K. Hock, professor of plant pathology and director of Penn State's Pesticide Education Program.

Producers can obtain information and a chemical disposal form from their local Penn State Cooperative Extension office, said Hock. Disposal will be arranged by the Department of Agriculture after a complete list of outdated pesticides has been developed.

Growers of all agricultural commodities will be eligible to participate in Chemsweep in the pilot counties. "Mushroom growers, nursery and greenhouse operators, Christmas tree farmers, and all crop and livestock producers are eligible," Hock said. "But commercial and public applicators, pesticide dealers, and homeowners are not eligible."

The program will accept any pesticide with a registration number from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) or with a prior U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) identification number.

Unidentified materials will be accepted only if they can be identified by PDA's pesticide laboratory. Materials labeled for homeowner use will not be accepted.

If you have unknown materials stored on your farm, check the containers for labels and collect information on what crop or pest the material may have been used for.

"When a list of old pesticides for each county is complete, the pesticides will be collected either at a central collection facility in the county or directly from their current storage location," Hock said.

Growers from the six participating counties who are interested in Chemsweep should contact their local Penn State Cooperative Extension office for more information.

Brillion's new ML Series 03 Pulvi-Mulchers offer a variety of new features for better seedbed preparation.

Pulvi-Mulcher Features High-Clearance Frame

BRILLION, Wis. — Brillion's new ML Series 03 Pulvi-Mulchers offer a variety of new features for better seedbed preparation.

The new 18'9" model features a rigid, non-folding frame with a transport width of 19'6".

"We extended the frame of the ML Pulvi-Mulchers for improved trash flow," said Carl Miller, sales manager. "On the Series 03 we also added a longer, heavier drawbar to accommodate tractors with dual wheels. Plus, the drawbar allows for shorter turns."

Another added feature of the Series 03 is the new, larger 1-1/2" self-aligning bearings, which are externally mounted for easy service.

The ML Pulvi-Mulcher is available in a choice of easy rolling 20" ductile iron notched or crowfoot roller wheels.

"Ductile iron is two and a half times stronger than gray cast iron," said Miller. "With Brillion ML Pulvi-Mulchers, our customers get the highest quality ductile iron wheel, plus a five-year limited warranty against breakage."

The ML series offer reversible scrapers for the notched wheels. The scrapers adjust up and down and sideways to match the wear of the wheels.

"The dependability, strength, and durability of the Pulvi-Mulcher ensure long wear and quality performance," said Miller.

The new Series 03 Pulvi-Mulchers are available with "S" tines or conventional "C" shaped spring teeth to loosen and mix the soil for better moisture control. Twenty-eight models are available from 12'6" to 18'9" operating widths to accommodate any farm size.

Cargill Introduces 7 Corn Hybrids

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Seven new corn hybrids have been introduced by Cargill Hybrid Seeds for spring planting.

Dr. Jack Carlson, corn product manager, said less than one percent of the hybrid combinations that Cargill initially screens are eventually marketed to farmers.

"These seven hybrids have proven exceptional performance in company tests for at least three years and in on-farm tests for at least two years," he said.

Carlson provided the following product descriptions:

• Cargill Hybrid Seeds 1727, (80-day relative maturity). This hybrid has very good yield potential and standability for its maturity.

• Cargill Hybrid Seeds 2217 (85-day relative maturity). The hybrid is noted for its stalk quality, grain quality, and yield stability.

• Cargill Hybrid Seeds 6269, (110-day relative maturity). The hybrid has good grain quality and stress tolerance and consistent yield. It is especially well adapted to eastern areas such as New York and Pennsylvania.

• Cargill Hybrid Seeds 7177 (115-day relative maturity). The hybrid features excellent stress tolerance, yield stability, and standability.

• Cargill Hybrid Seeds 8177 (118-day relative maturity). This hybrid has performed extremely well in high-yielding, irrigated environments in Nebraska, Kansas, and the Texas high plains. It should work well as a companion hybrid in similar maturity regions.

• Cargill Hybrid Seeds 9100W (120-day relative maturity). This is a premium, full-season white corn. It has excellent quality characteristics.

• Cargill Hybrid Seeds 9197 (122-day relative maturity). This three-way hybrid has the larger seed sizes that are desired in some areas. It is noted for improved root quality and consistency.

A new bag that's easier to use and more efficient will help the planting season go smoother for corn growers this spring. DowElanco is introducing the new bag for Lorsban™ 15G granulat insecticide as a result of input from farmers.

Bag Streamlines Insecticide Handling

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa — A new insecticide bag is taking some of the hassle out of the busy corn planting season. And that's just fine with corn growers.

The new bag is a result of market research that shows corn growers want insecticides in packaging that is more convenient and efficient.

DowElanco surveyed corn growers and, as a result, developed a bag to meet growers' needs. Starting this season, corn growers across the United States can purchase Lorsban™ 15G granular insecticide in the new bag.

"Growers told us they wanted a package that would be easier to open and use," said Kim Bohlander, product marketing manager for Lorsban 15G insecticide. "They also wanted something that would minimize their exposure to a product. We listened to the growers and the result is the new bag."

The farmer-designed bag is made of a single-ply, water- and tear resistant material and features a carrying handle and an easy-to-open pour spout. The handle allows growers to easily carry two bags at once, away from their bodies. The innovative spout provides better pouring control. The bag is also designed so growers can easily carry, open and pour the insecticide while wearing gloves.

For decades the industry standard for insecticide bags has been a four-ply paper bag. Growers typically use their pocket knives to open the bags and often have bits of paper clog the insecticide boxes. Moisture is also a concern with paper bags. The new bag will help alleviate these problems.

The bag was used on a limited basis in the Northeast in 1991. Pennsylvania corn grower Darrell Schlegel, farm manager from Oley, said he likes the bag because it is easier to handle.

"The bag is unique," Schlegel said. "It's much easier to use and you don't have to worry as much about touching the product. It's easy to open and dump out. You don't have to cut the bag."

Corn growers in the Midwest also have tried the bag extensively. Bud Greiner grows 2,200 acres of corn near Reinbeck, Iowa. He likes the water-resistant feature of the bag.

"There is nothing worse than having to stop the planter and drive at truck load of insecticide into the shed when rain showers blow up," Greiner said. "That feature alone saves time and money."

Greiner also likes the easy-open spout on the new package because he no longer needs to pull out a knife to open his insecticide bags.

"I just pop the bag open with a quick snap and I'm on my way." Greiner said.

Lorsban 15G insecticide is a corn rootworm insecticide used by corn growers across the United States. It also controls cutworms, wireworms, and other soil insects.

According to Bohlander, corn growers can buy Lorsban 15G insecticide in its new bag from agrichemical dealers in 1992.

County Offers Tree Seedlings

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Conservation District is accepting orders for evergreen and hardwood tree seedlings.

The seedlings may be used for yard plantings, energy-saving windbreaks, erosion control, living fences, shade, and to reduce carbon dioxide levels.

Available evergreens include White Pine, Douglas Fir, Fraser Fir, Scotch Pine, Blue Spruce, and Eastern Hemlock. Hardwoods include Sugar Maple, Red Oak, and Black Gum. Additional plantings include white and red Rhododendrons and Streamco Willow.

Black gum is a beautiful, native tree with brilliant fall colors ranging from orange-yellow to scarlet to purple. It is one of the most consistent and most beautiful trees in fall. The small fruit is eaten by many species of birds and mammals.

The conservation feature is Streamco Willow, a fast-growing small shrub often used for stabilization along streambanks and ponds. The 8-10 ft. shrub has purplish branches which turn grey as the shrub matures.

All evergreens are sold in bundles of 10 of the same species for $4.25. Hardwoods and Rhododendrons are sold individually for $1.75 and $3.25 each, respectively. All seedlings are available at discount prices for bulk orders.

Order forms are available at local grocery stores or from the District Office, 2120 Cornwall Rd, Suite 5, Lebanon, PA 17042-9788, (717) 272-3377.

Watch For Unproven Claims

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Just like any other business, the hog industry is sometimes a target for products that seem too good to be true.

But you can check these products out, said an extension swine specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Most hog farmers are great at spotting bogus products," said Dr. Kenneth Kephart, associate professor of dairy and animal science. "But there are still general recommendations you should follow before buying newly created products, especially when the people selling them make extreme claims."

One way to verify claims is to look for published research on the product. The research should come from studies conducted in a controlled manner by universities or private companies. Be wary of results cited in advertisements, which might give inaccurate or incomplete facts.

Kephart said farmers should try to find producers or feed companies who already use the product — but not people listed in company literature — and ask how the product has worked for them.

"Even when talking to salespeople," Kephart said, "you sometimes can spot statistics that will identify bogus products. For example, a feed additive on the market is claimed to improve feed conversion during the finisher phase by 30 percent. This degree of improvement is unheard of, if not impossible. Even daily injections of growth hormone — at twice the dosage the FDA is supposedly considering for approval — would improve feed conversion by only 20 percent."

Cost is another important factor to consider when looking at new products, Kephart said. Supposing a company's claims are accurate, are the benefits — no matter how great they might seem at first — actually worth the cost of purchasing the product?

"If the company really believes in its product, it might be willing to let you use the product at its expense," Kephart said. "After an established trial period, if the product is doing what it claims, you can reimburse the company. If the product isn't, then it's the company's expense, not yours.

"Keep in mind that bogus products are the exception, not the rule," Kephart said. "Most products are safe and reliable — it's just important to keep an eye out for ones with unproven claims."

Ag Teachers Honor Members

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "October is Beef Month," a checkoff-funded public relations campaign developed by the Pennsylvania Beef Council, earned top honors in the producer-funded public relations category of the Chesapeake Chapter of the National Agri-Marketing Association (NAMA). The entree will now advance to compete in the national competition.

The "October is Beef Month" promotion included a direct-mail booklet which highlighted the contributions of Pennsylvania's beef industry. The booklet and accompanying press releases and radio public service announcements were mailed to daily and weekly newspapers throughuut the state and select radio stations. A slightly revised version of the booklet was sent to high school libraries across Pennsylvania, where it will serve as an industry reference manual.

Ag-Chem Acquires Spra-Kart Line

WILLIAMSBURG, Iowa — Ag-Chem Equipment Co., Inc. and Kinze Manufacturing have reached an agreement in Ag-Chem's acquisition of the Kinze's Spra-Kart product line.

This acquisition includes Kinze's heavy duty 500 gallon, 1000 gallon, and 1,600 gallon pull-between Spra-Kart's only.

Manufacturing will be at Ag-Chem's 250,000 sq. ft. plant located in Jackson, Minn., and distributed through Ag-Chem's 16 regional parts centers. These regional centers distribute Ag-Chem's line of sprayers and parts to farm equipment and fertilizer dealers for resale to farmers.

Ag-Chem also manufactures the Terra-Gator and Big A high flotation equipment for the fertilizer and chemical application industry.

NEW From Zook
BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

The Eby Wrangler...
★ Better Looking ★ Better Built
★ Better Value

The Wrangler Model 2000-OH represents a new level of value in livestock trailers.

Its standard specifications, top-quality components and proven engineering are found in other Wrangler models. But the new 2000-OH is less expensive. By standardizing height and width and by limiting the number of optional accessories, Eby lowers the production costs for this model. Now you can get all our traditional craftsmanship in a top-value gooseneck.

Unlike other "budget" trailers on the market, the Wrangler 2000-OH achieves a price breakthrough without compromising quality. Consider these features, standard on the new Wranger 2000-OH:

- 7,000# Dexter Torque-Flex axles
- Steel-belted radial tires, 10-ply rating
- Aerodynamic, attractive design
- Sealed beam lights with enclosed, externally accessible wiring
- 2-year warranty

Specifications

- Available in 14', 16', 18', 20' lengths
- 7' Width
- 6'6" Inside height

Give Your Pigs A Headstart To Market.

There's an old saying that goes, "well begun is half done." Those are words to remember if you want to get the most for your pigs come market time. Something else to remember is the Master Mix line of starter feeds: Crate-Mate, Premawean and Premapig.

Crate-Mate is the sow replacer that gets even your smallest runts and orphans off to a healthy, profitable start. And Premawean/Premapig is the two phase program that gets your pigs in and out of the nursery with the fastest, leanest gains in the business.

Talk to your Master Mix dealer today. Because if you want to give your pigs a healthy headstart to market, you'll want to give them the Master Mix line of starter feeds.

CRATE-MATE™ THE SOW REPLACER

Premawean™ EARLY WEANING RATION

Premapig™ STARTER RATION

This Little Piggy Went To Market.

CRATE-MATE™ THE SOW REPLACER

If you're looking to increase your operation's profits, getting runts and orphaned pigs to market is a whole lot better than the alternative. And thanks to Crate-Mate, the pelleted sow replacer from Master Mix, little guys like this can get off to a healthier and potentially more profitable start.

But Crate-Mate does more than just reduce your litter's mortality rate. It can be an integral part of your entire early weaning program. Crate-Mate's special formula allows your pigs to extract more nutrition from the feed, for faster and more efficient gains. And the quicker they get into the nursery, the faster you realize your profits.

If you're looking to increase the efficiency of your early weaning program, talk to your Master Mix dealer. Because when it comes to getting little piggies to market, nothing works like Crate-Mate.

Finch Services Earns Safety Recognition

HANOVER (York Co.) — Finch Services-Hanover recently earned recognition from John Deere for achieving its goal in John Deere's Bypass Start Safety Program.

Brad Finch (co-owner) accepted the award on behalf of Finch Services-Hanover from Dave Kastler, area service manager of John Deere, during a presentation ceremony at the dealership recently.

"Customer safety is very important to us here at Finch Services. We believe that any safety program offered by John Deere will benefit our farmer customer such as the Bypass Start Safety Program," said Brad Finch.

The program is part of John Deere's effort to educate customers about the danger of bypass starting. Bypass starting is a general term for any starting method that bypasses the safety features designed into the starting system or departs from the proper starting procedure. Examples include shorting across the starter solenoid with a metal object and starting the tractor with a key from the ground.

"Bypass starting is a dangerous practice because it places the operator on the ground in front of a drive wheel of the tractor. If the operator bypass starts the tractor while it's in gear, he will likely be run over," said Brad Finch.

Brad Finch said that bypass starting is not unique to a particular brand or type of tractor. He urged all tractor operators to follow the correct starting procedure outlined in the operator's manual and never attempt to bypass-start a tractor.

John Deere's Bypass Start Safety Program involves most John Deere tractors built since 1960. The program calls for John Deere dealers to install a safety-start kit (starter solenoid cover and bypass start warning decal) on every qualifying tractor in their service areas and inspect the tractor's starting system. There is no charge to the customer for the kit, installation, inspection, or travel time. Those dealers who completed 100% of their assignments by a certain date were recognized by John Deere for their efforts.

"There still may be some tractors or owners we have been unable to identify," said Brad Finch. "If this is the case, we urge these individuals to call the dealership immediately so we can schedule a technician to install a free safety-start kit and conduct a free inspection of the starting system." The telephone number to contact Allen (service manager) is (717) 632-2345.

E-I-E-I-O

From Dairy and Animal Science at Penn State

Editor's note: Penn State Professor of Animal Science Lowell L. Wilson recently spoke before The Philadelphia Society for Promoting Agriculture. His topic was "Animal Agriculture: Its Role in Human Nutrition and Efficient Utilization of Agricultural Crops." Here is what he had to say about anticipated industry changes.

Farmers and other professionals in agriculture must communicate with the consuming public and be proactive. But we must also initiate dialogue with the public — particularly those concerned about our methods of animal production (effects on the animal) and the wholesomeness and nutritive value of our products (effects on the human). There are some changes which will help the animal industries survive and prosper:

Production per animal per acre. If we are to compete with alternative foods — foods either of plant origin or from another country — we must increase production efficiency. This does not necessarily mean increased production per animal or per acre, but it does assume that we seek the most economical production levels. There is a difference between optimum production level and maximum production level, and we must learn to optimize production, even if this means reducing production per animal.

Animal care systems. Critical research is lacking in this area, although progressive producers and marketers are concerned about the handling of animals and are attempting to improve their facilities and attitudes. The effects of environmental control and confinement systems on the animal are expensive to research, but necessary. More animal behavior research is needed to evaluate systems and to more adequately define the animal's well-being.

Farming systems. It is difficult to be flexible in the type of animal and crop agriculture practiced on a given farm and at the same time be specialized. Our larger dairies, feedlots, and swine units, for instance, require concentrated expertise and would not benefit from an additional farm enterprise. But many small- to moderate-sized operations would benefit from changing directions with regard to type of animal enterprise.

Marketing the animal. Seldom do our marketing systems reward the producer for the desired type of lean but acceptable animal. The pork industry has made improvements but this has been spotty around the country. Efforts must be applied to marketing animals in ways that more fairly reward the producers of desired types.

Marketing the product. Marketing improvements include increasing convenience, more effective packaging, reducing fat content, increasing shelf life, and "generic" merchandising. Most of the commodity checkoff programs are oriented toward manipulating and marketing the product. There will be significant research achievements reported within the next few years.

Quality assurance. Quality assurance includes absence of bruises, carcass trim, injection site blemishes, and antibiotic or other residues in the product. There has been a concerted, cooperative effort among pharmaceutical companies, industry leaders, producers, veterinarians, and university personnel to reduce these losses and violations. The programs have been successful even though they have been in effect only a few years. But all animal producers and marketers must be reached, and the causes and remedies of the problems better defined.

Reducing fat, maintaining acceptability. In meats, we need to be concerned about reducing fat content of the carcass through breeding and management changes, although increased fat trimming on hot and cold carcasses has kept a lot of waste fat off the consumer's table. New methods of reducing fat — while maintaining consumer acceptability of fresh and processed meats — are being researched. The dairy industry will continue to develop and market low-fat products. There will be subtle genetic improvements to increase efficiency. Some of these changes in both meat and dairy animals will be through biotechnology.

Funding research in recessionary times. Several studies have confirmed the economic value of agricultural research to both the agricultural and nonagricultural segments of society. Yet investment of real dollars by industry and government in research varies directly with the status of the economy. In recessionary periods, such as we are experiencing now, the commitment of dollars to research becomes a low priority. This is a concern not only in agriculture, but in all industries. If research truly contributes to making an industry, a company, or a nation competitive, then decreasing commitment to research and development reduces that competitiveness — long after the recession has ended. There is an increasing need for nongovernment funding of research — commodity checkoff programs, private firms and foundations, and individuals. But it is imperative that high priority be given by state and federal governments to research funding. Lack of continued, reliable research funding impedes progress.

Animal agriculture has a tremendous tradition, one of which we can be proud. But consumer concerns and issues — if not neutralized by means of communication and industry research and change — may reduce the acceptability and consumption of animal products.

There promise to be more changes in animal production and processing during the next 10 years than in the past 30 years. We are no longer in the beef, pork, or dairy business — we all are in the food business.

The American Veal Association Quality Assurance Education Program, for producers and others in the veal industry, has issued a statement of charge appropriate for all of animal agriculture: "We are not producing animals. We are providing food for families."

Poultry Seminar Paves Way To Better Management

GEORGETOWN, Del. — Delmarva's poultry growers will learn ways to save money and to improve their management techniques at the 5th annual Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. (DPI) Grower Educatonal Seminar.

The seminar, open to all poultry growers free of charge, will be held Wednesday, February 19, at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center, Salisbury, Md.

The seminar is planned by DPI's Grower Committee, one of the many DPI projects designed for the thousands of DPI's grower members.

"We've designed a day-long program that should be of interest to all growers," said DPI Grower Committee Chairman Bill Bruning of Snow Hill, Md. "Whether growers attend to hear the speakers, visit the trade show, or both, they are sure to learn something that will benefit them."

Topics include energy savings in poultry houses, better record-keeping to improve profitability, poultry health programs, environmental programs for growers, and how growers benefit from a trade association such as DPI.

The seminar will begin at 8:30 a.m. with a trade show. Exhibitors will include equipment suppliers, insurance and financial services companies, manufacturers of poultry health products, and several government/university agencies. More than 40 booths will be open until 3 p.m.

A lunch will be available for all who attend. Lunch tickets cost $5.25 each and must be ordered thorugh the DPI office by February 12. No tickets will be sold at the door.

For further information about the seminar, contact the DPI office at (302) 856-9037 or R.D. 2, Box 47, Georgetown, DE 19947-9622.

Art Exhibit Promotes Rare Breed Conservation

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — An unusual combination of art and agriculture may help to save some rare farm animals from extinction.

The Art of American Livestock Breeding, organized by Pennsylvania cattleman John Dawes and the American Minor Breeds Conservancy, will be exhibited Feb. 7 through March 29 in Penn State's Palmer Museum of Art at University Park.

This collection of paintings, many by renowned artists of the 19th century, depicts livestock breeds which are in danger of dying out.

"We are a nation descended from farmers, and we hope these paintings raise awareness of that heritage," said Dawes, who raises Angus beef cattle and Milking Shorthoms on his Huntingdon County farm. "It takes the work of many lifetimes to develop a breed of livestock, and the American Minor Breeds Conservancy is not willing to throw that away."

Created before the widespread use of photography, the paintings in the exhibit are a permanent record of breeds once considered to be of major importance to production agriculture. Many of these breeds declined as they were replaced by animals that grow or reproduce faster.

"The Conservancy believes there's a need to maintain genetic diversity," Dawes said. "Different breeds have a place in different regions, depending on factors such as soil type and climate."

The need to maintain genetic diversity in livestock is not lost on animal scientists. "In our rapidly changing world, it's difficult to ensure that we have an animal that will thrive in a particular environment," said Dr. Stanley Curtis, professor and head of Penn State's dairy and animal science department.

"If we can preserve that diversity, then with modern techniques in breeding and genetic engineering, we can sometimes bring back desirable traits of rare breeds," Curtis said. "It would be a mistake to let these breeds wither away."

The traveling exhibit is meant to call attention to the work of the Conservancy, including support for the registration of rarer breeds. "The registry office for Ayrshires recently closed because there aren't enough animals registered to pay for office staff and computer support," Dawes said. "The Conservancy is gearing up to be a registrar for breeds in that situation."

The exhibit has been on display in the Washington, D.C., area and in Hagerstown, Md. It will move to Pittsburgh after its Penn State engagement.

James C. Justice, Beckley, WV was named National Champion, Class A, non-irrigated div. with a yield of 228.6753 bushels per acre using HYTEST HT686.

Joe Hasbrouck Jr., Kingston, NY was named New York State Champion, Class A, non-irrigated div., with a yield of 202.7297 bushels per acre using HYTEST HT650A.

PROVEN PERFORMANCE
HYTEST with 9 state winners in 1990, has placed in the top four nationally for 4 years. It's a record of performance that many large seed companies envy.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT
A regional farm seed company, established in 1912, HYTEST employs the same careful breeding, testing and selection process that went into producing these champion hybrids, into all of its varieties. And they're all potential champions!

HYBRID SELECTION
HYTEST Territory Managers and Regional Agronomists are trained to select the best variety for your particular growing conditions. They follow up with technical assistance right through harvest time.

PRESIDENTS CHOICE
Each season HYTEST President, Joe Butwin selects a list of favorite varieties after reviewing test plots, demonstration plots and numerous growers' fields. Both old standbys and choice experimentals are often included.

THE 1991 CHOICES ARE:

Outreach Luncheon Set

WESTMINSTER, Md. — The fifth annual Fellowship of Christian Farmers outreach luncheon will be held Saturday, February 29, from 12:15 p.m.-2:30 p.m. (11:45 a.m. seating) at Friendly Farms Restaurant on Route 140 south of Westminster, Md.

This year's featured speaker is Jerry A. Carlson. Senior editor of "Professional Farmers of America" and editor of "LandOwner" newsletter, Carlson holds a masters degree in economics and journalism from Iowa State University.

Previously a managing editor at "Farm Journal," Carlson cofounded "Professional Farmers of America" with Merrill Oster in 1972, which offers a vast array of news and market services to the nation's farmers.

Carlson, his wife Jill, and their three children operate a 160-acre farm, where they conduct scientific field trials to develop profitable, environmentally safe concepts. As a result, Carlgon conducts a series of renewable farming seminars on land stewardship.

Carlson is also the designer of the Fellowship of Christian Farmers emblem, the cross of the wheat.

This year's special music will be provided by Cyndi Garber, wife of a farmer and mother of three. Her husband Phil, a farmer in Mount Joy, Pennsylvania, was Master Farmer of the Year in 1991.

For ticket information, call Dave Sparks at (410) 239-8480. Buffet luncheon tickets are $6.90.

Many Topics Uncovered At Dairy Day

YORK (York Co.) — Approximately 60 people attended the York County Dairy Day held recently in Winterstown.

The program started with Dan McFarland, multicounty ag engineering agent, who discussed improving cow comfort through proper ventilation, cow cooling, and sprinkler systems.

The group then learned about the new Dairy Quality Assurance Program from Don Breiner, manager of quality control and field services of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative.

After a mid-morning break, Dr. Marvin Hall of the Penn State Agronomy Department discussed "Hay Forage Management for Quality." And Dr. Dick Adams of Penn State Dairy Extension gave very informative presentations on early lactation and dry cow management and feeding.

After lunch, Marvin Hall discussed "Intensive/Rotational Pasturing — a Viable Option." And following Hall's presentation, farmers Axel Linde of Lindenhof Farms, Lancaster County and Glenn Moyer, Holstein and Jersey breeder of Somerset County, discussed their experiences with rotational grazing.

York 4-H Beef Honors Extension Secretary

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

SEVEN VALLEYS (York Co.) — York extension secretary Kathy Wise had the tables turned on her when the 4-H beef club named her its outstanding award winner for 1992.

The surprise honor was announced during the club's annual banquet and awards program, held Jan. 25 at the Seven Valleys Fire Company hall.

For 14 years, Wise had helped to surprise the annual outstanding award honorees of the beef club, gathering biographical information and compiling the booklets for each year's awards dinner.

In addition to her work with the beef club, Kathy assists with other 4-H programs and handles extension secretarial responsibilities for various adult livestock programs. She also works closely with the board of the York County 4-H Center.

From the left, Jason Rankin, Amy Trowbridge, Sandy Eisenhour and Robin Shive receive attendance awards as members of the York 4-H Beef Club.

Special recognition is given to 4-H Beef Club winners of the 1991 York Fair. From the left are Kenley Jo Myers, Jen Sweitzer, Shawn Waltimyer, Keith Grubb, and Suzanne Bishard.

Kathy serves as secretary of the South Central Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association. A member of the state and national Angus associations, she has a small herd of Angus beef cows at her family's farm near Spring Grove.

She is also a member of the Pennsylvania Angus Ladies Auxiliary and has chaired the state's Angus queen contest.

Actively involved at the Mt. Zion United Church of Christ in Spring Grove, Kathy is a youth Sunday School teacher and former junior department superintendent.

Others were also recognized.

Two leaders of the York beef club were honored for their years of service to the 4-H program. Daniel Shive, Seven Valleys, has worked with York 4-H beef members for 37 years. Charles Sunday, York, is a 30-year leader with the beef program.

Special recognition was extended during the awards presentations to Bill Campbell, own-

Best on the Farm

Alfalfa grower Robert Grossnickle of Woodsboro, MD planted Medallion on his "Johnsville Farms" located in Frederick County in the spring of 1990. Two years later, he reports, "we've grown some other alfalfas but we like Medallion best. Medallion is definitely a thicker stand and very leafy clear down to the ground. Because we know it's our best quality, we always feed it to the cows first. We think it's the best value for the cost of starting a new stand. (Photo above)

NFU Sets Political Agenda For Economy

WASHINGTON, DC — Leaders of the 250,000-member National Farmers Union, troubled by the faltering U.S. economy, have announced a plan they say will stimulate the economy if policy-makers will adopt it.

Dubbed an "Economic Recovery Package — Revitalizing Foundation Industries," the NFU proposal examines twelve economic segments and offers solutions for their recovery.

In announcing the package during a Washington news conference, Farmers Union President Leland Swenson told reporters that it would focus on jobs, housing, money and credit, the deficit, infrastructure improvement, health care, tax reform, energy, the environment, trade, hunger, and of course, food and agriculture.

"The current recession is the longest in the post World War II period," said Swenson. "Since January of 1989, over two million more people have become unemployed. Five million more people have had to resort to food stamps."

For the U.S. to recover, the farm leader says national priorities must be redefined.

The farm organization's specific recommendations include a reformed farm policy that would set higher support prices on commodities in order to stimulate real markets; a public works program to create jobs; a more progressive federal income tax structure; a national energy strategy aimed at self-sufficiency; and, a national health insurance program.

Swenson said their are a couple of reasons why a farmers' group is touting a broad-based package

"Because the purchasing power of people in rural America and in cities has eroded. The farm economy is a disaster, and when consumers have less money to spend on food it makes the problem even worse," Swenson said.

"Also, people from all sectors must have the wherewithal to reinvest in our economy if it is to grow and strengthen."

NFU leaders say they hope their package will become a catalyst for discussion during the 1992 presidential and congressional campaigns.

"A lot of people are going to say they have a plan for economic recovery this election year. Our goal is to go on record with a specific set of proposals that can be put into effect and that will stimulate the economy and help people. What we all have to do now is demand that our elected officials make it happen," Swenson said.

York 4-H Beef Honors

er of the Hoss's restaurants chain, for his support for the York 4-H meats judging team's attendance at national competition in Kansas City.

Lebanon County auctioneer Harry Bachman was honored by the club for donating his time and auctioneering talents to the annual beef club roundup sales.

Five beef club members were honored as Roll Call winners, an award based on their management and scoring in a presentation made at each meeting.

Top winner was Sandy Eisenhour, Wellsville, with a 4.7 score average. Second place went to Robin Shive, Seven Valleys, with a 4.5 average, while Jason Rankin, Abbottstown, was third with a 3.9 average.

Rookie Roll Call recipients were Amy Trowbridge, Spring Grove, first place, and Astasia Smith, Felton, second.

Special plaques, presented by Bill Dietz of W.D. Angus Ranch, East Prospect, went to winners at the York Fair. Recipients of the Dietz awards were Shawn Waltimyer, Airville, champion steer, Kenley Jo Myers, Dallastown, champion fitter, Jen Sweitzer, Seven Valleys, rookie fitter, Keith Grubb, Hanover, champion age 15-19 division fitter, and Suzanne Bishard, York, champion age 9-14 division fitter.

"Roasted" during the awards ceremonies were outgoing club members Kenley Jo Myers, Tina Hetrick, Ed Livingston and Sandy Eisenhour.

Entertainment for the dinner was by the "beef club players," presenting a series of humorous skits.

2 Top National Limousin Show

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — Limousin exhibitors from 23 states and three Canadian provinces led out class after class of quality-rich entries recently at the National Western Limousin open show in Denver.

Judge Steve Reimer of Chamberlain, South Dakota and Associate Judge, Scott Schakke of Lawrence, Kansas complimented the 139 females and 66 bulls overall for their structure and functionality.

In retrospect, the genetics of the field were deep, also, considering the 18 division champions and reserve champions were sired by 15 different bulls.

When the dust settled, Stewman Ranches of Maryneal, Texas emerged victorious in the bull show with the Division II and grand champion, MAGS Yarborough, a 9/2/90 Polled Power son out of MK Shelly Wood.

J&L Straight of Logan, Iowa teamed up with Symens Brothers of Amherst, South Dakota and Keeton Limousin of Lubbock, Texas to exhibit the reserve Division II champion and reserve grand champion bull overall. Straight Effort is a 9/12/90 Extra Effort son out of PLCC Victoria.

On the female side of the fence, Sullivan Limousin of Dunlap, Iowa brought out the Division IV and grand champion female with EAFM Cookie, a 1/4/90 Polled Power daughter out of WLCC Sable.

JCL Molly, a 1/24/91 TEXS Ranger Primo daughter out of SWPL Navajo Maiden, was named Division II champion and reserve grand champion female for JCL Cattle Company of Welch, Oklahoma.

JCL also had the Division I champion female with JCL Miss Mesa, a half-sister, a 3/23/91 Polled Power daughter out of SWPL Navajo Maiden.

Little Mondeaux Limousin of Genoa, Nevada had the reserve champion in Division I with LML Alluring 040A, a 3/15/91 Mr. Mondeaux 28U daughter out of LML Mondeaux Miss 259W.

GPFF Polled Ultress, a 10/4/90 Atlantic daughter out of DFLC Fresh Start, was reserve champion female in Division II for Yackley-CMC Limousin of Onida, South Dakota.

In Division III, Flying Dog Ranch of Woody Creek, Colorado led out the champion on FDR Beckett, a 5/10/90 Cressman Sky High daughter out of FDR Belvoir.

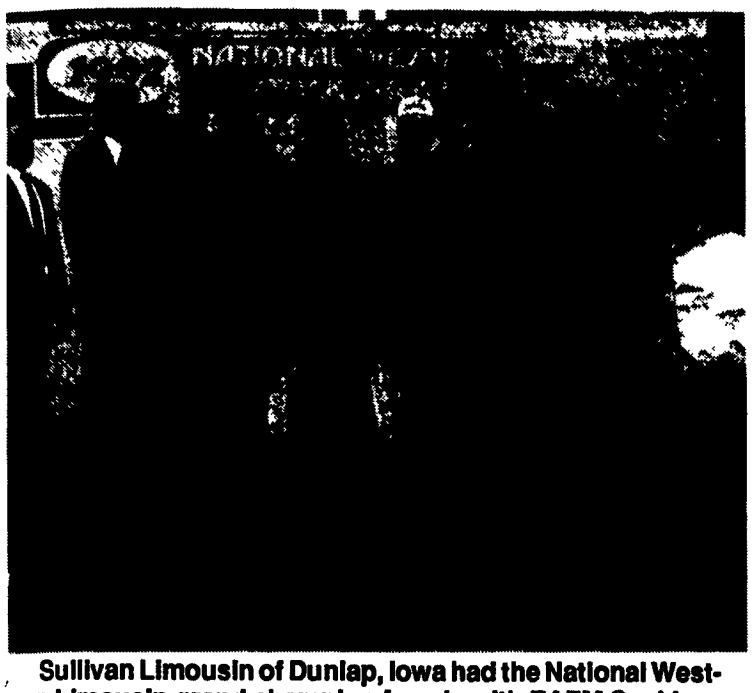
Leonard Wulf and Sons of Morris, Minnesota and Triple F Farms of Paris, Kentucky had the reserve champion in Division III with Wulf's Begonia 0200Y, a 4/23/90 Polled Pack Leader daughter out of YKCL Miss Earthquake 717U.

Yackley-CMC struck paydirt again with YKCC Barbara, a 3/28/90 YKCC Stakeout 157V daughter out of MAGS Specialty 198T.

Brett Celigoy of Buckley, Washington had the champion cow/calf pair with Highland Yamaha Dam 56Y, a 3/2/89 Highland Uptown daughter out of Highland Wishful that was exhibited with her 5/13/91 heifer calf by Extra Effort.

W-Bar Ranch of Ethel, Louisiana had the reserve champion cow/calf with SCF Roseanne 690W, a 9/6/88 Desperado female out of Yellow Rose 304R that was shown with her 5/19/91 SCF Nautilus

(Turn to Page D12)



Sullivan Limousin of Dunlap, Iowa had the National Western Limousin grand champion female with EAFM Cookie, a 1/4/90 Polled Power daughter out of WLCC Sable.

Stewman Ranches of Maryneal, Texas led out the grand champion Limousin bull at the National Western with MAGS Yarborough, a 9/2/90 Polled Power son out of MK Shelly Wood.

Observe Farm Tools, Machinery At Museum

WESTMINSTER, Md. — The Carroll County Farm Museum is accepting group tour reservations for the 1992 season.

Tour groups consisting of 20 or more people are welcome on weekdays in April 1992, Tuesday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Reservations are necessary.

Groups will have the opportunity to explore a bit of the past. This educational tour depicts 1800s farm family life and includes a guided tour through the Farmhouse.

There are self-guided tours through exhibit rooms where artisans may demonstrate period skills, out-building exhibitions of old-fashioned transportation, farming tools and farm machinery on display, a "hands-on" room, and farm animals to see. The General Store is open for business.

The museum will open weekends starting May 2 through October 25, 1992, noon until 5 p.m.

The museum will open weekdays July and August, 1992, Tuesday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Weekend hours continue until October 25, 1992, noon until 5 p.m.

The Farm Museum also provides a lovely backdrop for company picnics, family reunions, wedding receptions, or birthday parties. Pavilions may be reserved for a small fee for just such occasions.

Theme days will be an additional attraction. Visitors can explore various aspects of 19th century ways of life.

Scheduled theme days include a Victorian tea party in the flower garden and an Olde Tyme Puppet Theatre. Craft classes will be offered in the spring and fall.

For more information, contact the Carroll County Farm Museum, office, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., (410) 848-7775 or (410) 876-2667.

Auctioneers Attend Convention

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Sherman Allen and Richard Burrows, representing C. Sherman Allen, Auctioneer and Associates, just returned from the Pennsylvania Auctioneer Association Convention.

They attended seminars and instruction on such topics as hazardous waste, antique and collectible string instruments, personal property, real estate, agriculture, industrial, Wallace Nutting collectibles, and other topics.

Their firm received two awards in advertising and promotional categories of the state contest. They placed second in farm auction brochures and second in auction firm promotional pieces.

Allen placed second in the Pennsylvania State Bid Calling Contest. He also attended the Ohio Convention of Auctioneers held at Dublin, Ohio.

Wayne Patterson, president of the Pennsylvania Auctioneer Association, left, and Maria Ann Wynne, 1990-1991 Miss Pennsylvania congratulate Sherman Allen, auctioneer from Conneaut Lake, and present him his award for placing second in the Pennsylvania Auctioneers Bid Calling Contest held in Harrisburg.

In the bull show, the Division I champion was MLDY Patriot 125A, a 2/7/91 TEXS Ranger Primo son out of Goldenview Utopia. Exhibitors were Melody Farms of Grove, Oklahoma, Magness Land and Cattle of Platteville, Colorado and Symens Brothers.

BOVI Aerostar LCC 6A, a 2/10/91 Venture son out of Hilltopls Rainbow 192W earned reserve champion bull honors in Division I for Ferme Bovi Plus of St. Dominique, Quebec.

Leonard Wulf and Sons struck again with the Division IIr champion, Wulf's Challenger 6044Y, a 5/15/90 Roughly Ultrabright son out of Miss Wolfette 6044U.

Maple Lane Farms of Louisville, Ohio teamed up with McGee Cattle Company of Athens, Texas to show the reserve champion bull in Division III with NICO Polled Legacy, a 4/13/90 WLCC Dollar Bill son out of Maple Lane's Nicole.

Yackley-CMC continued a banner day by hooking up with Lenertz Farms of Roberts, Wisconsin to lead out the Division IV champion bull with YKCC Copy Cat 410X, a 9/6/89 Goldenview Top Cat son out of YKCL Contessa.

Little Mondeaux Limousin took another trip to the winner's circle with WLCC Polled Protocol, a 4/1/89 WLCC John Henry son out of YKCC Miss Atlantic 059S.

JCL Cattle Company was named premier exhibitor of the show. Yackley-CMC Limousin concluded the day by showing the best five head in group competition and breeder of the show.

SCRAPE, DIG, PULL, LOAD, MOW AND MORE

Estate owners, landscapers and farmers will appreciate the Kubota B-50 Series' wide choice of handy implements.

These include mid and rear mount mowers, front loaders, boxscrapers, backhoes, posthole diggers, snowblowers, even rotary tillers.

Kubota's remarkable B-50 Series compact tractors come with mid and 2-speed rear PTO. Optional Hydrostatic transmission. From 17-24 HP.

Kubota's optional "Bi-Speed Turn" system allows smaller and precise turns in 4-Wheel Drive, which makes mowing, and even loading more efficient.

Reverse air flow cooling directs radiator heat away from the operator for a comfortable, quiet ride. Low piston speed extends engine life.

The Kubota B-50 Series. Versatile compact tractors.

Simmental Association Signs Historic Agreement

BOZEMAN, Mont. — The American Simmental Association (ASA) has signed a historic agreement with the Mexican Simmental/Simbrah Association (MSSA).

Under the terms of the one-year agreement, ASA is providing custom records-processing service and a sire evaluation report for the MSSA.

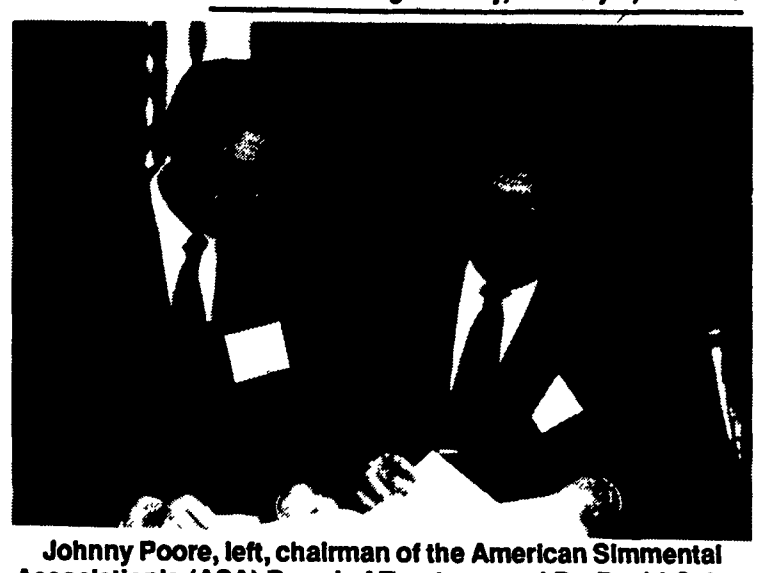
"We are very happy to be joining forces with our Simmental/Simbrah cattle-breeding neighbors from south of the border," said ASA Board chairman Johnny Poore, Barnesville, Ga. "Our two organizations have much in common through these two great breeds of cattle, and we both stand to benefit from this relationship."

Through an interpreter, MSSA President Dr. David Galvan of Monterrey, N.L., echoed Poore's comments. "This agreement marks a great step forward for my association. It is an opportunity to capitalize on the outstanding sire evaluation and records-keeping capability of the American Simmental Association."

Poore and Galvan finalized the agreement, affixing their signatures to the document during ASA's annual meeting and convention held recently in Denver.

Specific services to be performed by ASA include:

- Calculation of age-adjusted birth, weaning, and yearling weights.
- Herd summaries by sire for each breeder.
- A breed-wide sire evaluation for Simmental and Simbrah cattle through affiliation with the Animal Breeding Group at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y.
- Identification of outstanding cows through a cow awards program and listing of the cow's progeny.



Johnny Poore, left, chairman of the American Simmental Association's (ASA) Board of Trustees, and Dr. David Galvan, president of the Mexican Simmental/Simbrah Association (MSSA), sign a historic agreement under which the ASA will handle registration, data collection, and sire evaluation for the MSSA.

Directors On Franklin Board

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Five seats on the Franklin County Cooperative Extension Association's Board of Directors were filled at the recent 74th annual meeting of the association.

Incumbents re-elected included Linda Bender, to represent Letterkenny Township; Fran Horst, to represent Lurgan Township; and J. Thomas Stouffer, for Peters Township. The two new directors elected were James R. Diem, Willow Hill, to represent Metal Township; and Shirley Hawbaker, Welsh Run, to represent Montgomery Township.

Four additional association directors were seated by appointment during a special board meeting. These directors serve at large: Shirley Givіden, Waynesboro, was reappointed. Three new appointees include Marcus Martin, Mercersburg; Allen T. Brown, Chambersburg; and Miriam Lehman, Willow Hill.

All director's terms are for 3 years. The 27-member board will reorganize at their February 10 meeting.

FREE YOURSELF FROM SPREADER CHAINS AND SAVE MONEY

The proven Hydra-Spread design can free you from the grief and maintenance of spreader apron chains for good!

This low maintenance spreader features solid poly boards both on the sides and the floor for slippery, no-stick performance. Hydraulic push power replaces the extensive mechanism needed in ordinary spreaders.'

Why pay more for yesterday's ideas and designs? The design of tomorrow is PRICED RIGHT and will be on the job for years. We deliver to your farm.

ANNUAL CUSTOMER APPRECIATION DAY & SEMINARS

PARTS SPECIALS REFRESHMENTS

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1992

Dear Valued Customer:

This is your personal invitation to a special event at Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc. Once again, we have put forth great effort to assemble an exceptional program format for our 1992 CUSTOMER APPRECIATION DAY. We have selected relevant issues for our seminars and the resource people we've been able to enlist are well informed concerning their respective fields of involvement.

The following itinerary is a guide covering events of the day, but many activities, displays and other items of general interest will be ongoing throughout the day and evening.

7:00 A.M. Arrive at Binkley & Hurst Bros. early for parts specials before the rush. (Coffee & doughnuts)

7:00-10:00 A.M Visit manufacturers reps and equipment displays.

 SPECIAL NOTE ***

These three morning topics will qualify each farmer in attendance for necessary pesticide update points Two core and one category point will be given Our instructor is Mike Brubaker of Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service, Lititz

JOHN DEERE DAY

WORKING TOGETHER...A WAY OF LIFE

February 4, 1992

To celebrate another year of working together, let's get togther.

Rancher and actor Wilford Brimley... John Deere Day Spoksesperson

We worked hard together, so now let's get together at John Deere Day 1992! There's a whole line-up of activities, food, films (some featuring actor and rancher Wilford Brimley), and plenty of surprises too. Your neighbors will be there — so bring the whole family to John Deere Day. We'll be waiting for you!

WINCO PTO GENERATORS
Power fails at the worst possible time—restart your whole farm with the number one PTO generator the world over!

ENERGX Corporation, the world's largest PTO generator manufacturer, designs Winco PTO units from the ground up for farm standby power. Built to handle motor loads for the duration of the power outage, and rated for continuous duty operation.

Big motors in your feed room groan to a halt. Vent fans, milk coolers stop. There are no lights, no heating, and no power in the house. For how long? Nobody knows! But with a Winco PTO generator, your farm will be back in business in minutes.

Winco PTO generators are available in sizes from 8KW to 75KW continuous duty. The Maxi-Watt® field coil windings provide extra capacity to restart a big farm at the busiest time of the day.

Winco PTO units will run a combination motor load of up to 1 HP per KW.

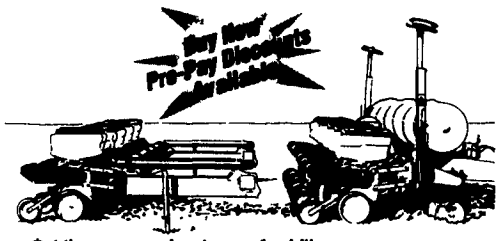
NEW FEATURE THIS YEAR!
Karcher Pressure Washers

Lancaster County's Only Factory Authorized White Farm Equipment Parts & Service Dealer

Just Back, Attach And Plant Narrow Rows



Get the canopy advantages of a drill with the accuracy and precision of a planter.

- Go from wide (40" to 30") rows to narrow rows (20" to 15") simply by adding our narrow row attachment
- Just a few simple steps and you're ready to plant
- Uses the same time-proven positive air metering system as our base planters for accurate spacing and precise depth control
- Select solid or skip row, semi-mounted or semi-mounted for White pull-type air planters
- Easy-to-fill, big, 2-bushel seed hoppers
- Interchangeable seed discs available for soybeans, corn, sweetcorn, popcorn, sorghum, milo, acid delinted cotton, sugar beets and others
- Ask about competitive financing plans

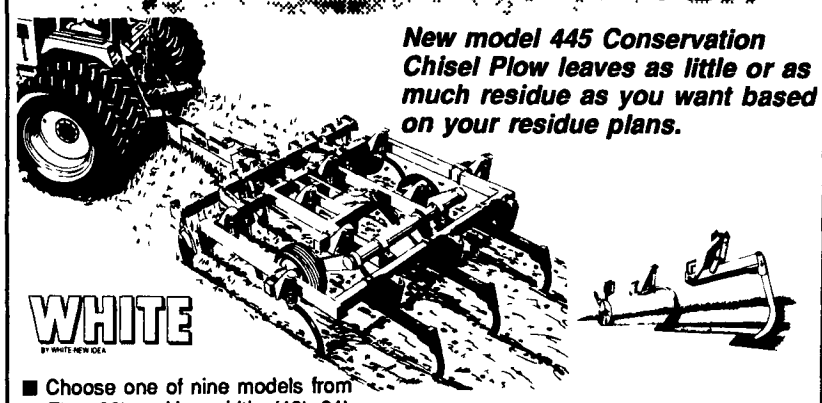
Bury A Little Residue Or A Lot



New model 445 Conservation Chisel Plow leaves as little or as much residue as you want based on your residue plans.

- Choose one of nine models from 7' to 23' working width. (19', 21' and 23' models fold flat).
- Rippled coulters and chisel points at 15" spacing leave more residue.
- Optional deep-till shanks till an extra 4-6" deeper than chisel shanks to reduce compaction problems and rip hardpan.
- Disc coulters and twisted shovels at 12" spacing leave less residue.
- Optional soil leveling bar provides a smoother secondary tillage pass.
- Ask your dealer about special low-rate financing.

Glides Through All Residue Levels

The New 230 Field Cultivator performs exceptionally well on conservation or conventional tillage acres.

- This is your ideal tillage tool because it does an excellent job on seedbed prep and preplant chemical incorporation. In many cases it'll be your one pass tillage tool too
- New 5 bar frame is constructed out of large 4"x4" tubing for extra strength
- "S" tines or "C" shanks are spaced farther apart for more residue clearance and less plugging
- Arrangement of shanks eliminates chemical stripping around tires
- Self leveling hitch with mechanical wing control keeps cultivator level front to rear and side to side
- Convenient hand crank depth control adjusts in 1/8" increments
- Choose 14 7" to 41 5" rigid flat or tent fold models
- Ask about competitive financing plans

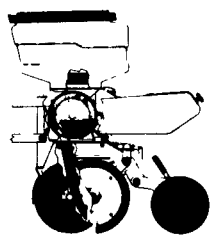
Simple and Accurate

The New 9000 Air Planters by New Idea



Positively Accurate
Our positive air metering system is the most simple and accurate planting system available today There are no fingers, belts, or seals. The only moving part is our edgedrop seed disc so the system is easy to maintain

Simple Preparation
Planting preparation has never been so simple You can quickly shift sprockets to adjust seeding rates The depth control adjustment is easy to reach and requires no wrenches And our new 2 bushel hoppers let you spend more time planting, and less time refilling

For your FREE New Idea 9000 Air Planter Information Kit Call 1-800-767-3221

I'll prove the new 9000 Air Planter is simple and accurate. Call me for a demo!

JOHN DEERE DAY

1992

To celebrate another year of working together, let's get together.

JOHN DEERE

Date: Monday, February 3rd
Time: 10:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Lunch will be served

We've worked hard together, so now let's get together at John Deere Day 1992! There's a whole line-up of activities, food, films (some featuring actor and rancher Wilford Brimley), and plenty of surprises, too. Your neighbors will be there — so bring the whole family to John Deere Day. We'll be waiting for you!

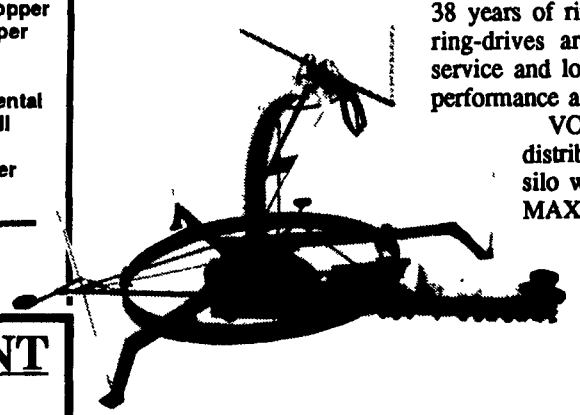
VOLUMAXX™ High-Capacity Silo Unloader



VOLUMAXX silo unloaders are the culmination of 38 years of ring-drive unloader experience. Jamesway ring-drives are well-known for high capacity, easy service and low maintenance. That all adds up to top performance and trouble-free operation.

VOLUMAXX features the POWERMAXX distributor option that lets you stretch your silo with up to 35% more capacity. POWERMAXX power distribution gives you a better pack, higher nutrient retention and better feed value. The result is higher production income and lower production costs.

Get The Best of Both Worlds... With Your Choice of Distribution
